NIP & PINCH
The Terrible Twins

You may be a lover of walking—until Nip and Pinch get on your track—then the love of walking disappears. They'll follow you furtively, await their chance—then jab, nip, pinch—your troubles commence. No more pleasure in walking, nothing but grumbles, you'll wish you were back at home. These two twins will delight in your grimaces of pain, your pain is their pleasure.

To obtain the full pleasures from walking—buy good fitting footwear—comfortable footwear—Bradley's footwear. Nip and Pinch will then strike in vain.

SUNDAY "BONA FIDE" HOURS.

JUSTICE AND PUBLIC MISAPPREHENSION.

At Kilmainham District Court yesterday, before District Justice Reddin, Mr. Thomas Corcoran, licensed vintner, Blanchardstown, applied to have the hours of opening on Sundays (1 to 8 p.m.) substituted to 2 to 9.

Mr. Thomas Greene, solicitor (Messrs. Roger Greene and Sons), who appeared for the applicant, said that the premises were not in the village of Blanchardstown, but on the Navan road, outside the village. A number of fishermen and pedestrians patronised the district, and the fact of the licensee having to close at 8 was prejudicial to him.

Superintendent Hughes opposed the application.

Similar applications were made by Mrs. Bridget Corcoran, Knockmaroon, and Mrs. Weldon, Ballymun. The former said that on Sundays many fishermen and golfers, also cross-Channel visitors, came to her house.

Superintendent Hughes opposed these applications also.

THE BALLYMUN BALL ALLEY.

In support of Mrs. Weldon's application, Mr. F. Sherry siad that the Ballymun ball alley was at these premises, and was a resort for numbers of sportsmen on Sundays. Mrs. Weldon catered for these people, and gave luncheons and teas.

Mr. Thomas Keegan, Secretary of the Irish Handball Association, described the ball alley at Ballymun as one of the best in the world.

Replying to Superintendent Hughes, he said that spectators came from all parts of the country to see the handball competitions. The All-Ireland finals were all played at Ballymun, and the Dublin matches were going on there all the summer.

The Justice—I have sometimes occupied a seat on the stand at these games.

Evidence was given by Sergeant Kavanagh, Castleknock, and Sergeant McCarthy, Finglas, both of whom stated that there was no need for the houses to be kept open till 9.

Sergeant McCarthy, in reply to Mr. Sherry, said that the players would require some refreshment after the games were over.

ONE ORDER GRANTED.

The Justice said that there seemed to be a misapprehension as to the nature and extent of any order which the Court might make. Previous to the framing of the Act of 1927, a bona fide traveller could get a drink at any hour on Sunday. This privilege was now curtailed, and the hours of opening were from 1 to 8.

The Court had power to make an order during the period of summer time that the houses be opened from 2 till 9. This was an order of substitution, and in no sense one of extension.

It was reasonable to assume that people would stay out as late as possible in the fresh air in the summer time. People who travelled out to country districts for the purpose of obtaining drink were not bona fide travellers, and cases of drunkenness should be dealt with by the Civic Guards under the existing criminal code, as also the overcrowding of 'buses and like offences.

With regret he refused the applications from Blanchardstown and Knockmaroon. He granted the application of Mrs. Weldon, Ballymun.

The orders granted, Mr. Reddin pointed out, would be subject to revision at the annual Licensing Sessions.

BODY IN THE LIFFEY.

SAILOR ON LEAVE HAILING FROM ARKLOW.

Dr. Louis A. Byrne, City Coroner, held an inquest, without a jury, in the City Morgue, Dublin, yesterday on Peter O'Brien (45), of 4 St. Patrick's terrace, Arklow, Co. Wicklow, whose body was found floating in the Liffey at the North Wall last Friday evening.

Matthew O'Brien, a brother, stated that the deceased man was a sailor, and had been home with his wife and family about nine weeks ago. He was then in good health.

Guard P. O'Shea, Store street Station, stated that while on duty last Friday he was informed that the body of a man had been seen floating in the river near the North Wall. He procured a boat and had the body taken from the water. The deceased man was identified from papers found on his body.

Dr. Oswald Murphy said that he found that death was due to asphyxia following immersion in water. The body had been in the water a considerable period.

The Coroner returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence, and added a rider that there was no evidence to show how the deceased man came by his death.

YESTERDAY'S CASES IN THE COURTS.

SANDYMOUNT WOMAN'S ESTATE.

CHARITABLE BEQUESTS THAT FAILED.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

The matter of the estate of Mrs. Susan Fay, deceased, late of 34 Park avenue, Sandymount, came before the Court in connection with matters arising out of her will, dated 4th December, 1925, she having died on the 11th. of the same month. It appeared that the gross proceeds of the estate amounted to £9,341 10s. 11d., of which about £4,764 represented real estate and chattels real and £4,576 personal estate. There were charitable bequests to the Magdalen Asylum, Gloucester street, Dublin; St. Vincent de Paul Society; the Sacred Heart Home, Drumcondra, and St. Patrick's Nurses' Home, 101 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin. The matter was brought before the Court by the plaintiffs, Richard Ganly, auctioneer and cattle salesman, 6 Palmerston villas, Rathgar, and Francis Rooney, commercial clerk, 3 Fontenoy street, Dublin, executors; the defendants being the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Dublin, Mathew R. Lalor, 6 Upper Prince Edward terrace, Blackrock, Dublin, President, Council of the Dublin St. Vincent de Paul Society, and the Attorney-General for Saorstat Eireann.

The Archbishop was joined as a defendant because he is residuary legatee (in trust) and residuary legatee presumably in the event of the residuary charitable devises and bequests being deemed void.

In an affidavit made by the plaintiffs it was stated that, having regard to the fact that the testator died within three months of the date of the will, and to the provisions of the Charitable Donations and Bequests Act, and the terms of the bequests comprised in the words of the will: "And in the event of any of the foregoing charitable legacies being deemed void for any cause whatever, I give the said legacies to the said legatees absolutely," they were unable to distribute the assets, as they were uncertain of the persons entitled, and they asked the Court for an order to enable them to complete the administration of the estate.

Mr. Justice Meredith made the order asked for, and declared that the charitable bequests failed as to so much as was payable out of the real and chattel real estate, and were payable to the Archbishop of Dublin as residuary legatee.

Mr. Frank Sweeney (instructed by Mr. James Fagan) appeared for the executors; Mr. James Geoghegan, K.C. (instructed by Mr. J. H. Dixon), for the defendant, Mr. Lalor; Mr. McGuckin (instructed by Mr. H. B. O'Hanlon) for the Attorney-General; and Mr. Moloney, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. O'Hagan and Son), for the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Dublin.

PURCHASE OF MEATH LANDS.

OFFER BY ULSTER BANK.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

In a case of the Ulster Bank, Ltd., v. Richard Balfe,

Mr. Campbell (instructed by Mr. J. M. O'Reilly) applied on behalf of the plaintiffs to have their offer accepted to purchase for £2,100 the lands of Bigstown, County Meath. Counsel said that there was a sum of £2,295 17s. 9d. due to his clients, and, after they had paid a debt to the Land Commission for rates, they would probably lose about £700.

Mr. Justice Meredith granted the application.

LATE MR. BARNEY ARMSTRONG'S ESTATE.

FINAL ALLOCATION OF FUNDS.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

The matter of the estate of the late Bernard McNamee, otherwise "Barney Armstrong," was before the Court in a case of Findlater v. Minshull for final allocation of the funds arising from the estate of deceased man, who was well known in theatrical circles as proprietor of variety theatres in Dublin, Belfast and Derry. There had been an allocation in March, 1925, when, after claims of preferential creditors had been satisfied, the ordinary creditors received a dividend of 8s. in the £ on their debts. The funds could not at the time be fully allocated, because there were houses in Limerick to be disposed of. These had since been sold, and a sum of £2,764 6s. 10d. became available for further allocation. Certain sums, such as income tax, were payable in full. These absorbed £853 4s. 1d., leaving a balance of £1,911 2s. 9d. available for further and final dividend to the ordinary creditors, sufficient to pay them a further 8s. 6d. in the £ on the unpaid balances of their debts.

Mr. Justice Meredith made an order allocating the funds in the manner mentioned in the schedule.

Mr. Marnan (instructed by Messrs. William Findlater and Co.) appeared for plaintiffs, and a representative of Messrs. Hayes and Sons, solicitors, for defendants, the executors.

INSURANCE COMPANIES' BONDS.

(BEFORE THE MASTER OF THE HIGH COURT.)

An application was made to have the name of the Century Insurance Co., Ltd., which is registered in Scotland, inserted on the list of names of those insurance companies whose bonds and guarantees are accepted in the High Court. It was stated that the Chief Justice already had made an order putting this company's name on the list of names of companies whose bonds and guarantees were accepted in all matters over which he had charge.

The Master made an order that, on the lodgment of £5,000 trust security, the society's bonds and guarantees be accepted in the High Court, subject to the order of the Chief Justice.

Messrs. A. and L. Goodbody were the solicitors for the applicant company.

KILKENNY LANDOWNER'S ESTATE.

APPEAL IN CONSTRUCTION QUESTIONS.

The plaintiff in the case of Swifte v. O'Brien and another appealed from an order of Mr. Justice Johnston, dated 10th May last, in the matter of the estate of the late Godwin Butler Meade Swifte, of Swiftsheath, Co. Kilkenny, with reference to certain questions, which had been argued some time ago, arising out of the true construction of his will, dated 14th February, 1910.

The deceased gentleman, it appeared, was entitled to certain landed estates in the Counties of Kilkenny (including the mansion house and demesne of Swiftsheath), Meath, Dublin, Leitrim and Carlow. He had agreed to sell the tenanted lands in the Counties of Kilkenny, Carlow and Meath to the tenants under the Land Purchase Acts; and certain lands in the Counties of Kilkenny and Dublin were subject to, amongst others, a charge of £6,000, which he had created and settled by his marriage settlement, dated 13th July, 1909.

THE WILL.

By his will, dated 14th February, 1910, the deceased man devised and bequeathed the lands of which he was owner and the proceeds of the sale of the tenanted lands he had agreed to sell to the tenants to his trustees upon trust, to permit his wife (the plaintiff) to reside in Swiftsheath Mansion House, on the demesne, during her life, and to receive the income from the residue of his landed property and the invested proceeds of the sale of the tenanted lands during her life; and, in default of issue (as occurred), the testator left all the same property, after the death of his wife, to the use of Ernest Godwin Swifte for his life; then to the use of his eldest son, Ernest Godwin M. Swifte, K.C. (now deceased), for life; then to his sons successively in tail male, with like remainders to the other sons of Godwin Swifte and their issue, male. He appointed his wife, Elizabeth Natalie Swifte (plaintiff) his residuary legatee.

THE PRINCIPAL QUESTION.

The testator died on 2nd December, 1921, leaving personal estate valued at £34,722. Shortly after the date of his will he had received the purchase moneys, amounting to upwards of £19,467, of the lands sold under the Land Purchase Acts, which he had mixed with his own moneys. The principal question in the case, and which formed the subject matter of the present appeal, was whether the bequest in trusts of these moneys was adeemed, in which event they would have formed part of the residuary estate.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Johnston held that under the joint operation of the marriage settlement of the will the £6,000 mentioned now belonged to Mrs. Swifte absolutely; that all the testator's lands, tenanted and untenanted, passed to the trustees of the will under the devise in trust; that the principle of ademption did not apply, and that the proceeds of the sale of the tenanted lands passed to the trustees of the will.

It was stated that the deceased man, having sold a considerable amount of his property to his tenants, was paid for the lands largely in Guaranteed Land Stock from 1910 to 1914. He had been extensively speculating in business before the sale, and had continued to speculate after receiving payment for the sale of the lands, mixing up the proceeds of the sale of the lands with his own moneys, so that it was absolutely impossible to segregate the one from the other or to identify the moneys received for the sale of the lands.

SALE OF LANDS.

It was now sought, it was added, to have the moneys resulting from the sale of the lands handed over to the trustees of the will; but there was nothing to hand over, because it was impossible to find out the moneys.

Mr. Justice Johnston had held that there was no ademption.

Mr. Jellett, K.C., Mr. Price, K.C., and Mr. Bacon (instructed by Messrs. William Roche and Sons) appeared for Mrs. Elizabeth Natalie Swifte, plaintiff and appellant; and Mr. Phelps, K.C., and Mr. John E. Walsh (instructed by Messrs. Whitney, Moore and Keller) for the defendants and trustees.

The arguments had not concluded when the Court rose, and the further hearing was adjourned till to-day.

MOTOR CAR AND MILK GIG.

DAMAGES IN RUNNING DOWN CASE.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

An action was heard in which Bridget Kearns, Lily Kearns, Mary Kearns and Michael Kearns, of 1 St. John's terrace, Kimmage, Dublin, claimed damages against Siemens Bauunion Gesellschaft Mit Beschrankter Haftung Kommanditgesellschaft (Messrs. Siemens Schuckert), having registered offices at Berlin, Germany, and having a place of business at Strand street, Limerick, builders and engineers, at present carrying out the construction of the Shannon scheme.

The plaintiffs are joint proprietors of a dairy business, and, according to their statement of claim, Bridget and Lily Kearns were driving a milk gig along the Crumlin road on 15th February last, when the defendants, by their servants and agents, drove a motor car in a negligent manner, with the result that it collided with the gig, causing Bridget Kearns and her sister Lily to be thrown violently to the ground, injuring them, and also damaging the gig and the harness of the horse.

NEGLIGENCE DENIED.

The defendants denied negligence in the driving of the motor car, and they pleaded contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiffs, Bridget Kearns and Lily Kearns, or one of them.

Mr. Michael Comyn, K.C., and Mr. William Black (instructed by Messrs. Joyce and Joyce) appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. Marnan (instructed by Messrs. Arthur Cox and Co.) for the defendants.

Stating the case for the plaintiffs, Mr. Comyn said that Bridget Kearns and Lily Kearns were driving along the road in the direction of their own home when the defendants' powerful car, travelling at a high speed, crashed into them. The girls saw the motor car some distance from them, and when it arrived within easy reach of the gig it turned a semi-circle and crashed into the cart. Lily Kearns was thrown out of the milk cart on to the horse's back. Bridget, who was driving the horse, was thrown in the air, turned a complete somersault, and struck against the ground with great force. She was removed to hospital in the defendants' car in an unconscious condition, and had been under medical treatment for several months. She was still under the care of the doctor.

Lily Kearns was examined, and bore out counsel's opening statement. She said that extra men had to be employed to do the work which was previously done by her sister.

Replying to Mr. Geoghegan, witness said that the road was muddy in consequence of the heavy rains.

Bridget Kearns corroborated.

Cross-examined by Mr. Geoghegan, she said that she was not in the least excited when she saw the motor car approaching. It would not be right to say that she stood up in the car.

THE ACCIDENT.

Senator Farren, who said that he witnessed the accident, stated that he saw the motor car swerve around, drive up on the footpath, and strike the gig. One of the girls were thrown out on the road. He assisted in bringing the two girls to hospital, and one of them was detained. The milk car was about a foot from the path on its proper side of the road at the time of the accident. The horse was travelling at a very slow pace, but the roads were greasy. The impact caused Bridget Kearns to be thrown right out of the car over the wheel. Witness did not notice the other girl falling from the car.

Michael Byrne, coachbuilder, estimated the cost of repairing the milk gig at £38.

Dr. Crimmins and Surgeon Kennedy gave medical evidence.

The plaintiffs' case having closed,

Herr Heintse, manager of the Shannon works at Limerick, said that on the date in question he was driving a Protos car along the road at a speed of from 17 to 18 miles per hour. When nearing the city he came on to a newly-asphalted road. He had to go in the centre of the road to pass a sand cart. When he got out on the centre of the road he suddenly noticed his car turning right around. He did not put on the brakes, and in the turn around his back mudguard touched the plaintiffs' car.

Replying to Mr. Comyn, witness said that the sand cart he was endeavouring to pass was proceeding towards Dublin. He was travelling at from 17 to 18 miles per hour at the time in the centre of the road. He had an appointment in Dublin that day to witness the erection of the first pole in Dublin under the Shannon scheme. He had three hours to keep his appointment and was not in an immediate hurry.

A MODERATE PACE.

Herr Droséler, who was a passenger in the car with the last witness, said that they passed a number of cars coming from, and going towards, the city. The motor car, which was 16 horse power, and weighed 13 cwt., was travelling at a moderate pace, and merely touched the milk car.

Michael O'Carroll, mechanic, employed at defendants' Dublin offices, said that he examined the motor car after the accident and only discovered the mudguard damaged.

By Mr. Comyn he said that he did not see the car on the road after the accident, but he saw it later at Government Buildings. The car could do 50 miles per hour, but that speed could not be done at the place where the accident occurred, as a level road, giving a five-mile clear run, would be necessary before a speed of 50 miles could be reached.

On the findings of the jury Mr. Justice Hanna gave judgment for the plaintiffs, and distributed the amount as follows:—Bridget Kearns, for personal injuries, £120; Lily Kearns, do., £10; all the plaintiffs for damages to car and harness, £15; loss of service of Bridget to the firm, £50.

MEATH MOTORING ACCIDENT.

ACTION SETTLED FOR £350.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

An action was listed of Robinson v. Marry, in which the plaintiff claimed £1,000 damages for personal injuries received in a motor accident. A consent was handed in, settling the action for £350, to include costs.

Mr. Lupton, K.C., said that the accident occurred on the public road at Ballinagore, Co. Westmeath, on November 3, 1925. The plaintiff was riding a motor bicycle, and the defendant was driving a motor car, when the collision occurred.

Mr. Joseph O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Thomas Finlay (instructed by Messrs. Nooney and Dowdall) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. E. Lupton, K.C.; Mr. K. Dockrell, K.C., and Mr. O. McLoughlin (instructed by Messrs. J. H. McLoughlin and Son) for the defendants.

Mr. Justice Hanna received the consent and made it a rule of Court.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

NOTES IN A MATCH-BOX.

THE KILLARNEY BANK ROBBERY.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN.)

The trial was resumed of Robert Tangney and Daniel Tangney, of County Kerry, on charges arising out of the robbery of £465 from the Munster and Leinster Bank, Killarney, in January last. Robert Tangney was charged with conspiring with others to rob the bank, with being an accessory before and after the fact of the robbery, and with receiving portion of the stolen money. Daniel Tangney was charged with receiving portion of the stolen money.

Mr. Carrigan, K.C., Mr. Dudley White, K.C., and Mr. Bewley, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor), prosecuted; Mr. J. Reidy (instructed by Mr. Maurice McCartie, solicitor) defended.

Superintendent Curtin, Civic Guards, stated that on the 20th of January last Robert Tangney told him that he had £25 on the 17th of January, and that he hid it near a rock. Subsequently he said that his wife had the money. The witness got the £25 from her. It was made up of two £10 notes, four £1 notes and two 10s. notes.

An inspector of the Civic Guards stated that he found £8 in notes in a match box, under a bunch of heather, near Tangney's house.

Mr. Reidy, addressing the jury for the defence, said that the £25 which Mrs. Tangney handed to Superintendent Curtin was portion of a sum of £60 which they had received as a housing grant. The £8 was the property of John Sullivan. He submitted that there was no evidence against the prisoners on which a jury could convict them either of conspiracy or of being accessories before or after the fact.

Mr. Bewley replied for the State.

The jury found Robert Tangney not guilty on the first two counts, but guilty of being an accessory after the robbery, and of having received £8. They found Daniel Tangney guilty of receiving £2.

The prisoners were put back.

THE THRIFTY POOR.

DUBLIN SOCIETY OFFICIALS CHARGED.

Francis J. Tiernan, Patrick Murphy, Thomas Byrne and Thomas Ormsby, all of Dublin, were charged with conspiracy to defraud a number of persons connected with the St. Anthony's Thrift and Loan Fund Society, between 1923 and 1925, by falsifying the accounts and appropriating moneys entrusted to them.

Mr. J. Healy (instructed by Messrs. Gerald Byrne and Co.) appeared for Ormsby; Mr. A. Lynn (instructed by Mr. O'Reilly) appeared for Byrne. The other two prisoners were not represented.

Mr. Carrigan, K.C., said that this case would show how easily poor people were victimised, and how they put their trust in any combination in Dublin with the name of "society," "thrift" or "benefit." In this case there was a total of 150 members who lost their money, which, presumably, was in the hands of the accused men. When this case was over he hoped that it would be a warning to thrifty poor people in Dublin against putting their money into the hands of a society that had not security or was not managed by responsible officials.

Some members of the society having been examined, the further hearing of the case was adjourned until this morning.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT.

LOSS OF EMPLOYMENT.

CLAIM AGAINST UNION OFFICIAL DISMISSED.

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

Judgment was given in the case of Kenny v. O'Reilly, which was a claim for damages for loss of employment due, as alleged, to the action of the defendant.

According to the evidence Kenny was formerly a member of the undertakers' section of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, but ceased to be a member when he became a cab and car proprietor. After some years at this business he decided to return to his former occupation and obtained a situation with Messrs. Fanagan. A day or two afterwards the defendant, as a delegate from the Transport Union, called on Messrs. Fanagan's manager and pointed out that as Kenny was not a member of the Union, the other men would not work with him, and that in any event there were competent undertakers' men waiting for employment on the Union's list. Kenny was then discharged from his employment.

It was stated during the hearing of the case that it was usual for undertakers in Dublin to fill vacancies through the Union.

The claim was dismissed.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

PURSE-SNATCHING.

ARREST AT THE NELSON PILLAR.

(BEFORE MR. COLLINS.)

Edward O'Rorke, Belmont place, Gardiner street, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a purse containing £5 10s. from a handbag belonging to Mrs. Mary A. Wilson, Naptown, The Naul, Co. Dublin, last Saturday night. He was put back until Thursday for production of character.

Mrs. Wilson said that while she was standing at the junction of Henry street and Moore street the prisoner pushed against her and she noticed immediately that her bag, which was hanging over her left arm, was open and a purse containing £5 10s. was missing. She shouted, "That man has taken my purse," and the prisoner ran towards Nelson Pillar, where he was arrested by a guard.

"RUSHED" 'BUSES.

DRIVERS AND CONDUCTORS FINED FOR OVERCROWDING.

At Kilmainham District Court yesterday, Michael Nestor and John Fitzgerald, driver and conductor of a 'bus run by the Dublin United Tramways Company, were summoned for allowing overcrowding on Sunday, the 19th May last, carrying 44 passengers, although the seating accommodation was for 34.

Patrick Murray and Robert Gordon, driver and conductor of another 'bus, were summoned for allowing 58 passengers to travel, the seating accommodation here also being for 34.

The defence in each case was that the 'bus was "rushed" by a crowd at Cloghran.

Mr. E. H. Burne, solicitor, for the defence, said that since this occurrence the Guards had been on duty on Sunday nights at this place in Cloghran, and there had been no further complaints. He submitted that the driver could not be held responsible for the overcrowding.

The Justice pointed out that in one case there were 24 persons in excess of the number provided for. If this kind of thing went on some appalling accident would occur.

In the case where the 'bus carried 58 passengers the conductor was fined 20s. and the driver 5s. In the other case the conductor was fined 10s. and the driver 5s.

RATHDOWN HOUSING.

DIFFICULTY IN OBTAINING LOAN

At yesterday's meeting of the Rathdown No. 1 Rural Council the Chairman (Mr. A. W. Cullen) said that the Council had made every endeavour to carry out a housing scheme for their area. They had failed. It was not through any fault of theirs, but because they were unable to obtain a loan at a reasonable rate or period. The scheme was very urgently needed, and they would press this matter very strongly on the Local Government Department.

Mr. Byrne said that Rathdown had got its share of the road, tarring and unemployment grants, and they had obtained £21,000 from the Road Board for the widening and improvement of the Bray road.

Mr. Cullen was re-elected Chairman of the Council. He was also re-elected Chairman of the Guardians. Mr. J. Byrne was re-elected Vice-Chairman of the Council and representative on the County Council.

RUNAWAY HORSE IN ENNISKILLEN.

Yesterday morning when Mr. James Love, of Ballyreagh, was loading goods in Church street, Enniskillen, the horse took fright at a steam lorry and bolted. Mr. Love had hold of the reins, but the horse dragged him to "The Hollow" and up High street before it was brought to a standstill. On its journey the cart struck two gas standards, smashing them.

TENDERS TOO HIGH.

NORTH DUBLIN HOUSING SCHEME.

A meeting of the North Dublin Rural District Council was held yesterday at 66 Middle Abbey street, Dublin, to elect a chairman and vice-chairman for the ensuing year. Councillor Baggot proposed the re-election of Mr. J. A. O'Neill, who had shown such care and energy in the discharge of his duties. Councillor Connolly seconded the motion, saying that Mr. O'Neill had always done all he could to help in the scheme for the housing of workingmen and in everything else that the Council had in hand. Mr. O'Neill was elected unanimously. On the motion of Councillor Connolly, seconded by Councillor Flynn, Councillor Baggot was elected Vice-Chairman.

It was stated that the Secretary of the Housing Department had refused to sanction the acceptance of certain tenders in connection with the District Council's housing scheme, as the prices were too high, and he advised that the Council should re-advertise for tenders. The Council's scheme has reference to the building of fifty-three cottages, and possibly eleven more at a later period.

PORTADOWN'S MILK SUPPLY.

VENDOR WHO REFUSED SAMPLES.

At the meeting of the Portadown Town Council yesterday, Mr. Kelly, veterinary inspector, stated, in his report, that a milk vendor had refused to supply him with samples of milk for examination.

Mr. Sandford asserted that Portadown had as good a milk supply as any town in Ireland, and that the only good the Council's milk regulations had done for the town was to impose extra expense on the ratepayers.

Mr. Kerr thought the milk regulations had done a lot of good, and suggested that the name of the milk vendor should be made public.

The Clerk (Mr. H. Sewell) said that he would ask the veterinary inspector to give the names of offenders in future reports.

The Council approved of certain amendments to the regulations suggested by the Northern Ministry of Home Affairs to meet the requirements of the Ministry of Agriculture, and the Clerk said that the Council would afterwards be in a position to take proceedings against milk vendors who offended.

PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

The secretary of the Dublin Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (Incorporated) writes, expressing its committee's hope that the clergy of all denominations in Ireland will make reference to kindness to animals in their sermons on Sunday, July 10, and will have the subject mentioned in the Sunday schools. During the past sixty years this date has been observed as Animal Sunday in many parts of the world, and it is hoped that the number of clergy who advocate the cause of kindness to animals from the pulpit will be increased this year.

BOY BITTEN BY RAT IN BED.

John Hamilton (11), son of Thomas Hamilton, horse trainer, Donaghmore (Co. Tyrone), was severely bitten over the left eye by a rat during Saturday night.

Aroused by the boy's screams, Mrs. Hamilton rushed into the bedroom, when a rat jumped out of the bed and escaped.

Dr. J. J. Campbell, Dungannon, found the boy suffering from acute inflammation of the eye, and had him removed to Dungannon Hospital.

MOTOR CYCLIST KILLED.

COLLISION WITH AN OMNIBUS IN COUNTY DOWN.

A motor cyclist, James Forsythe, of Loughaghery, Co. Down, was killed as a result of a collision with a motor 'bus belonging to the Belfast Omnibus Company at Dromara. He struck a mudguard of the 'bus, and he and the bicycle fell underneath the vehicle, being dragged for about twenty yards. Carried to a neighbouring house, he died there in about ten minutes.

A man named Gourley, who was riding pillion, luckily escaped with a few cuts and a bruise.

The driver of the 'bus, Alexander Moore, was afterwards arrested and charged at a special Court in Dromara with causing Forsythe's death. He was remanded to Dromara Petty Sessions on bail.

PORTADOWN AFFAIRS.

At the meeting of the Portadown Town Council yesterday plans were approved for the erection of fourteen subsidy houses and the extension of several other buildings.

A recommendation by the Finance Committee to increase the salary of the town inspector, John Campbell, from £130 to £170 per annum was adopted.

A letter was received from the Great Northern Railway Company stating that it had been decided to run the 9.10 p.m. train from Warrenpoint through to Portadown on Thursday nights during the summer months, in order to give passengers from Portadown an opportunity of enjoying the half-holiday at the seaside.

AN UNLICENSED PUBLICAN.

Summoned at Kilmainham District Court yesterday for having sold drink at his premises recently, although he had not taken out a licence since September last, Joseph Crawley, The Ward, pleaded that the offence was not intentional; the premises had been up for sale, and he would now pay the licence.

He was fined £50, mitigated to £12 10s.

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN IRREGULAR.

COATS AGAIN RISE.

There was again marked stagnation in business passing on 'Change, despite the great improvement in weather conditions. Orders in hand were fewer, and many of the markets simply drifted if either buying or selling pressure was, even to a minor extent, exercised. Government National Loan did not further alter, and other Government issues were neglected. British Funds were irregular. Consols opened higher, but did not hold the initial gain. War Loan Fives finished a further fraction higher, but Conversion 3½ per cent. was dull and on offer. Banks were often idle, with practically no business passing. Among Breweries, Guinness Ord. Shares opened 1/16 lower, but later on were bid for, and nearly recovered lost ground. Distillery Shares were in rather better request, with Dublin Distillers Pref. harder and Power Pref. a little higher. British and Irish Steam Pref. Shares were firm. Marconi Ord. were dull for an exceptional lot. Among Railway Stocks, Great Southern issues were better. The Ord. improved ¼, the Pref. ⅛, and the Debs. 1½. Great Northern issues were idle and appeared rather on sale. Dublin United Tram 3½ per cent. "B" Debs. fell over a point for a small lot, and all other securities in this group were neglected. Dunlop Rubber Ord. opened 3d. higher, but lost half this gain later. The features in Textiles were Coats and Courtaulds at better prices, but Calico Printers eased. Tobaccos varied. British-American fell 3d.; Imperials opened 4½d. higher, but later lost the advance, while Canadian closed 6d. higher. Goulding remain on offer. Imperial Chemical Industries Shares were still easing, and Shell Transports remain out of favour.

LONDON STEADY.

SOME FIRM FEATURES.

The week opened rather quietly in the ock Markets, but the tone was generally eady, with a few exceptions, and there were veral firm features. Little new light was rown on the commitments of Mr. James hite, so far as the Stock Exchange is conned, and uncertainty as to sales of other cks to meet losses by speculators who lowed his lead restricted business to some ent, though there was no reason to believe t there will be any important developments an unfavourable character when the end of account period arrives. Apparently culators have in many cases disposed of r liabilities and cut their losses rather n continue to hold them by selling invest- t stocks to carry on their speculation, and not considered that further difficulty will ncountered. There was certainly no sign ny disturbance to markets beyond a ral feeling of cautiousness. The gilt- d stocks were firm, and where prices d they were in favour of holders. ign Bonds were dull and Foreign Rails

LONDON CHANGES.

British Government securities showed up well. Consols rose ¼ to 54½, Conversion 3½ p.c. added ¼ to 76¼, and Funding Loan at 86¼ and Local Loans at 63¾ also improved ¼. India Stocks were again firm, and the 3½ p.c. advanced ½ to 70½. The New 4 p.c. Consols are now consolidated into one stock, and were quoted ex div. at a rather higher level, allowing for the deduction. The Colonial list was steady, Canadian 4 p.c. 1940-60 being a point better.

Foreign Stocks were inactive, as a rule. French issues were rather easier, the 5 p.c. Loan being ½ lower at 17 and the 4 p.c. ¼ easier at 13. Brazilian 5 p.c. Funding Loan 1914 added a point to 84.

RAILS LOWER.

Home Rails opened the day with a rather better tone, but prices eased, and at the close the quotations showed several losses. Great Westerns, London Midland and Scottish Ord., North-Eastern 5 p.c. Pref.-Ord., and Metropolitan Districts all fell ½, and North-Eastern Def.-Ord. lost ¼. Underground Electrics, however, were supported, and rose 1s. to 19s. 6d.

Quiet irregularity characterised the Colonial and Foreign Railway section. Canadian Pacifics and Grand Trunks were unaltered. Central Uruguay at 79 rose ½, but Entre Rios Ord. and United of Havana at 64½ and 74½ respectively both fell ½.

RUBBER SHARES DULL.

Rubber shares were dull, and lack of business, combined with the lower price of the commodity, caused prices to move against holders where they changed, though there were one or two exceptions, for Batu Tiga rose 2s. 6d. to 50s., and Sungei Choh added 7½d. to 25s. 7½d. Bukit Rajah fell 3s. 9d., Highlands weakened 2s. 6d., Kuala Lumpur, Malacca, and Manchester North Borneo, all fell 1s. 10½d. Bah Lias and one or two others lost 1s. 3d., and smaller losses included 3d. in Vallambrosa, and in Rubber Trust, the price of the latter being 38s. 9d. Linggi lost 7½d., and Golden Hope and Mendaris were lower by the same amount.

TEA SHARES FIRM.

There was quite a good volume of business passing in the Tea share market, and the tendency was firm. Borelli rose 2s. 6d., Bramahpootra advanced ⅛, Doom Dooma improved 1s. 7½d., Eastern Produce added 3s 1½d., and British Indian, Ceylon Plantations, Chubwa, Empire, and Jorehaut, all showed good advances. Smaller gains were marked in many other shares. Losses were confined to 1s. 3d. in Ceylon Props., 6d. in Assam Frontier, ¼ in Consolidated Tea and Lands, and one or two smaller declines.

OIL SHARES QUIET.

In view of the subdued tone prevailing in other sections of the Stock Exchange, it was hardly surprising to find that quiet conditions should characterise Oil share markets yesterday. A further factor in regard to this department is, of course, the uncertainty which exists in respect of the position of British Controlled Preferred shares. Owing to the heavy speculation in these shares, the differences which will have to be met this account amount to a very considerable sum, estimated at approximately £750,000; but, inasmuch as many of the shares have now passed into strong hands, the market regards the position calmly. Nevertheless, some selling which was encountered yesterday was quickly reflected in a fall in both the Common and Preferred shares, which closed 9d. and 7½d. down respectively. The recognised leaders generally maintained a satisfactory tendency, finishing steady. The annual report of the Mexican Eagle Oil had little influence on the shares, which finished a turn easier. V.O.C. Holdings improved, and closed 1/32 better on the news that a contract had been entered into whereby the V.O.C. is to sell 5,000,000 tons of oil annually to the Mexican Eagle Company. Business in the leaders was of a quiet character, with little influence on quotations. Shells closed with an improvement of 1/32 at 4 11/16. Royal Dutch touched 30⅛, but were finally unaltered at 30. Anglo-Egyption "B" were firm at 1 1/16, but Lobitos fell 1/16 to 4⅞. An irregular tendency characterised Trinidad issues. United British met with support and improsed 4½d. to 11s. 4½d., and Leaseholds advanced 1/32 to 4 1/16, but Apex declined 1/32 to 2 1/32.

INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

The outstanding feature in the Industrial market yesterday was the sharp advance witnessed in Bryant and May Ord. shares as a result of the agreement with the Swedish Match Co. Bryant and Mays were marked up sharply, closing 11s. 9d. to the good on balance at 65s., after changing hands at 68s. 9d. Swedish Match issues also hardened slightly, the A shares to 15¾ and the B shares to 15 11/16.

Artsilks remained an uncertain market. American Celanese Common gave way ¾ to 53¼ and the Prefd. ½ to 29½, but Canadian Celanese rallied ¼ to 11¾. British Celanese Ord. eased 9d. to 26s. 9d., while the Pref. stiffened to 22s. Courtaulds gained the turn at 6 11/16; Nueras developed weakness, the Ord. falling 1s. 3d. to 25s. and the Defd. 1s. to 20s. 6d. The leading Textiles were also undecided. Bradford Dyers at 48s. 3d., J. and P. Coats at 56s., Sewing Cottons at 49s., and Amalgamated Cottons at 6s. all hardened; but Linen Threads gave way to 27s. 6d. and Bleachers to 39s. 6d.

Coal, Steel and Engineering descriptions generally remained on the dull side, though buyers continued in evidence for Bengal Iron, which further improved to 21s.; Pease and Partners also stiffened to 8s. 6d. Henleys were again well supported in the Electrical Equipment group, rising [illegible]s. 6d. to 97s. Otherwise, this section moved within narrow limits, with English Electrics offered around 8s., Siemens at 25s., and Johnson and Phillips at 45s. 6d.

Shipping shares showed little variation, and there was not a great deal doing among Insurance shares or Banks. Breweries moved irregularly. South Africans were favoured on the report, gaining 1/16 at 2⅞, with Guinness marked up 5 to 500. On the other hand, Ind Coopes eased to 3⅝, and Watney Deferred were marked a point lower at 269.

Stores, Catering and Foodstuffs generally proved dull. Liptons developed weakness on the report. The 8 p.c. Prefs. fell ⅛ to 11/16, the 5 p.c. Prefs. 1/16 to 7/16, with the Ord. 2s. down at 10s. Lovell and Christmas gave way ⅛ to 1¼. Of the Stores, Barkers eased to 68s., Harrods to 61s. 6d., and Maples to 37s. 3d.

Little variation was shown among Tobaccos, where the tone was described as quietly steady at the close. "Bats" finished unchanged at 100s. 3d., after 100s. 6d., and "Imps" without alteration at 99s. 3d., after dipping to 99s. Carreras, Copes and Godfrey Phillips were maintained. Support was again forthcoming for Traction issues, where Brazilian Common put on 3 to 162 and the Pref. 1 to 132. Shawinigan Power Common were also marked up a point to 81½. Land Shares made a mixed showing; for, while Sudans hardened slightly to 4 1/16, Hudson's Bays at 4 11/16 and Forestals at 25s. 4½d. and Duff Developments at 18s. 9d. all receded.

Among Motors buyers were again in evidence for Dennis at 7 1/16, but Napiers at 42s., Rolls-Royce at 32s. 3d., and Thomas Tillings at 60s. all encountered sellers. Newspapers were easier for choice—Amalgamated Press at 23s. 3d., Allieds at 60s. 6d., and "Daily Mirrors" at 6⅛. Nitrates failed to find further supporters, and Lagunas gave way 1s. to 13s., Lautaros 1/16 to 3¼, and New Tamarugals 1s. to 18s. Gramophones improved slightly to 99s. 3d., with Graphophones unaltered at 100s. Imperial Chemical Ord. steadied to 26s. 6d. and the Deferred to 8s. 4½d. British Aluminiums stiffened to 44s. Lever Pref. hardened, the Sevens to 20s. 1½d. and the Eights to 19s. 3d.

LONDON MINING MARKET.

KAFFIRS DEPRESSED FOR A TIME.

In the Mining Market Kaffirs were at one time rather depressed by the further fall in De Beers. One or two shares, however, managed to shake themselves free from surrounding influences, the members of the Modder group coming in for a fair amount of attention on reports of good developments. Modderfontein themselves were stated to be 122s. 6d. at the Cape, which is, of course, ex the dividend of 6s. 6d., equivalent to £6 9s. cum. div., and the price here after being higher in the early hours fell back to the previous level. Modder "B" were a strong feature, the Cape coming in a moderate buyer of these, and also of other favourites. Thus Modder Deep, City Deep, Robinson Deep "B," and a few of the lower-priced shares were better, and the improvements recorded practically offset the shrinkages. Business, however, was never very brisk, and the list at the close had an irregular appearance.

Among the Finance descriptions, Central Mining rallied, but Rand Mines, Union Corporation Goldfields, and African and European were unaltered. The Rhodesian department fared no better than its neighbours, and dealings were on a very small scale. Chartered moved idly within narrow limits, leaving off unaltered.

News to the effect that the Government is determined to proceed with the Precious Stones Bill in October had a steadying effect upon the Diamond Share market. Early losses were, however, by no means wiped out; in fact, nearly all the usually active shares left off appreciably lower on balance, De Beers suffering to the greatest extent. Paris was at one time a seller of these, and also of other international counters. The price of tin fell £4 18s. 9d. to £295 5s. per ton, and this, in conjunction with the general dulness, had a depressing influence on the Share market. Among West Africans, Ashanti Goldfields, on a better understanding of the recent cabled advices, recovered rapidly in the early hours; but, later, further realisations were indulged in, and the price fell back to the previous level. Australians generally were neglected, Barriers being hardly mentioned, but Mount Isa were being picked up both here and in the colony on the favourable statements made at the meeting in Sydney. Mount Morgan improved, but other Coppers were dull, Rio Tinto being on offer from Paris. Russians and Canadians were easier, and in the Miscellaneous department San Francisco were weak on the fall in metal prices.

"SPEEDING" INTO OMAGH.

POLICE ASKED TO PATROL ENTRANCE TO TOWN.

At a meeting of the Omagh Urban Council yesterday a resolution was passed, on the motion of Mr. McConville, calling attention to the excessive speed at which motorists entered the town by the Derry road. It was stated that there had been several hairbreadth escapes, and the police were asked to patrol the streets at this point.

It was decided to close the Urban Council quarry owing to the delay of the Ministry of Home Affairs in sanctioning a loan for the improvement of roads in the district.

In their report on the working of the gas undertaking during the year ended 31st March last, the auditors stated that there was a profit of £11 1s. 5d. on the revenue account. They pointed out that owing to the strike, coal cost £2,131 3s. 7d. more than in the previous year. The report was considered satisfactory.

Of £103,000 spent by the Empire Marketing Board during the last financial year, £57,000 was for publicity.

REPAYING THE BANK.

The small amount due at the Bank of England was repaid by the Money Market, and made very little impression on the prevailing easy conditions. It is thought, however, that a chance may be near, and that the surplus will shortly disappear. Old loans continued at 3¼, while fresh day arrangements were made from 3¼ down to 3 per cent. Weekly fixtures were 3½ per cent.

Discount business was quiet, the shorter dated bills being unchanged at 4 5/16 per cent. Six months paper remained firm owing to the probability of a higher bank rate being in force when this matures. A line of six months Shipping bills changed hands at 4½ per cent. New Treasuries hardened to 4 7/32 per cent. Silver fell ⅛d. per oz. to 25⅞d. for both spot and forward delivery. Gold was ¼d. lower at 84s. 11¼d. per oz. fine.

No bullion movements on foreign account were reported at the Bank of England. On China selling both the spot and forward prices of silver fell ⅛d. to 25⅞d. per oz. for both positions. At the lower level India came in as a buyer, the market closing quietly steady. Gold fell ¼d. to 84s. 11¼d. per fine oz.

Saturday's slight improvement in the American exchange was lost, the rate going back to a little under 4.85⅝, but Montreal moved 1/16 in our favour to 4.86 5/16. A feature elsewhere was the absence of any alteration on balance in the Italian exchange, which was again quoted 87.95. Pesetas were cheaper again at fully 28.40. There was also some depreciation of the currencies of Norway and Greece, but those of Switzerland, Austria, Holland, Finland and Rumania were slightly better. In the South American group Uruguayan dollars were a little firmer.

FUNERAL OF MR. JAMES WHITE.

BIG CROWD AT THE GRAVESIDE.

With the coffin resting on a farm wagon, drawn by two big brown horses, the body of Mr. James White was yesterday borne to the little cemetery of Wanborough, among the hills above Foxhill (near Swindon).

Thousands of people journeyed many miles to this Wiltshire village. Char-à-bancs were run from Swindon and other towns and villages. Many people travelled by motor car, while from the neighbouring districts hundreds came in horse-drawn traps and vehicles of many kinds. Countrymen and women trudged along, pushing their children in perambulators.

Following the farm wagon hearse was a procession almost as varied in character as were the dead man's interests in life. There were influential men from Bradford and other Yorkshire towns, City men, theatre managers, actors, racing men, and boxers.

Among those who saw the coffin laid upon the wagon were: Sir William Berry, Mr. Thomas Lowinsky, Mr. A. E. Abrahams (the West End theatre owner), Mr. Cecil Paget (general manager of Daly's Theatre), Mr. Carl Brisson, and Mr. Huntley Wright (who have both played in Mr. James White's productions), Mr. "Jimmy" Wilde, the boxer; Captain Hogg, the racehorse trainer; Mr. E. T. O'Sullivan, Mr. White's trainer; and Captain C. W. Fisher, formerly the captain of Mr. White's yacht, Venetia.

At the Shepherd's Rest Inn, which is on the Foxhill estate, a large company of Mr. White's tenants waited for the funeral procession. There were gardeners, farm hands, stable boys, and grooms, mostly in black; and as the procession reached them, they quietly joined in behind and followed it up the hill to the cemetery.

Four motor lorries were required to carry all the hundreds of wreaths from the station to the house.

Wreaths were sent by Steve Donoghue, the jockey; Bombardier Wells, the Rochdale Football and Cricket Clubs, Miss Evelyn Laye (leading lady at Daly's Theatre), Daly's and Drury Lane; Michael Beary and F. Stokes, the jockeys; Sir John Shute (with the inscription, "In remembrance of a big-hearted soul"), Mr. J. B. Joel, Lord Waring, Sir Woodman Burbidge, the Committee of the National Sporting Club, and from the Irish Club "To its Old President."

Every seat in the church was occupied, and a number of the mourners had to stand at the back.

A special Service, arranged for cases of suicide, was said by the Rev. H. S. French.

In his address, Mr. French said:—"I think it is our duty—and we English people like to do our duty—at this time to ask ourselves if we were in the position of the late James White how we should meet the circumstances, if, as regards this life, the end had come? And so we should ask ourselves whether, in view of this example, our lives are tending towards a happy eternal future?"

After the Service, the coffin was borne by eight estate workers to the graveside, where four policemen had to force back the crowd to allow the mourners to reach the graveside.

It had been hoped that Daly's Theatre chorus would be present at the graveside to sing, but they were unable to make the necessary arrangements.

The coffin was followed by two pipers from the Irish Club.

MILLIONAIRE'S HOME WRECKED.

TWO IRISH SERVANTS IN CUSTODY.

Two drunken servants are under arrest for a case of vandalism of the stupidest and worst kind in the Fifth Avenue home of a millionaire chemist, Mr. Bai Lihme, a native of Denmark, says the New York Correspondent of the Westminster Gazette.

Mr. Lihme's family are absent for a summer holiday, and two Irish servants named George Kiernan and John Healy, who have been four years in the country, having secured a quantity of whiskey and beer, began a carousing party in a room containing a collection of rare works of art.

Under the influence of the liquor, they hurled empty bottles and glasses at chandeliers, tapestries, mirrors, china, and paintings, some of which were by Rubens, Vandyck, and other masters. The pictures were ruined beyond recovery. Vandyck's portrait of Marchesa Lomellini was slashed in ribbons, and a Rubens portrait of "An Old Man" was completely destroyed.

The two men blame the potency of America's new whiskey and say that they cannot remember why they did it.

The police, however, suspect that they had a grudge against their master and they are alleged to have complained that they did not receive enough in "tips."

The damage is estimated as high as £60,000.

ISLANDERS' RATES.

NO PAYMENTS FOR TWENTY YEARS.

A report of the Special Committee appointed to consider the state of the rate collection in the islands off the coast was read at yesterday's meeting of Galway County Council, Mr. Martin Egan, chairman, presiding.

The position in the islands was summarised as follows:—In the south and middle islands of Arran, Islandeddy, Innishboffin, Eeshal, Turbot, and Innishturk, there has been a total refusal to pay rates. This has lasted in the south and middle islands of Arran for twenty years. In Innishboffin there was up to seven or eight years ago some attempt to meet rate liabilities.

In the three islands in the Clifden district, Eeshal, Turbot and Turk, the total refusal dated only from the appointment of the present collector. The position in Islandeddy, which, the report stated, was not a true island, was the most serious as showing a tendency to spread.

If, the report states, it was not considered possible to resort to extreme measures to collect the rates, the Committee did not consider that because islanders neglected their duties as ratepayers the Council would be justified, by way of reprisal, in neglecting to provide the necessary sanitary, poor law and public works services. The thing to be aimed at, in the opinion of the Committee, was that no area should be allowed to set the law at defiance, and that the County Council could not allow any such attempt to succeed.

The Secretary (Mr. Fogarty) said that the total rate for the islands was £1,326 for the year, while the expenditure in public services was £2,301.

DEPUTATION SUGGESTED.

Mr. O'Toole (Oughterard), in proposing that a deputation of the Council should go to see the conditions prevailing on the islands, maintained that the people there were unable to pay rates. He said that he saw a family of five or six whose only clothes consisted of guano bags. They had a pot of cabbage for food.

Mr. Martin Hallinan asked if anyone in Connemara had died of starvation.

"You want it to happen before you take action," retorted Mr. O'Toole.

Mr. Michael McNeill contended that while some islanders might be poor others were able to pay their rates, and were in better circumstances than the people of Connemara, who paid.

Mr. Bartley Lydon remarked that the islanders were not getting the same facilities as regards roads and other public services as the people on the mainland.

Mr. Thomas Murphy instanced a case in Islandeddy, where a seven-acre holding was valued for £22.

Mr. O'Toole's motion having been defeated, a proposal by Mr. W. Concannon that a collector should be appointed for all the islands at a poundage rate of five shillings the collector to provide himself with a boat, was carried by twenty-two votes to four.

SOLICITORS' COMPENSATION.

Mr. W. J. Concannon moved that the resolution granting £50 compensation to Mr. L. A. Conroy, solicitor to the former Ballinasloe District Council, and £244 to Mr. P. Hogan, solicitor to the former Loughrea District Council (now Minister for Lands and Agriculture), should be rescinded, and that the Council should refuse to give compensation to all solicitors in respect of loss of emoluments in consequence of the abolition of district councils.

Mr. Concannon said that the solicitors who acted for District Councils had been handsomely paid for their professional services, and had the additional advantage of building up substantial private practices. By the abolition of the District Councils they simply lost good clients, but they did not lose their means of livelihood. He admitted that special statutory provision had been made to pay them compensation. He contrasted this attitude with the treatment accorded to other officials.

The Secretary warned the Council that if they rescinded the former motion and the solicitors took action, the members of the Council who voted for Mr. Concannon's motion would be liable for costs.

Mr. Concannon's motion was put, and was defeated by 14 votes to 13.

MYSTERY OF £784.

LEITRIM COUNTY COUNCIL'S AFFAIRS.

CARRICK-ON-SHANNON, Monday.

At a meeting of Leitrim County Council to-day the findings of Mr. J. A. Gleeson, Local Government Inspector, who held an inquiry concerning a sum of £784 11s. 4d. were submitted.

Mr. Gleeson pays a tribute to Mr. Joseph A. Busher, auditor, whose evidence and co-operation, he says, were of the greatest assistance in tracing the bearing and inter-relation of the many and complex figures. The investigation was confined exclusively to those figures which were calculated to throw light on a balance of £784 11s. 4d., which had been ascertained by Mr. Busher's predecessor (Mr. Sean De Barra) "to have remained unaccounted for by some trustees, and which, apparently, is still being preserved as a definite and tangible asset in the books of the Leitrim County Council."

In his findings, Mr. Gleeson says "that Mr. Andrew Mooney, Co.C., should have employed his personal funds for the satisfaction of trust requirements on a date when the trust funds in his keeping were considerably in excess of the amount required to meet trust demands is at first sight somewhat difficult to understand, but in the light of Mr. Mooney's own evidence the necessity for such a course would appear to have existed at least on the 7th September, 1920. Mr. Mooney explained—(a) that trust demands were for liquid cash; (b) that the trust funds then in his keeping were in the form of cheques, not yet negotiated or cleared; (c) that Carrick-on-Shannon, the place of his banker's business, was eight miles distant from Drumshambo, the place of his own business, and that in consequence his lodgments were infrequent; and (d) that he had accordingly sufficiency of personal funds on hands to satisfy trust requirements.

"In regard to the 9th September, however, the circumstances had altered somewhat, and the existence of a corresponding necessity is not so apparent. On the 9th September, 1920, there appears on the credit side of Mr. Mooney's banking account a lodgment of £1,216, which lodgment must be presumed to have been available to meet trust disbursements as and from the 9th September—namely, the date on which Mr. Mooney made the second advance to Paymaster M. J. Conifry."

"While I have some difficulty," adds the inspector, "in following Mr. Mooney's confused records, I have come to the conclusion that in all the evidence tendered at the inquiry there is nothing to associate him (Mr. Mooney) with the unaccounted-for balance of £784 11s. 4d., and, while I am equally convinced of the probity of Michael J. Conify and of the late James Wrynne, I am inclined to the belief that with the destruction of Michael Conify's home and the closing of James Wrynne's grave there were lost for ever documents and explanations which would be of very material assistance in elucidating the problem of the unaccounted-for balance of £784 11s. 4d.

"In these circumstances I have to recommend that the County Council of Leitrim should now write off the revenue this asset of £784 11s. 4d., which, in my opinion, affords such slender hope of realisation, but as to which there was not up to the present sufficient ground to warrant its abandonment."

EVERY PENNY ACCOUNTED FOR.

Mr. Mooney proposed that the auditor's report should not be adopted, and that an extraordinary audit of the Council's accounts should be held. He was not, he said, agreeable to wiping out the amount and re-striking it on the rates. Certain facts which were brought out at the inquiry, and a cheque which was then produced, led him to the belief that all the facts were not before the auditor when he made his report. It was all right to refer to the elementary principles of bookkeeping in the Black and Tan days, when they were instructed to make things as intricate as they could to save the money. He saved the money and accounted for every penny that he got.

Mr. J. McGowan seconded the proposal.

It was decided to mark the inspector's findings, "Submitted," and not to adopt the report previously made by Mr. Busher, auditor, about the alleged missing money.

The question of holding an extraordinary audit will be discussed at the next meeting.

THE OATH.

Mr. Michael McGrath proposed the following resolution:—"That we, the members of Leitrim County Council, having in mind the ultimate peace and unity of the country, appeal for the removal of the oath barrier in the Dail, as we consider it the only obstacle which debars a large section of our elected representatives from meeting in Parliament the other representatives of the people, and thus help to make for that stability, progress and prosperity which the people desire and long for."

A motion to proceed with the next business having been defeated by 15 votes against 8, several members left the room, and the resolution was adopted by 12 votes to 1.

BENEFITS DELAYED.

DROGHEDA, Monday.

Thanking the members of the Louth County Council for re-electing him Chairman, Mr. J. T. McGee said that to his mind the Irish people had often too great an admiration for their leaders. He never questioned the sincerity of their leaders, but he believed that the Irish people had left them go too far, and frequently failed to reprimand them when they found that they were going the wrong way.

He hoped that the party that they had sent back to power in Dublin would do their work well. There was one specific scheme—the placing at the disposal of the agricultural community of such funds as were wanted—which the Government should exert themselves to carry out. They had been told in Ardee in February or March last by the Minister for Finance (Mr. Blythe) that immediately after the election a loan would be floated and an agricultural corporation founded to help the farmers to stock the land. But he saw recently that the scheme had been adjourned until November. Candidly, he did not think that that was cricket. (Hear, hear.)

DAIRYING INDUSTRY.

THE GOVERNMENT'S SCHEME CONDEMNED.

In a statement made following his unanimous re-election for the third time as Chairman of the South Tipperary County Council yesterday, Mr. P. L. Ryan, Russellstown House, Tipperary, referred to the adverse trade balance in the Free State, and said that there could be no prosperity in the country until that was wiped out. The only way of wiping it out was by mass production, and the only industry where that could be successfully applied was the dairying industry, which should be fostered and extended as much as possible.

Quite recently there a scheme was put forward for the buying out of the Condensed Milk Company of Ireland. He took that opportunity of condemning that scheme, for the simple reason, that the foundation of it was altogether wrong.

He was not going to talk politics—he was not and never would be a politician—but he would say that the men who carried out that scheme were not fit to retain the positions they were in. When he had been going forward in the recent general election as a Cumann na nGaedheal candidate, it had been stated up and down in the country that he was at the back of the dairying scheme. That he wished completely to deny. He would not have mentioned the matter at all but for the fact that he looked on the dairying industry as one of the greatest sources of revenue in the country. In his own district were it not for the dairying industry the people would be paupers.

NURSE'S INJURIES.

DANGEROUS MOTORING CASE AT OMAGH.

Bearing scars about her face, an asylum nurse, Mary J. Knox, came forward at Omagh Petty Sessions yesterday, when a charge was taken up against a young man named Michael J. Devlin, of motoring to the danger of the public, and told the magistrates how, when cycling at Omagh, she was hurled through the defendant's car, which, she stated, came along on the wrong side of the road at a "terrific speed," the driver appearing to have lost control.

The defendant swore that he had the car under perfect control and was travelling at twenty miles an hour. The cyclist came along "close to her wrong side," and when he swerved to allow her to pass the accident occurred.

He was fined £5, and his licence was endorsed.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

AMERICAN CLERGYMAN ON U.S. PROBLEMS.

ADDRESS TO DUBLIN ROTARY CLUB.

The Very Rev. W. O. Thomson, D.D., President Emeritus of the State University, Ohio, and ex-Moderator of the American Presbyterian Church, addressed the members of the Dublin Rotary Club yesterday afternoon on "The Tendencies of American Democracy."

That day (Independence Day), he said, was a great day in the history of the world, because people recognised in the struggles of democracy movements which pushed them along. He firmly believed that the world was "going up and going on," and he did not think that it was going to smash. "I think," he said, "that we have a better world in 1927 than we had one hundred years ago."

Dealing with the Constitution and Government of the United States of America, where there were forty-eight States under separate jurisdictions, he said that their difficulty was to harmonise the people, because America was a landing place for every nation. For instance, in Cleveland, they had thirty languages spoken, and fifty per cent. of all the boys and girls in the public schools came from families which did not speak the English language. As they formed new States they wrote into the Constitution certain tendencies towards democracy which were never found before in any of their State Constitutions.

FARMERS AND PROTECTION.

America, he pointed out, was mainly an agricultural and manufacturing country. Since the great world war they had found a slump in agriculture, and many of their farmers had been ruined in the great Middle-West. They were now going forward to ask the Government for protection. They had got to face that position, because these people believed that the Government should help them.

His parents taught him that it was his business to support the Government; now the children were being taught that it was the business of the Government to support them. (Laughter.)

They found people bringing all their ills to Washington: if they only knew it, it was the worst place to go with them. It was a failure with a great many people to think that the Government could cure all ills. It could not be done in the United States; but he did not know what they could do in Ireland. (Laughter.)

FLOCKING TO THE CITIES.

There was a tendency for people to leave the rural districts and go into the cities. Many of their big industrialists were concerned about keeping up, and increasing, their output and sales. There were fewer people now on the farms than there were forty years ago. Yet is was a fact that they produced more food to-day than they did forty years ago, because of improved machinery.

That was the economic situation facing the country—whether they would be able to maintain their growing cities, and also the country districts which were at the back of them. The cost of living in cities was a great deal higher than in the rural districts, and the price which the producer got, and the price which the purchaser paid, should come a little nearer than at present.

OVERFLOWING UNIVERSITIES.

Dr. Thomson then referred to the problem of education. They had, he said, a compulsory school system, where children should attend between the ages of 6 and 14, and, if they failed to pass the eighth grade, should continue until the age of 16 years before they could engage in remunerative employment. That system was gradually pushing up the level of intelligence.

There was a great tendency to go to secondary schools and universities. Their universities were overflowing with students, and it was doubted if they would be able to maintain an educational programme of that sort. All he could say was: If educated people could not take care of themselves, who could?

TAXATION AND REPRESENTATION.

Speaking of taxation, Dr. Thomson said that the Irish Free State had no taxation on land, and had no indebtedness, but the United States of America had. He had seen in Ireland the great investments that had come down to them through the centuries—great cathedrals, universities, and great walled areas with a history running back ten centuries. They had nothing of these things in America; with them things were new, and they had to pay for everything in sight.

Referring to the Senate, he said that American Senators were now supposed to be elected by the people, but it was said of them that the Senate was formed of people who did not believe in democracy, and were there to prevent business being done. Reform in that direction was badly needed.

They had provided in many States for the democratic election, not only of Government members of the Senate and House of Representatives, but of the judiciary.

A MINORITY GOVERNMENT.

Their greatest difficulty was the inactivity of the voter. At the last Presidential election in 1920 only 50 per cent. of the voters polled, so that slightly over 25 per cent. of them made the majority. In other words, they had a minority form of Government, which was majority by consent. Democracy would never completely function while that went on.

Mr. George Harris, Washington, also addressed the Rotarians, and said that, owing to the conduct of the Senate, Washington would have been without money last year to run its business if five banks had not lent the municipality money.

Major Bryan Cooper, T.D., conveying the thanks of the meeting to the speakers, said that the problems referred to by Dr. Thomson were not only American problems, but world-wide problems, and the slump in agriculture was reflected nearer home. In Ireland they also found that rural populations were coming into the cities, particularly Dublin. From most parts of the country people wrote looking for jobs from the Government, but the Cork boys came up in person. (Laughter.)

FOR PALTRY ARTICLES

FARMER AND WIFE STOOP TO THEFT.

Together with his wife, David Deazley, of Straduff, Dromore, Co. Tyrone, a farmer, stated to be the owner of about 145 acres of land, was charged at Omagh Petty Sessions yesterday with the larceny of parcels containing goods belonging to Mrs. Ellen Beattie and Miss Ethel Beatty, of Gillygooley. Both pleaded guilty.

When the police called, the defendants denied having the goods, but on their house being searched on warrant one of the parcels was found.

Captain Gosselin, R.M., said that in the course of quarter of a century on the Bench he had never had such a case before him. It was awful to think that a man and woman occupying the station in life of the defendants should stoop so low as to steal a few paltry articles.

The defendants were given the benefit of the Probation of Offenders Act and ordered to find bail, each in £25, with two sureties of £12 10s.

THE SHEEHAN MEMORIAL STATUE.

RUMOURED REMOVAL WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

Yesterday afternoon, owing to the fact that several workmen were seen to be occupied at the Sheehan memorial statue at the junction of Burgh quay and Hawkins street, Dublin, a rumour was circulated that the statue was about to be removed.

An Irish Times representative has been informed that this is not the case; the work going on at the statue is in connection with the renewal of the foundations. The statue was erected in memory of Constable Patrick Sheehan, who in the year 1905 lost his life in an endeavour to rescue two Corporation employés who were overcome by sewage gas. He went down a manhole to their assistance and succeeded in getting them both to the surface, but later all three succumbed to the effects of the gas.

BADGERS AMONG THE FOWLS.

Great destruction is being caused in the district of Inchanny, Strabane, by badgers. Recently a farmer, named Mr. Thompson, lost forty fowls. Neighbours have accounted for five badgers by trapping and shooting them.

IN THE NORTHERN CAPITAL.

BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Monday.

THE principal event in Belfast during the week-end was the celebration of the eleventh anniversary of the battle of the Somme, in which the Ulster Division suffered so heavily. Time, however, has softened the pain of bereavement, and with the passing of the years the crowds attending the annual ceremonies are becoming smaller and smaller. On this occasion the attendance was very disappointing, even although the weather was favourable.

Visitors from Scotland and England wonder at these recurring days of remembrance, and point out that, although their countries gave equal sacrifices, they have no such functions there. Simple, but stately, ceremony marked the occasion, and there was an imposing display of military force, while representatives of all the Services laid wreaths on the Cenotaph in front of the City Hall. Perhaps, the most touching incidents of the day were when orphaned children, wearing their fathers' medals, together with several widows, laid bunches of wild flowers at the base of the Cenotaph.

THE LATE BISHOP OF MEATH.

The news of the death of the Most Rev. Dr. Collins, Bishop of Meath, was received with feelings of profound regret by all creeds and classes in Belfast. He was a familiar figure in the city for many years, and as Dean of Belfast he carried out the duties of his high office in a manner worthy of the highest traditions of the Church of Ireland. As one of the founders of the Trinity College Mission in this city, he took a deep interest in that lowly-placed, but growing, congregation, situated in a congested district in the Shankill area, and was never happier than when going in and out amongst the people. To him the Cathedral owes much of its development in recent years.

The handsome Baptistery was built during his vicarship, while the completion of the West Front, which was dedicated quite recently, was one of his most cherished ideals. Dr. Collins belonged to the evangelical school of religious thought, and he taught the truths of Christianity in the beauty of simplicity. He was a man of gentle nature, with generous sympathies and high intellectual gifts, and in the North he will be remembered as one who delighted in serving others.

BELFAST CATHEDRAL.

The Dean of Belfast, who succeeded the late Dr. Collins as Vicar of St. Anne's Cathedral, is winning the golden opinions of all classes by his valuable services to the Church. As an organiser he has very few equals, and he is maintaining the high traditions connected with his distinguished position. At Morning Service yesterday he paid a tribute to benefactors of the Cathedral in the past, and referred to a series of gifts which had been received for the beautifying of the building since their Service of Dedication. The Primate and Mrs. D'Arcy are carving the corbel of Ussher, so that from the centre of the south side of the nave a great Archbishop of Armagh will look across at a great Archbishop of Dublin—Archbishop King, the gift of the present Archbishop of Dublin.

The Rev. Donald Moore, in memory of his father-in-law, Dr. Granby Higinbotham, is carving the corbel of the Archangel Gabriel, and the capital of the last available pillar of the nave is to be carved by Mr. Samuel Knox in memory of his father, Dr. Kyle Knox. The members of the choir propose to decorate with mosaics the great tympanum over the central door on the inside, the subject being identified with sacred music. Other touches of colour will be afforded by the two rose windows which are to be filled with stained glass—one by Mr. and Mrs. Ferrar, and the other by the Dean and Mrs. Brett. Monetary gifts have also been received for the completion of various works in the beautifying of the Cathedral.

DISABLED EX-SERVICE MEN.

The bill for the compulsory employment of disabled ex-Service men, which came before the Northern House of Commons during the closing stages of last session, and was rejected by the Government, seems to be creating still further dissention. It will be remembered that Lieutenant-Colonel P. J. Woods, C.M.G., D.S.O., who introduced the measure, accused the Minister of Labour of want of sympathy with those who had served their country; whereas, on the other hand, the Minister declared that the bill would not be in the interests of those whom it was intended to help, and that it would defeat its own object. The subject was discussed at the last meeting of the Belfast Branch of the British Legion, and Captain J. L. Bennett, Chairman of the Northern Ireland Area Council, said that a wrong impression had been created by some of the statements made by Colonel Woods. Giving his own personal impression, Captain Bennett stated that the Council had invariably found Mr. Andrews sympathetic when they approached him with a grievance, even although they were not always satisfied with what the Government had done for them.

IN FAVOUR OF THE BILL.

The Area Council are in favour of the bill, which was first promoted by the British Legion in the Imperial Parliament, where it is at present held up, and Colonel Woods was briefed by the Legion to present a similar measure in the Northern Parliament. Before it was brought into the House reference was made in this column to the awkward predicament in which the Government were placed, and the Junior Unionist Whip drew the attention of members to the paramount duty of voting for their party, even although their sympathies might be elsewhere. Colonel Woods now defends his action, and says that, alhough the bill was non-political, the Government made it a political matter. They must work together, he contended; for they would never force anything through if the Government thought that the heads of the Legion were not in earnest. It is thought in some quarters that only the Imperial Government can legislate in regard to ex-Service men, but in any case the difficulty seems to be settling itself; for, in answer to renewed appeals by Mr. Andrews, the King's National Roll Committees are now giving more preference to ex-Service men, and more particularly to disabled members of the Legion. Nevertheless, there are still 1,156 disabled men registered as unemployed, and it is hoped that the problem will be solved by the good-will and co-operation of employers. With increased prosperity and the absorbing of these victims of the war, there would, of course, be no need for any compulsory measure in Parliament.

FREE STATE CURRENCY.

The Free State Currency Bill, which has passed its second reading in Dail Eireann, has aroused a good deal of curiosity in Northern Ireland, and, notwithstanding the reported explanations of the Minister of Finance, the situation is not clear. The fact that the Southern Exchequer will gain £250,000 per year by the proposed innovation, is, of course, a very solid consideration, but will the scheme work out according to plan? In a small country like Ireland two different monetary systems seem almost certain to cause confusion, particularly as North and South are inextricably bound together in trade and commerce, as well as socially. Mr. Blythe's statement that the Free State note issue will be backed £1 for £1 with British sterling, so that there can be no exchange variations, is a comforting assurance, but will people outside the borders of the Free State accept such notes when presented in payment? They certainly will be viewed with suspicion and distrust north of the Boyne. Even under present conditions difficulty is frequently experienced in changing an Irish bank note across the Channel, and when this operation is successful the owner has generally to pay commission. The Treasury note is popular everywhere, as it has the guarantee of the Imperial Government behind it, but the infant Free State cannot, as yet, hope to instil such confidence. Another significant aspect of the matter is that the new note issue will prove an even greater obstacle to the final union between North and South than even the border itself. Moreover, with ever-changing conditions, can anyone be positive that no exchange variations will occur in the years to come?

PRAISE FOR DUBLIN.

"Dear, dirty Dublin" got a word of praise at the monthly meeting of the Belfast Corporation. Visitors to the Southern capital come back here with their ideas changed regarding the ancient reputation of the city on the Liffey. They are charmed with its old-world atmosphere, and its cleanliness is a subject of favourable comment. Alderman Oswald Jamison, ex-High Sheriff of Belfast, is one of the converts, provided that he ever needed converting. When the minutes of the Belfast Tramways Committee were being considered, he complained of the condition of the tram lines and paving in fashionable Donegall place, and said that it was extraordinary that a contract carried out within the last eighteen months should be in such a condition at present. "When I was in Dublin recently," he said, "I was amazed to see the almost perfect condition of the streets there, and could not help contrasting them with the Belfast streets." He added that nothing could do Belfast more harm in the eyes of visitors than the present disgraceful state of its streets and footpaths. Alderman Jamison's comparisons between the two capitals may not be relished in certain quarters, but his opinion will be endorsed by a good many.

LURE OF ELECTRIC HARE.

During the week-end the Right Hon. Sir William Turner, D.L., Lord Mayor of Belfast, formally opened the electric hare season at Celtic Park. The sport of greyhound racing has proved a great attraction, although promoters of coursing prophesy disaster to this new form of amusement within a few years. At present, however, its lure seems to be irresistible, and its devotees are numbered by thousands. Sir William humorously remarked that the city was "going to the dogs," and said that he was in good company. He pointed out that Belfast was the pioneer in Ireland in that type of sport, and one of the first in the United Kingdom, an example which was being followed elsewhere. It is believed by many experts that greyhound racing will detract from the dogs when they take part in the legitimate sport in the open fields, as although speed will be increased, the finer points cultivated in pursuit of the living hare will be neglected.

A series of band contests was held in Limerick last Sunday. Special trains were run from Dublin, Cork and Tipperary.

Fife and Drum.—O'Connell's Band, Dublin, 1; St. Mary's, Limerick, 2; Parnell's Guards Band, Cork, 3. An objection to the winning band was upheld, and the first prize awarded to St. Mary's.

Pipe Major Starr, New Barracks, and Mr. William Keane, Limerick, were the adjudicators.

KILLED ON HER BIRTHDAY.

A verdict that death was accidental, no blame being attached to anyone, was returned at an inquest yesterday on Jennie McDowell, aged 14, Ballywilliam, Portrush, who was knocked down by a motor car, driven by J. F. Hunter, Coleraine, and killed instantaneously in the vicinity of her home. She was playing on the roadside with a younger sister and ran in front of the car, which, apparently, she did not see approaching. It was her birthday.

GEORGE I. STATUE.

REMOVAL OF MANSION HOUSE MEMORIAL.

The equestrian statue of George I. standing on a pedestal in the Mansion House garden overlooking Dawson street, Dublin, referred to in the words of Thackeray as "Our blessed Sovereign George I. peering over a paling," has been handed over to a contractor, who is to remove it from its present position to a site further back in the lawn, in order to permit of a more suitable entrance to the public rooms of the Mansion House being made.

This statue was erected in 1720 on the old Essex Bridge, facing up the river Liffey, and on the rebuilding of the bridge in 1753 it was removed. It was not until 1798 that it was placed in its present position. On the pedestal is the inscription:—

"Be it remembered that at the time when rebellion and disloyalty were the characteristics of the day, the Loyal Corporation of the City of Dublin re-elevated this statue of the First Monarch of the illustrious House of Hanover.

"Thomas Fleming, Lord Mayor.

"Jonas Paisley and William Henry Archer, Sheriffs.

WORLD'S RECORD SEA FLIGHT
June 28th 1927
USING Mobiloil

2400 miles across the Pacific

A marvellous achievement, when engine failure meant a descent into the sea and possible disaster.

The United States Army Air Corps pilots who accomplished this epoch-making flight from San Francisco to Hawaii used Mobiloil "B" to lubricate the three Wright "Whirlwind" engines of their Fokker plane.

They pinned their faith to the standard grade of Mobiloil "B"—identical in every respect with the Mobiloil "B" you can buy at all garages.

Colonel Lindbergh, the Atlantic hero, used Mobiloil; Commander Byrd, in his amazing North Pole Flight, used Mobiloil. You can follow their lead by making the Mobiloil Chart your guide and asking for Mobiloil every time you buy oil.

ILLEGAL FISHING.

FRENCH SKIPPER FINED AT WATERFORD.

At a special court at Waterford yesterday, Jean Gournelan, skipper of the French fishing sloop Thenis (of Camaris), was fined £8 and £1 expenses for fishing for lobster within the three-miles limit off Hook Head, Co. Waterford. The Thenis was arrested last Saturday by the Irish Lights ship Muirchui, formerly the Helga, and the offence was proved by Captain Thompson, who said that he had already warned the defendant on June 23rd last, when he caught him fishing close to the rocks off Old Head of Kinsale.

The defendant's case was that he had not been warned previously for fishing for lobster, as on the occasion mentioned by Captain Thompson he had been looking for bait only. He denied that he knew that he was inside the three-mile limit on Saturday, and protested that he had lost his bearings in the fog.

AWARDS AT MIDLAND FEIS.

LORD LONGFORD AND THE IRISH LANGUAGE.

Speaking at the opening of the Midland Feis, which was held in Mullingar last Sunday, Lord Longford said that he was not optimistic enough to believe that Ireland would become entirely Irish-speaking in his time, but it would become so, and when that day arrived, with it would come the dawn of more happier and prosperous days; for then it would be found that one and all would have one common objective—to work together for the good of their country.

Rev. J. C. Madden, Adm., who presided, said that he would suggest to the much-harassed Government of the country that they should set up in every important town, or other centre in the Free State, a Government-controlled dépôt, where there would be exhibits of Irish manufactured articles and where sales of these would be pushed. The sooner the country became Irish-speaking the better for it and its future happiness and prosperity.

FIANNA FAIL AND THE OATH.

THE PROPOSED REFERENDUM.

Dr. J. Ryan and Mr. F. Aiken, T.D.'s, addressed a public meeting in Wexford last night in furtherance of the Fianna Fail campaign for a referendum of the people on the question of the oath.

Dr. Ryan said that the Press was endeavouring to lead the people to believe that the Fianna Fail elected representatives were discussing whether they should take the oath. Those representatives never discussed that question.

"If I object to the oath personally," said Dr. Ryan, "and if the people want me to go in, and they call on me to go in, I will say I shall never take that oath, and they are free to vote for whom they like at the next election."

Proceeding, he said that they were not going to ask any of the parties in the Free State Government to remove the oath; but they were going to ask the people who could remove it. There was one clause in the Constitution which was meant to be for the sake of democracy, and Fianna Fail was going to see that that was put into force.

The machinery by which it could be done was being set up, and they knew that the people would avail themselves of it when they got the opportunity.

Concluding, Dr. Ryan warned his hearers against subscribing to unauthorised people who were going around the county collecting money in the name of Republicans.

Mr. Aiken said that on the night after the Fianna Fail Deputies were refused admission to Leinster House they reitarated their pledges not to take under any circumstances an oath to a British King. The Free State Constitution, which was not an instrument by which the prosperity and happiness of the Irish nation could be built, would have to be radically changed.

Mr. C. McCarthy, who presided, said that, if President Cosgrave refused their demand, another means of dealing with him would be found.

THE ABBEY THEATRE RE-OPENS.

"PARTED" AND "THE SHADOW OF A GUNMAN."

The Abbey Theatre, Dublin, re-opened last night after the holidays with the one-act tragedy "Parted," by M. C. Madden, and Sean O'Casey's "The Shadow of a Gunman." Whether it is that Mr. O'Casey's pull is as strong in Dublin as ever, or whether a night at the Abbey is an essential of the programme of visitors to Dublin, the theatre was filled.

Mr. Madden's tragedy has, for a first effort, the advantage of well-written dialogue. Its chief merit, however, is the promise that it gives of better when the young author's sense of the stage has matured. The "Gunman" went, if anything, better than ever. Each member of the cast got freshness into [illegible] Mr. McCormick's political philosophy, spoken through the person of Seumas Shields, [illegible] Miss Crowe was, as in past productions, a winsome [illegible] Mr. Carolan's study of Adolphus Grigson [illegible] the "Orange Lily" song is the essence of real droll, [illegible] the Auxiliary, played for the first time by Mr. Stephenson, [illegible] importance in the author's scheme of happenings.

Wireless licences are to be issued free to blind persons in the Free State.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

King Fuad of Egypt arrived in England yesterday.—(Page 7.)

The House of Commons last night, in Committee, approved Clauses 29, 30 and 31 of the Finance Bill, which are designed to prevent evasions of the super-tax by companies.—(Page 7.)

Great crowds witnessed the funeral yesterday in Wiltshire of Mr. James White, the financier.—(Page 4.)

Many cases of violent deaths are reported to-day. At St. Ives, Hants, a man shot dead his wife and son, and committed suicide. Fire destroyed the station buildings at Dalwhinnie, Inverness-shire, and the body of the stationmaster was found in the ruins, with a bullet through his head and a gun by his side. A chemist's assistant, out of work, shot himself in the cellar of his home at Sunbury-on-Thames. A well-to-do Italian woman, aged 61, strangled herself with handkerchiefs at her home in Hove. Newquay Urban District Council Surveyor was found dead on the headland. A Swindon man died whilst listening to a concert.—(Page 8.)

A serious decline in the agricultural shows in Great Britain is reported by Sir Walter Gilbey.—(Page 7.)

London Stock Markets were steady, with firm features. Liptons fell sharply.—(Page 4.)

Money was easy in Lombard street, and loans falling due were repaid to the Bank. Overnight advances were made at 3½ down to 3 per cent. Discount rates were quiet.—(Page 4.)

In Dublin the market was irregular, and, except for a sharp rise in Great Southern Debs., prices were almost unchanged. Coats Shares were better.—(Page 4.)

The Tourist Traffic.

The heads of the Great Western Railway Company and of the Southern Irish Railways were in conference yesterday at Killarney. Viscount Churchill, chairman of the English company, said that it was "thoroughly imbued" with Southern Ireland's possibilities as a tourist resort for the people of Great Britain. Sir Felix Pole, the company's general manager, said that its policy was to keep at home and to bring to Ireland the millions of Britons who now spend their holidays abroad. Since we know that the London, Midland and Scottish Railway shares this spirit of enlightened self-interest, we may assume that, as between Great Britain and Ireland, the tourist season of 1927 is opening under good auspices. The Royal Dublin Society's Horse Show will be an enormous attraction, and Irish roads no longer are a stumbling-block for English motorists. If July, August and September are fine, this year ought to see a considerable increase of tourist traffic from England; and it will be Ireland's fault if the tourists are not enlisted as agents for the prosperity of future seasons. On the other hand, we find no cause to anticipate an unusually large influx of visitors from the United States, and we continue to wonder why that Pactolian stream, unlike the Gulf Stream, refuses so obstinately to gild our shores. Since the Great War made them the wealthiest people of the world the citizens of the United States have developed a passion for foreign travel. They come annually to Europe in their hundreds of thousands, and are discharged at Liverpool, Southampton, Cherbourg and Hamburg; but only a tiny driblet from the main body reaches Ireland by way of Queenstown or indirectly through England. Yet, as compared with England, France or Germany, Ireland has a paramount appeal for Americans. Every American town has thousands of citizens who cherish sacred memories of some ancestral village in Ireland. Such men, encountered at home, will drop any other subject in order to talk about "the old country" with a newly-arrived Irishman. Why is Ireland so slow to turn this huge mass of sentiment into pounds, shillings and pence?

The establishment of the Free State has not given the expected impetus to the American tourist traffic; and, since in this respect the fifth year of freedom is likely to show results only slightly, if at all, better than those of its four predecessors, the matter ought to be taken in hand seriously without further delay. Our mistake hitherto has been that we have tackled it from the wrong end. We have tried to win the help of trans-Atlantic shipping companies, have complained about the inadequate harbour facilities at Queenstown, and have thrown our hats in the air when a liner has paid a complimentary visit to Galway; but we have forgotten that shipping companies take people only to appointed places. We have two tourist organisations at home, which are an absurdity in this small island; but we have no tourist organisation—at least no efficient tourist organisation—in the United States. The American people are methodical travellers. They plan their European trips beforehand with great care, map their routes, make lists of their hotels and calculate their expenses. In every city and large town of the United States there are experts who minister to these needs, but a recent Irish visitor, having traversed the whole country, found no expert who took a special interest in Ireland. If we wish to create a big, regular and lucrative tourist traffic with America, our first need is the presence in America of agents who will create the desire to visit Ireland—or rather, will give practical direction to a desire which already is latent in at least fifty per cent. of the well-to-do population. As we have said, there are tens of thousands of American citizens who, for sentimental reasons, would make Ireland their landing place in Europe if deft advantage were taken of their sentiment and if the delights of such a holiday were impressed properly on their minds. As soon as these tens of thousands began to declare themselves shipping companies would make haste to accommodate them, and, when Queenstown became once again a profitable port, all necessary facilities would be forthcoming without parley. It is our firm belief that a score of active agents in the United States would do more for the tourist traffic in two years than our local organisations are likely to do in half a century.

King Fuad's Visit.

The visit of the King of Egypt to England is an event of some political significance. Yesterday he was welcomed cordially by the people of London, who recognise that his visit is likely to lead to a permanent improvement in the relations between Egypt and Great Britain. The present condition of affairs is very unsatisfactory. In 1922, when King Fuad became head of an independent Egypt, the relative positions of the two countries were defined in a unilateral declaration which was made by the British Government. By virtue of this declaration Egypt was granted political independence, but four matters were reserved for future settlement. Britain remained responsible for the safety of imperial communications across Egyptian territory—in other words, for the Suez Canal; for the defence of Egypt against foreign aggression; for the protection of foreigners in Egypt, and, finally, for the administration of the Sudan. On various occasions since 1922 attempts have been made to re-open these questions and to place the relations between Britain and Egypt on a more satisfactory basis; but invariably some unfortunate crisis has intervened. In 1924 Sir Lee Stack was murdered in Cairo; in 1925 there were mutinies in the Sudan for which Egyptian agitators were directly responsible, and during the present year the attempt to free the Egyptian Army from British control caused considerable friction between the two Governments. The firm attitude of Lord Lloyd, the British High Commissioner, however, has had an excellent effect in Egypt; and King Fuad's visit may be regarded as the beginning of more friendly feelings between Cairo and London. He is accompanied by his Prime Minister, Sarwat Pasha, who will have important conversations with Sir Austen Chamberlain, and all the outstanding problems will be discussed at some length.

So far as Great Britain is concerned, there can be no question of compromise on two essential points. She must retain control of the Suez Canal, and she must continue to govern the Sudan. The Suez Canal is a vital link in the imperial chain. If the British Government should relinquish control of this indispensable passage between East and West, one of the Empire's greatest guarantees of security would disappear, and, much as His Majesty's Government may be anxious to conciliate Egyptian opinion, it cannot afford to make such a sacrifice. Similarly, it cannot abandon the Sudan to Egyptian rule. In a comparatively short space of time the Sudanese desert has been transformed into a fertile land; its inhabitants, formerly savage Dervishes, have been civilised and taught to appreciate the fruits of Western culture, and the change that has been wrought under British rule has been little short of a miracle. Zaghlul Pasha and his friends demand now that Great Britain shall hand over the Sudan to the tender mercies of an Egyptian administration, although Egypt has no juster title to the country than she has to Palestine or Mesopotamia. Apart altogether from the economic aspect of the case, the Sudan has much strategic value, and its control is almost as important to the British Empire as the control of the Suez Canal. For that reason alone no British Government could risk its abandonment. If Sarwat Parsha is willing to accept these two points, there will be no difficulty about an agreement on all the other outstanding issues; but these are fundamental. Insistence on Britain's control of the Canal and the Sudan implies no enmity to Egyptian aspirations. It merely shows that the British people are not prepared to commit an act of imperial suicide.

The Future of Gas.

In these days of large-scale electrification of industries, of railways and of domestic services it would be natural to suppose that gas was falling out of use. This would be a mistake. The gas industry still thrives, and there is every reason to believe that it has a future of usefulness and prosperity before it. The Engineering Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph points out that, when coal is converted into gas, a considerably larger calorific value is yielded than when it is converted into electrical energy. This means that, so long as Britain possesses large coal deposits, the production of gas will be economic. Steady advances are being made in the science of gas production, and ever more profitable use is being made of the by-products of the gas works—coke and tar. Research has its headquarters in the University of Leeds, where a complete gas research plant is at work. Among the problems with which the experts are wrestling is that of improving the quality of the coke. As a household fuel gas coke has admitted disadvantages, and experiments have been made in the blending of different types of coal in order to yield a coke more agreeable to the housewife. Low temperature carbonisation of coal has come to be regarded as technically sound, but the difficulty in its adoption on a commercial scale lies in the expense which would be involved in the alteration of plant possessed by gas companies. The solid residue yielded by slow carbonisation possesses a greater freedom of combustion than high temperature coke, while the gas yielded by this process has an unusually high thermal value. Pulverisation also is being investigated as a means of making the solid residue immediately adaptable to the process of steam-raising. It is thought that progress along these lines of research will bring into being large-scale gas plants, which will serve to distribute, in economic and more convenient form than that of coal blocks, the calorific reserves of the mines.

Vaccination of Dogs.

Barcelona is the first European city to make the vaccination of dogs compulsory. Hydrophobia long has been rampant there, but the Barcelona Correspondent of El Debate reports that inoculation with the Umeno vaccine is expected to extinguish the malady. Inoculation is performed, without charge, at the municipal laboratory. One injection is given as a prophylactic to dogs which are not infected, and two injections are given to dogs which have been bitten by infected animals. Since the process was introduced, and especially since it was made compulsory, the number of infected persons and dogs has decreased rapidly. The only obstacle to the complete stamping out of the disease seems to be the difficulty of inoculating the large numbers of ownerless dogs—perros vagabundos—which infest the outskirts of the city. A Japanese doctor, who gives his name to the vaccine used, was the originator of the treatment. Between 1915 and 1918 hydrophobia raged in Japan, and the Japanese Government offered a prize—which Dr. Umeno Doi won—for the discovery of an effective remedy. In Kamagawa and Tokio the vaccine was administered to 31,307 dogs, with the result that the number of cases of infection fell by 75 per cent. A little later the treatment was adopted in California with great success, and in Los Angeles the vaccination of dogs was made compulsory. Bacteriologists from Barcelona studied the system in New York, and introduced it to their city in 1921. Since that date tens of thousands of inoculations, preventive and curative, have been made in Barcelona. Inquiries have been made in Barcelona on behalf of Madrid, Seville, Santander, Bilbao, Valencia, Pamplona and Gijon, as well as on behalf of nations oversea.

IRELAND AND GERMANY.

THE STATE OF PARTIES.

By W. H. O'BRIEN.

MUNICH, July 1st.

IRELAND is becoming modern with a vengeance. There seems to be no stop to her progress. We have radio and votes for women and American jazz bands. We have the bob, the shingle and the Eton crop. We even have two languages. Belgium, France, the U.S.A. and Germany are helping us to erect industrial plants. We shall soon see the first lumps of home-made sugar exhibited in some museum. Of all nations, it is the Germans we copy most, whether intentionally or unintentionally. We are copying their world-famed hydro-electric plant system, much to the dismay of our easy-going older generation and our God-fearing, simple country folk, who do not believe in dabbling with the good old Shannon.

Like Germany, we are fond of a large army, and we are even imitating their national game, in spite of the efforts of the Gaelic League to revive Gaelic football and other games. This new post-war game of German origin, which has spread as much as radio and crossword puzzles, can be played by everybody. Little skill or intelligence is needed—all that the player has to do is to criticise everybody and everything in the country, whether it be his neighbour, the Press, the Government or any other public persons or institution. Having become experts at this game, we consider it high time to imitate the so-called democratic political system and methods of Europe's most progressive nation.

We have tried hard, but (luckily) in vain, to beat the German Parliament's record of twenty-one parties; but we are ahead of the Teutons in so far as seven of our eight parties were returned, whereas at the last elections the German voters saw only nine out of twenty-one parties returned with sufficient representation. We are progressing. To those devoted to the modern pastime of fault-finding, and to those who are dissatisfied with the recent election results, the following notes about the composition of the German Reichstag, or Parliament, will be of interest.

During the next five years preceding the new elections, the large army of discontents who showed their disapproval of the present political system by abstaining from voting, will have ample time to study the methods of our Teuton neighbours, and, perhaps, will discover some more modern and exotic form of government.

The present German Government is a coalition of the bourgeois parties:—

110 Conservatives
69 Centrists
51 Populists
19 Bavarian Populists

249

AGAINST

131 Social-Democrats
45 Communists
32 Democrats
14 National Socialists
21 of other parties.

243

These represent the total of 492 seats in the Reichstag. The character of the parties is as follows:—

Conservatives—Diehards, former Junkers, chiefly landowners and military people. Anti-republican. Against Jews. For restoration of Kaiser or Protestant dynasty. Count Westarp is leader.

Populists—Industrialists and capitalists, former Liberals; leader is Stresemann. Accept Republic, although of Monarchist tendencies. Mostly Protestant.

Centrists—German Catholic Party. Dr. Marx, German Chancellor, is leader. Non-Monarchists, uphold Republic. Hold balance of power, sometimes siding with Conservatives. Have occasionally before sided with Socialists.

Bavarian Populists—Bavarian Catholic Party, but differing from Centrists in so far as they want restoration of Bavarian Royal Family, but against Kaiser and Home Rule for Bavaria.

Democrats—Non-Catholic Centre Party. Anti-Monarchists. Strictly Republican. Represent all moderate industrialists, especially Jews, of strictly democratic tendencies.

Social Democrats—Labour Party, but tending more to international Socialism.

Other Parties—Economists, Independent Socialists, Independents, etc., of little importance.

The most troublesome are the two extreme parties of the Right and Left, the National Socialists and Communists. Both advocate force, dictatorship, obstruction, and are, in general, negative politicians. The National Socialists under Ludendorff (ex-Army Chief) and Hitler attempted an overthrow of the Government on November 9th, 1923, by the unsuccessful "march to Berlin." They are the German Fascists, and see the salvation of Germany only in a dictatorship. They are anti-religious, anti-republican, anti-semitic. The name Socialist is a catch to try to enlist the working-classes. They are recruited from the associations of ex-officers without a living.

MILITARY JUMPING.

LETTER FROM MR. JUSTICE WYLIE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Much as I dislike newspaper correspondence, I feel that the letter of The McGillycuddy in your issue of to-day on the above subject, and your leader on it, are so misleading in their facts and inferences that they may do incalculable harm if not contradicted. The McGillycuddy suggests, first, that the horses were inexperienced and not carefully selected. Those same horses have won innumerable prizes (including two championships) at Ballsbridge and many provincial shows in Ireland. They were, I am aware, selected with the utmost care.

The McGillycuddy's second point is that the officers who rode were either inexperienced or inefficient. If The McGillycuddy had a little more knowledge of jumping competitions in Ireland, he would need no introduction to Captains Harty, Corry and Dwyer. Anyone who saw these officers at Ballsbridge last year could hardly suggest that they were inexperienced. Thirdly, The McGillycuddy suggests that no sufficient trouble was taken to train the horses, and that they were sent to Olympia without having seen a similar course—his view being apparently based on a remark of your correspondent at Olympia. The true facts are that an exact replica of the Olympia course was erected in a riding school in Dublin, and the horses were schooled over it with the greatest regularity all winter. Artificial light, bands, and all the properties were introduced, and no trouble was spared to complete the horses' training. I had an opportunity of being present at a rehearsal, and, having seen the horses perform almost faultlessly, I left with high hopes of the team's success at Olympia.

It may be asked, what then was the cause of the failure of the Irish team at Olympia? My answer is that the horses "travelled" badly. Their jumping at the opening of Olympia's competition was infinitely better than on the day of the Prince of Wales Cup, which is the competition discussed by The McGillycuddy. One horse on the second day had a round with only half a fault. The horses were unaccustomed to being away from home and in utterly unfamiliar surroundings for two or three weeks. They did not feed up, and got correspondingly "hot" as the competitions advanced. Again, all the winners at Olympia were aged—indeed, very old horses. The winner of the King's Cup is, I am informed, twenty-five years old. They have been schooled, travelled and shown for years. No one can expect horses to win at Olympia, with its unusual conditions, for about three years.

Again, I may be asked why the Irish team competed. The answer is this: The Royal Dublin Society is endeavouring to promote military jumping competitions and to induce foreigners to again revisit the country and purchase horses. Nowadays there must be reciprocity in sport. We will not get foreign teams here if we do not send our teams abroad. With this largely in view, the Irish team competed at Olympia. Everything has to have a beginning, and I can assure The McGillycuddy that, had he been at Olympia and seen and heard the reception the Irish team got and the friendly comments made, he would have spared himself his letter to your paper. Uninformed criticism, however well intended, can only handicap any attempted forward movement.—Yours, etc.,

W. E. WYLIE.

LONDON LETTER.

KING FUAD'S VISIT.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The reception given to the King of Egypt on his drive through the West End from Victoria Station this afternoon was extremely hearty—almost surprisingly so, in fact—and King Fuad seemed to appreciate the warmth of a greeting that was spontaneous and unrestrained. The reception at Victoria was similar to that given to other crowned heads, except that the Queen was not present, though the Duke of Connaught and four Princes—the Duke of York, Prince Henry, Prince George, and Prince Arthur of Connaught—lined up behind the King. The Prime Minister, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, and the notables who usually attend these functions were supported by a number of Egyptians in magnificent uniforms of blue and gold. The train drew up to the platform exactly at three o'clock, and King Fuad, closely followed by the Prince of Wales, alighted. He is rather portly, not tall, and has a very round face, with dark upturned moustache. The King, as soon as the train pulled up, stepped forward and met King Fuad with outstretched hand, and the two monarchs stood for a few moments chatting in a very animated manner. A move was then made for the State landaus and the drive through the streets. In the station courtyard an enclosure had been arranged for some scores of Egyptians, and, while the two Kings inspected the guard of honour furnished by the Irish Guards, these cheered and sang patriotic songs. When the procession left the station the demonstration was most enthusiastic on the part of the Egyptians, cheers for the King of England as well as the King of Egypt, being given again and again.

A Vote of Censure.

There was a good deal of activity in the precincts of Westminster to-day regarding the vote of censure debate on Wednesday. A meeting of the Conservative members who have signed the unofficial amendment to the Opposition motion was held in order that the situation might be discussed, and it is understood that these members will adhere to their amendment unless there is a Government one which they can support without surrender of principle. The Liberals sat in council at the National Liberal Club, and it probably will be found that, as a result of their deliberations, the greater number of the party will support the Government amendment if it is sufficiently indefinite. It is quite unlikely that the Liberals as a whole will support the Opposition. Another meeting held to-day was that of the Conservative members who form the Agricultural Committee, a body anxious to secure that something more definite than is at present apparent shall be offered to the farmers to relieve the hardships experienced in some cases.

Sir Cyril Cobb.

The attempt of the Socialists on the Standing Committee considering the Local Audits Bill to secure the discussion of a vote of censure on the Chairman of the Committee, Sir Cyril Cobb, has failed; for Mr. Churchill, leading the House this afternoon, said that the Government would not provide facilities for the discussion of any such motion. Mr. Greenwood suggested that there had been irregularities in the Committee, but Mr. Churchill added that he had no definite intimation as to that, though he understood that there had been friction. While it was inconvenient to leave the motion on the Order Paper, it was inconvenient to find a day to discuss it, and it was a great pity that it should be left on the paper. This announcement was received with cheers by the Conservatives, who greatly resent the attack on Sir Cyril Cobb.

The Trade Unions Bill.

It is probable that in a few days' time the Trade Unions Bill will become law, and it is extremely likely that it will be accepted throughout the country without any trouble. No campaign ever has fallen flatter than the Socialist efforts against the Bill. At its introduction the Socialists in the House of Commons declared that they would obstruct its passage throughout, while, as a matter of fact, the time allowed by the Government for the discussion of the different parts of the bill proved on occasions to be too generous. In the constituencies there is the same story of failure. Millions of leaflets denouncing the bill have been scattered all over the country, and a special organisation was set up to supervise a campaign, but all in vain. In one great centre a meeting of protest against the bill was arranged and was attended by twelve persons. In Liverpool a mass meeting against the bill was attended by 100 people.

A Masonic Visit.

There was a most interesting gathering at the Freemasons' Hall here last week, when the members of the Lodge of Antiquity and of the Royal Somerset House and Inverness Lodge entertained a deputation of Freemasons from the Grand Lodge of Ireland, to whom an address of welcome was read. The Irish brethren gave a demonstration of the working of the third ceremony, and afterwards inspected the treasures of the two English Lodges, both of which act by what is known as "immemorial constitution." Such exchanges of courtesies by branches of one of the greatest of benevolent institutions are greatly welcomed in Masonic circles.

The Betting Tax.

Summonses against bookmakers in various parts of the country for infringing the betting laws by not paying tax on cash transactions, which are illegal, have directed attention to the anomaly of the present position. The movement in favour of the change is gathering force, and there is a growing impression that some such scheme as that in operation in the Irish Free State must receive official consideration before long. It is believed that the Chancellor of the Exchequer is not altogether satisfied with the present arrangement, and that he is not averse to changes providing they do not arouse too much opposition, and, above all, that they will not cause a reduction in the estimated yield in the betting tax. Arrangements were being made to-day for calling a further meeting of M.P.'s interested in the introduction of the totalisator, the detailed working of which is to be explained by an authority on the subject.

French Cognac.

By one of the most remarkable transactions of its kind in the history of the vineyards of France, there has been brought to this country all the fine old brandy on the estates of Cognac. An Evening Standard representative to-day learned that, as a result, there is stored in London £2,000,000 worth of brandy belonging to vintages going a hundred years back. Some of it is worth £50 a bottle. It is a liquor which, in a sense, is priceless; for there is no more of it when this is done. The whole of the estates of Château de Chesseneui, St. Amant de Graves, Domaine St. Sevère, and Maison Lautrait, have been bought up. The French Government tax is an end to the vintages. Those which have been acquired are of 1893, 1875, 1865, 1848, 1836, 1827, 1820, and 1811. All this previously was under the control of some 30 organisations all in France. Now every drop of it is here.

Mr. George Barker, Labour M.P. for the Abertillery Division of South Wales, will retire at the end of the present Parliament. He is aged 69, and started work 59 years ago as door opener in a mine. He served in the Zulu war, and for some time was a mining official in China.

The Bankruptcy Commission will sit to hear evidence to-day in the Commercial Buildings, Dame street, Dublin.

KING FUAD IN ENGLAND.

CORDIAL WELCOME.

ANGLO-EGYPTIAN FRIENDSHIP.

BRILLIANT SCENES IN LONDON.

THE King of Egypt arrived in England yesterday on his State visit, and was met at Dover, after crossing from Calais in the Maid of Orleans, by the Prince of Wales on behalf of the King.

There was a naval escort of British destroyers and an air escort of fighter aeroplanes. Salutes were fired by the shore batteries as the Maid of Orleans approached Dover Harbour. Guards of honour of the Royal Navy and of the 2nd Battalion the Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire Regiment were mounted on the pier.

An address was presented to His Majesty from the Mayor and Corporation of Dover at the Marine Station. The King of Egypt and the Prince of Wales then travelled by special train on the Southern Railway from Dover to London.

THE KING'S GREETING.

King Fuad was greeted by the King at Victoria Station with a ceremony in which cordiality and dignity were mingled, and with cheering by crowds lining the route to Buckingham Palace. In honour of his visit the station and surrounding streets had been elaborately decorated. Hundreds of flags waved from the station courtyard, in which awaited a Sovereign's escort of Household Cavalry, with Standard, and a guard of honour found by the Irish Guards, who had also paraded their magnificent wolfhound.

The scene owed the brilliance of its colouring less to decorations than to the gold braid and scarlet, the varying shades of blue and yellow of the uniforms worn by the small, but distinguished, company which began to assemble half an hour before the train was timed to arrive. With the King, who was wearing the uniform of a British Field-Marshal, with the Order of the Garter, came the Duke of York and Prince George in naval uniform, Prince Henry in the uniform of the 10th Hussars, the Duke of Connaught in Field-Marshal's uniform, and Prince Arthur of Connaught in that of the Scots Greys.

Almost as soon as the train stopped, King Fuad stepped on to the platform to be warmly greeted by the King, who engaged him in conversation for a minute or two. While they were talking, the Prince of Wales, the Sarwat Pasha, and the British and Egyptian members of King Fuad's suite also alighted. There were numerous presentations, and then the King escorted his guests through the waiting-room.

STUDENTS' DEMONSTRATION.

As the party emerged from the station the band doing duty with the guard of honour played the Egyptian and British National Anthems, and a Royal salute was given. King Fuad inspected the guard of honour, and as he returned to the pavement there was an enthusiastic demonstration from a number of Egyptian students, who vigorously chanted "Long Live King George"; "Long Live King Fuad"; "Long Live Egypt," a salutation which both Kings smilingly acknowledged.

The King of Egypt was then conducted to his carriage by the Earl of Granard, Master of the Horse, and as soon as the King, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York had taken their seats in the same carriage, it moved slowly forward and was closed by the escort of the Royal Horse Guards, their breastplates and red plumes flashing in the sun.

Five other carriages, with postillions dressed in scarlet and gold, followed, and crowds of spectators watched the procession pass through Grosvenor Gardens, Grosvenor place, and along Constitution Hill to Buckingham Palace.

DECORATION FOR THE QUEEN.

At the Palace King Fuad was first welcomed in the Grand Hall by the officers of State and of the Royal Household, and was then escorted to the Bow Room, where he was received by the Queen, upon whom he conferred the Order of El Kemal.

Later in the afternoon King Fuad drove in a closed motor car into Whitehall, and in the presence of a large crowd placed a wreath of remembrance on the Cenotaph. He stood with bowed head for a few moments, and afterwards drove to Westminster Abbey. There he was received by the Dean and clergy, and led to the grave of the Unknown Warrior, on which he placed another wreath.

Before returning to Buckingham Palace he paid a number of visits to members of the Royal Family, and at St. James's Palace received addresses from the London County Council and the City of Westminster.

DINNER PARTY.

BRILLIANT SCENE AT THE PALACE.

Last evening the King and Queen gave a State banquet at Buckingham Palace in honour of King Fuad, who escorted the Queen to the diningroom. King George took in Princess Mary to dinner.

The Queen's dress was of cream tulle, embroidered in silver. The head-dress was a diamond tiara, and the diamond ornaments included the Lesser Stars of Africa, the Order of the Garter and the Egyptian Order of El Kemal.

The King, who wore the uniform of an Admiral of the Fleet, sat at the head of the table, with King Fuad on his right and Princess Mary on his left. On the right of the King of Egypt sat Queen Mary.

In addition to members of the Royal Family, the guests included several Ambassadors, the Prime Minister, members of the Cabinet, Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd George, the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of London, the Marquis and Marchioness of Anglesey, the Earl and Countess of Shaftesbury, the Earl and Countess of Granard, the Earl and Countess of Cromer, Viscount and Viscountess Grey of Fallodon, Viscount and Viscountess Allenby, Viscount and Viscountess Fitz-Alan, Viscount and Viscountess Inchcape, GALE VICTIMS IN ODESSA.

26 KILLED AND MANY INJURED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ODESSA, Monday.

Odessa has been swept by a violent gale, which has done a considerable amount of damage, especially in the outskirts of the city, where roofs were torn off and trees rooted up.

Twenty persons have been drowned as a result of the capsizing of yachts and small craft in the harbour.

Numbers of the people from outlying districts rushed into the city, overcrowding the tramcars. One car went off the rails at the corner of a street and turned over. Six passengers were killed and ten severely and thirty-three slightly injured.

DAIL TO-DAY.

DISCUSSION OF THE ESTIMATES.

When Dáil Eireann meets to-day it will resume consideration of the Estimates for the Public Services. The House will also have before it the Dentists Bill, which was re-introduced along with the Currency Bill. The Committee stage of the latter is fixed for to-morrow; but, since the new Chamber has shown no more disposition than the old one to be even mildly critical of the bill, the measure is likely to pass through all its stages without prolonged discussion. Its passage through the Senate may be less easy, but the opposition in this Chamber is likely to be confined to a few members, whose objections to the bill may not survive the second reading debate.

In addition to the Currency Bill, the Dáil to-morrow will have before it Mr. Gilbert Hewson's motion, which invites it to express the opinion that the allowances and expenses paid to members should be reduced. It is understood that as an amendment to this motion Captain Redmond will move that a committee be appointed to consider the desirability of reviewing the scale of salaries and allowances paid both to officials and members of the Oireachtas. It would be in the power of the suggested committee to recommend either reductions or increases as it thought proper after its deliberations.

WIRELESS FOR THE BLIND.

LICENCES TO BE ISSUED FREE OF CHARGE.

Mr. R. J. P. Mortished, Assistant Secretary to the Irish Labour Party, announces that as the result of representations made by the Labour Party, it has been agreed between the Departments of Finance and of Posts and Telegraphs that wireless receiving licences may be issued free of charge to blind persons not residing in a public or charitable institution or school.

The Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, in a letter to Mr. Thomas Johnson, T.D., dated June 26, stated that the necessary legislation to give effect to this decision was in course of preparation, and it was hoped to bring the arrangement into operation as from the first of this month.

COMMON HERITAGE.

INDEPENDENCE DAY IN LONDON.

"The birthday of the Republic has a special significance for us," said the United States Ambassador at a banquet given by the American Society in London last night in honour of Independence Day, "and we do not forget, in the midst of a people whose traditions are ours and whose fundamental aims and aspirations are our own, that we are celebrating one of the historic dates in the age-long movement towards human liberty and democratic government, which are the common heritage of the English-speaking peoples."

49 PER CENT. BRITISH.

Mr D. Campbell Lee, Chairman of the American Society in London, told a story of a tradesman in the Middle West who displayed a sign, "I am 100 per cent. American; I hate all Germans, Austrians and foreigners." A rival put up a sign, "I am 200 per cent. American; I hate everyone." (Laughter.)

"We should form a 51 per cent. American Society," said Mr. Lee, "with the other 49 per cent. British." (Laughter.)

TWISTED THE LION'S TAIL.

"I have read too much history not to know why you are American and I am only English," said Lord Darling. "You twisted the lion's tail in 1781. We, none of us, know where; but we know you did it. You were lucky to have beaten the English, because there is no other nation in the world which would have forgiven it. (Cheers and laughter.) We have got on better than brothers.

"The time may come when you see fit to enrich your flag by putting into a corner of it a little red square with the leopards of England."

IRISH REPUBLICAN BONDS.

AMERICAN LAWYERS' BIG CLAIMS.

The two and half million dollars proceeds from the sale of the Irish Republican bonds in the United States, which, it has been ordered, should be returned to the bond holders, were finally disposed of, says the Advocate, an Irish-American weekly paper published in New York.

The awarding of the attorneys' fees was part of the judgment in the case tried in the County Clerk's office by Justice Peters, and the court drastically scaled down the fees as may be seen by the following awards to the three principal claimants:—

LAWYER.	CLAIMED.	AWARDED.
Battle	1,500,000	10,000
Woolman ..	560,000	90,000
Conboy	115,000	110,000
Total,	2,175,000	210,000

Henry Woolman represented the Hearn Committee of the bond-holders. Martin Conboy and John Finerty appeared for Eamon de Valera and Stephen O'Mara, trustees. George Gordon Battle represented the Noonan Committee of bond-holders. Counsel for the Harriman National Bank, Central Union Safe Deposit Company, and Garfield Safe Deposit Company, depositaries, received 2,000 dollars each. The receivers are directed to set up an office to handle the business of settling the fund and to advertise to bond-holders the details of the redemption process. In May Justice Peters decided that the bond-holders had only legal claim to the 2,500,000 dollars.

A PARADISE FOR TOURISTS.

ENGLISH VISITORS IN THE SOUTH.

HINT TO FREE STATE HOTELS.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Monday.

In the interest of tourist development in the South of Ireland, the directors and chief officials of the Great Western Railway of England are on a visit to Killarney and Cork this week, as guests of the directors of the Great Southern Railways of Ireland. Most of the visitors arrived on Friday night and Saturday morning last, some having come via Dublin, and others on the Great Western Railway's steamship St. Andrew, which landed them at Parknasilla, where they were met by the directors of the Great Southern Railways.

The visitors spent Sunday in viewing Glengarriffe and other picturesque regions around the South-Western Coast of Ireland. To-day they assembled at Killarney in the best of spirits, and sixty persons sat down to an excellent lunch at the Railway Hotel. Sir Walter Nugent, Chairman of the Great Southern Railways Directorate, presided.

The toast of "The King and the Free State" was duly honoured.

Sir Walter Nugent said that the directors of the Great Western Railway of England were always closely identified in their working with the Southern Irish railways, and that they had been of mutual advantage to each other. The Great Western Railway had been the means of bringing a great deal of business to Ireland in the shape of tourist traffic. They had instituted, in addition to the ordinary traffic, a weekly excursion from Paddington, London, to Rosslare, and they were anxious that the people that they brought to Ireland should be properly treated on their arrival and during their stay in this country. The Great Southern Company directors had undertaken to look after these visitors, and to see that they were given proper treatment at hotels in every part of the country. The London, Midland and Scottish Railway was working in harmony, the idea being to make Ireland a paradise for tourists.

What they wanted to do was to let people on the other side of the Channel know that Ireland is a safe place to come to. There were, however, a few things that were susceptible of improvement, such as the hotels and the roads, and he thought that better boats might be put on the lakes.

KERRY'S WELCOME.

Mr. Eugene O'Sullivan, on behalf of the people of Kerry in general, and of Killarney in particular, welcomed the visitors. He said that since Sir Walter Nugent had succeeded to the chairmanship of the Great Southern Railways he had done much to improve the service and to induce tourists from across the water to come to this country. Killarney and the surrounding district were capable of almost unlimited development in the matter of tourist traffic, for there was not under the sun a more naturally picturesque region. He believed that, for the well-being of the country, the closer the co-operation and the better the understanding there was between Great Britain and Ireland the better it would be for both. (Applause.)

Senator Dr. O'Sullivan expressed his appreciation of the visit of the English directors, and said that one thing that was necessary in relation to the tourist traffic was that the Customs examination should be made as easy as possible, especially for ladies and children.

A PROMISE AND A HINT.

Viscount Churchill, Chairman of the Great Western Railway of England, said that the directors at Paddington were thoroughly imbued with the possibilities of the South of Ireland as a tourist centre of attraction. The people of England rejoiced at the prospect of Ireland's becoming a peaceful and prosperous country. So far as the Great Western Railway Company were concerned they would do everything in their power to develop the tourist traffic to Ireland. He felt that it was incumbent upon the hotel-keepers in Ireland to copy the example of the Southern Railways Company in providing good hotel accommodation for their visitors. There was nothing that he would not do to further the interests of this district. He hoped that the people of the Free State would induce their Government to give instructions that tourists to this country should be dealt with reasonably by the Customs officers.

Sir Felix Pole, general manager, Great Western Railway, said that their object was to improve the railway service to Ireland, so as to compete with the Continent, and to keep at home and in Ireland the millions of people who were now in the habit of going abroad. They would have to face the facts; and one thing that was urgently needed was the means of entertaining visitors when the weather was unfavourable for outdoor enjoyment. Two years ago he first came to Killarney, and he was delighted with his visit from beginning to end. A London tourist coming to Killarney could save his railway fare by the cheapness of his hotel bill, because nowhere else could one get similar accommodation at so low a price.

Mr. John McCarthy spoke of the value of the tourist traffic, and expressed the hope that to-day's proceedings would lead to a distinct improvement.

The English visitors will entertain some Cork citizens to-morrow at Queenstown.

A PRESENTATION.

At Parknasilla on Saturday night, Sir Walter Nugent presented Viscount Churchill with a handsome blackthorn stick, suitably inscribed, in memory of his visit to Ireland.

Viscount Churchill said that he would prize the gift very much, and would carry it in Piccadilly, and at many other places. He would treasure it as a symbol of the good relations subsisting between the Great Western Railway and the Great Southern of Ireland. He had in his possession another blackthorn that had been presented to his mother when she accompanied Queen Victoria to Killarney in 1859.

Amongst the visitors were Lord Mount Edgcumbe, Lord Dunraven, E. H. Nicholls, Captain D. Davies, E. Forde, R. W. Wheeler, Captain R. Sharpe, Marine Superintendent C. J. Page. The directors of the Great Southern Railways present were:—Senators Goodbody, Jackson and Brady; Mr. R. W. Booth, Sir Henry Forde, Mr. James McMahon, Dr. Lombard Murphy, C. Evans, Mr. M. F. Keogh, General Manager; Mr. Riley, Secretary; Mr. Floyd, Superintendent of the line, and J. R. Bazin.

ALIENIST TO EXAMINE LIEUTENANT DUFFIELD.

GIBRALTAR, Monday.

It is unofficially stated that a mental expert is arriving from England to-morrow to examine Lieutenant Duffield.—(Reuter.)

POINCARE'S DANGER.

COALITION MAY BE WRECKED.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

The facility with which the Chamber of Deputies reverted to personal and party interests with the opening of the discussion on electoral reform on Friday has opened the people's eyes to the risks to which the Poincaré Government is now exposed.

If the spirit which was shown during Friday's debate persists, the Coalition is at an end. The Conservatives who are opposing the bill say that, if it passes, they will leave the Coalition, and there are plenty of observers who are equally convinced that, if it fails to pass, the Union Nationale will have no further raison d'être for the Radicals.

It is true that in either case there will not be very much time for the Government to be overthrown before the end of the session, but, whether the threat becomes real now or is postponed until Parliament meets again in October, its effect on the financial atmosphere will be the same.

In the preamble to the 1928 Budget, M. Poincaré has emphasised the difficulties which still remain to be overcome. His precept for overcoming them is a properly balanced Budget, and the steady reduction and consolidation of the National Debt, which can only be realised if the Budget is balanced. The trouble is that the Budget will be an exceedingly unpopular one.

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS' DECLINE.

SIR WALTER GILBEY ON ENGLISH CONDITIONS.

"There is a falling off in the membership of all the societies with which I am connected, and even the 'Royal' is passing through difficult times. Many farmers are experiencing such bad times that they cannot find the guinea a year subscription," said Sir Walter Gilbey at a meeting yesterday of the Essex Agricultural Society, which decided to approach Suffolk with a view to holding an amalgamated show.

For some time he had felt that these shows would find great difficulty in existing independently, and he thought that, if they joined with Suffolk, they could organise one of the best shows in the country.

Mr. A. Ruggles-Brise said that, although Essex made a profit this year, it was now almost a matter of impossibility for counties to hold shows of their own. The spread of London, and the lack of railway facilities to many parts of Essex, left them very few towns in which to hold shows, while the expenses prevented many people from exhibiting.

RESTAURANT IN A MOTOR 'BUS.

CHOPS AND STEAKS FOR THIRTY PASSENGERS.

A passenger motor 'bus to accommodate 30 persons, each provided with a separate seat and table, was yesterday inspected by the Mayor (Mr. R. G. Wood) and Corporation of Folkestone. It is designed for service between Folkestone and London, the double journey being 144 miles.

A feature of the 'bus is that almost any form of refreshment can be provided, from a rump steak or mutton chop, with vegetables, to a cup of tea.

Under the car is a large tank for carrying forty gallons of water. The owner has placed the 'bus at the disposal of the Folkestone Corporation for the approaching visit of Prince Henry to open the Cliff Concert Hall.

BETTING TAX.

TO-DAY'S FIGHT IN THE COMMONS.

The fight over the betting tax will be resumed in the House of Commons to-day, when the clause in the Finance Bill dealing with the tax will be discussed.

The Labour Party will urge that the tax should be abolished altogether, as it has not yielded sufficient to make the necessary sacrifices of principle worth while.

The Chancellor, it is understood, will point out that from November 1 to May 31 the receipts from the tax were £1,379,800, and that up to May 31, 1927, 14,052 bookmakers' certificates had been issued.

Mr. Churchill will again urge that the tax should be given a fair trial in connection with the flat racing season, and will undertake to make any amendments that may appear necessary when the tax has been in operation for a year.

A group of Conservative members will seek to reduce the tax.

JAPANESE DOCKYARD'S PLIGHT.

LAWSUIT MAY PREVENT LOAN FROM GOVERNMENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

TOKIO, Monday.

The question of saving the Kawasaki Dockyard Company has been further complicated by a lawsuit which has been brought against the company involving 11,500,000 yen. Consequently the Premier, Baron Tanaka, after a consultation with the Ministers for Home Affairs, Finance, and Justice, has decided that it is necessary for the Government to await developments before proceeding further, as relief measures would benefit only the Kawasaki Company's creditors.

[Note.—It was stated recently that the Finance Minister wished to make a loan to the dockyard of 30 million yen (about £3,000,000), because it was believed that without assistance the dockyard would have to be closed, which might cause a serious financial crisis. The proposal has been vigorously opposed, and it seems virtually certain that the Diet will not sanction the loan.]

ROAD FUND GRANTS.

PRIME MINISTER'S PROMISE.

The Unionist Agricultural Committee, which sent a deputation to see Mr. Baldwin last week, has been informed that the extra £500,000 which the Premier mentioned in his recent speech in Cornwall will be devoted to Class 2 roads.

The deputation urged that the grants to the roads should be increased during the next two years, and the promise of the Prime Minister means that an increase of eight and one-third per cent. will be given over the present grant.

HUNGARIAN LAWYER DROWNED IN FLORIDA.

DAYTONA BEACH, FLORIDA, Monday.

Dr. Martin de Bizaki Buky, a Hungarian lawyer, who is said to have been a first cousin of Admiral Horthy, was drowned yesterday while swimming.—(Reuter.)

SUPER-FLYING MACHINE.

135 PASSENGERS AND CREW OF 35.

GERMAN FIRM PLANS ATLANTIC SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Monday.

Declaring that a marked increase in the size of aeroplanes must be effected before trans-Atlantic air navigation will become practicable, a German manufacturer of aeroplanes is now said to be completing a monster machine which he claims will meet all demands of regular passenger service between Europe and America.

The aeroplane will be provided with ten motors of 1,000 horse-power each, will weigh about 230,000lbs., and will be capable of carrying a cargo of about 40,000lbs.

It will accommodate, it is said, 135 passengers, in addition to a crew of 35 men. Regular services are being contemplated between Berlin and New York and Berlin and Buenos Aires.

THE AEROPLANE WRECKER.

HOLLYWOOD AIRMAN'S TWENTY-FIFTH SMASH.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MANA, HAWAIIAN ISLAND, Monday.

Mr. Richard Grace, the Hollywood aviator and stunt flier, took off here for San Francisco at 4.25 a.m. to-day. His aeroplane, however, developed rudder trouble, and, returning to Barking Sands aviation field less than an hour later, it crashed on a rough landing place and was totally wrecked. Mr. Grace and the puppy which accompanied him were not hurt.

Mr. Grace had been trying for several days to get into the air with his 4,000lbs. weight machine, but the condition of the runway made rising almost impossible. On two occasions he started off only to have tyres burst before he could leave the ground.

In the course of his professional career Mr. Grace had wrecked twenty-four other flying machines—sixteen to provide thrills for the films, and the remainder while leaping from 'plane to 'plane, or from 'plane to high-speed motor boat, motor car, motor cycle or train.

ANOTHER ATLANTIC FLIGHT.

FROM LONDON (ONTARIO) TO LONDON (ENGLAND).

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON (ONTARIO), Sunday.

Thirty-two Canadian and British-born pilots have responded to the offer of 25,000 dollars (£5,000) made by Carlings Breweries, Limited, for non-stop aeroplane flights this summer from London (Ontario) to London (England). A conference is to be held on Tuesday morning for the election of the best men available.

Seven have offered to fly alone, two waive all claim to prize money, as they want to do their flights for the "Glory of Canada," and one posts £400 to be forfeited if he fails.

The backers will buy the best machine available for the chosen pilot, and have telegraphed to the British Air Ministry to learn if any British machine is available, and they give as references the Mayor and the Chamber of Commerce of London (Ontario).

COMMUNIST DEPUTY RELEASED.

SEQUEL TO VOTE IN THE CHAMBER.

(FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, Monday.

As had been anticipated this morning, M. Cachin, the Communist Deputy for the Seine, and four other persons implicated in anti-French propaganda with him, gave themselves up to justice this afternoon. They were conducted to the Sante Prison without any incident occurring.

Four others have obtained a postponement of their term of imprisonment on various grounds. Thus, M. Semard, the Communist, who was freed by the Royalist hoaxers of the Sante Prison, in order to give an air of verisimilitude to the "release" of M. Leon Daudet, is to give himself up this afternoon after a few days' grace, allowed him in view of the death of his mother-in-law.

Later.

No sooner was M. Cachin in prison than the Chamber of Deputies passed the Socialist motion in favour of his release during the remainder of the Parliamentary session.

The significance of the vote was in the determination of the majority of the Chamber to defend the principle of Parliamentary immunity, irrespective of persons.

10.15 p.m.

M. Marcel Cachin was released at 7.15 this evening.

BALKAN CONTROVERSY SETTLED.

ALBANIAN-JUGO-SLAVIA RELATIONS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BELGRADE, Monday.

It is officially announced by the French Minister, de Bau, who has been protecting Jugo-Slavian interests in Albania since the rupture of diplomatic relations between Belgrade and Tirana a month ago, that the Albanian Government has released the dragoman of the Jugo-Slavian Legation who was arrested on a charge of spying.

As soon as the dragoman was released the Jugo-Slavian ultimatum breaking off diplomatic relations was withdrawn and the Jugo-Slavian Government has presented a new Note, more moderate in tone, designed to calm the excited feelings of offended national pride.

When released the dragoman, Djurscovitch, was received by the French Legation, and then left for Durazzo.

The Albanian Government has officially requested that the dragoman shall not be used in the future by the Jugo-Slavian Government in Albania.

The settlement of this controversy between Albania and Jugo-Slavia has been made in accordance with the plan formulated by the Great Powers. Jugo-Slavia had hoped for the Albanian question to be discussed by the League of Nations, hoping for a decision as to whether the Tirana pact between Albania and Italy was not a violation of the Albanian sovereignty. Owing to the fact that Italy, under the Tirana pact, was really sponsor for Albania in foreign policy, the drastic action of Jugo-Slavia in sending an ultimatum to Albania over the dragoman's arrest was regarded as a direct affront to Italy.

LATE NEWS.

REFORM OF THE LORDS.

NON-HEREDITARY PEERS.

In a leading article The Times observes:—Nothing that has been said or written about the House of Lords in the last fortnight affects in the slightest degree the views which were expressed in these columns on the morrow of Lord Cave's surprising intervention. There has been, it is true, an immense amount, both of writing and of speaking, on the subject, some of it almost incoherent, some purely opportunist, most of it unfavourable to the Government. They are reaping the consequences of a fault of tactics which simultaneously startled their followers, and gave abundant opportunity for misrepresentation to their critics.

But though the excitement, such as it is, seems to be limited to what are called Parliamentary circles—for there is not the slightest sign of interest outside them—it is by no means to be dismissed on that account as anything but genuine uneasiness or delight as the case may be. To have succeeded in a single afternoon in bewildering and dividing the Conservative Party, to have furnished Liberals and Labour with the hope of a common slogan, to have complicated their own policy by subsequent interpretations of it, and to have doubted all the time whether it was a ready-made scheme or merely a basis of discussion—all this by common consent was a very remarkable blunder in Parliamentary management.

Incredible as it may seem, it must be taken now for a fact that no serious attempt was made by the Government beforehand to consult their whips, their party organisation, or anyone else. Yet the scheme itself, except in one obvious particular, has not been shaken by all this clamour, and the obvious merits which it possesses remain untouched by serious argument. In these circumstances it is surely better to see to what good purpose it can be turned than merely to be peevish and hysterical about it. There is no reason whatever why with comparatively few amendments and with ordinary frankness in dealing with the public, it should not be made a sound, and even an agreed, beginning of reform.

Where we think the young Conservatives go wrong in their amendment—and they include for this purpose grey-headed reactionaries, as well as youthful reformers, is that they ignore, not only the one reactionary proposal in the Government scheme, but also its most hopeful attempt at reform. Changes in the composition of the House of Lords may seem less momentous than changes in its powers, but they are absolutely vital to its preservation with whatever powers as an authoritative Chamber of deliberation and revision. Ask any of these critics what they want in place of the present House of Lords. In nine cases out of ten they will say that they are not prepared to defend the hereditary system, and will add in the same breath that they are quite content to leave things as they are. Yet the present House of Lords is the very embodiment of the hereditary system, and the real merit of the Government proposals is that they are calculated to dilute this system by the only practicable method of dilution—that is, by conceding the right to create non-hereditary Peers.

Some few, more logical than practical, would frankly sweep away the whole existing edifice, and replace it by an elected Senate. But the whole case for such a Senate rests on the desire for a strong over-riding Second Chamber, constituted on arguable and democratic principles, and there are certainly no signs that any measure of general agreement would be forthcoming either now or at any future time for that particular system of government.

GERMAN AND BRITISH INDUSTRIES.

SUBJECTS AT BERLIN CONFERENCE.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Monday.

A conference between the Federation of British Industries and the German Federation of Industry was begun here to-day and will come to a conclusion to-morrow.

This meeting, the second of its kind, as the German Federation visited London last December, differs materially from the more personal discussions at Romsey and Leverkusen which German and British delegates attended as the representatives of particular branches of industry able to discuss their private concerns. The questions which can arise on the present occasion are of a strictly general nature, such, for instance, as the results of the Economic Conferences which have been held at Geneva and Stockholm.

Among the subjects mentioned for debate are the treatment of economic questions by the League of Nations, uniform classification of tariff numbers, credit insurance exhibitions and industrial fairs, and double incidence of taxation concerning which the last two federations have already agreed on a possible basis for future international regulation.

The British delegation includes Lord Gainford, President of the Federation of British Industries, and Sir John Brunner. The German delegation includes Dr. Sorge, the Honorary President of the German Federation, and Dr. Duisberg.

"TOOTHLESS AND DRIVELLING."

TOMSKY ON ENGLISH LABOUR LEADERS.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

RIGA, Sunday.

The Bolshevists continue to inveigh both from the platform and in the Press against the "treachery" of British Labour leaders, and the newspapers declare that they have had enough trifling, and must protect the rank and file of British workmen against betrayal by "sentimental parlour revolutionary leaders."

In one of the many speeches he has made in the last few days, Tomsky remarked that the General Council of the Trades Union Congress considered it had done a fine revolutionary thing by giving Rosengolz, "formerly acting Chargé d'Affaires in London," a lunch at the House of Commons in London. Some might agree that lunching with Rosengolz was very revolutionary, but it certainly did not require serious sacrifices on their part.

Tomsky described the General Council's protest against the Arcos raid as a "toothless, drivelling, double-faced document, which increased our alarm and induced us to intensify our pressure on the General Council, endeavouring, however, to avoid giving it a loophole to explode the Anglo-Russian Committee."

PORTUGUESE SARDINE INDUSTRY.

PROMISE OF IMPROVED HAUL.

LISBON (By Mail).

The absence of sardines from those parts of the coast of Portugal where they used to be very abundant has caused much hardship during the last two years in fishing centres, not only to the fishermen, but to the canning industry on shore and those depending upon it.

The presence of sardines in large quantities has, however, been reported lately to the north-west of Lisbon, close to the shore, and it is hoped that the promise thus held out of a fruitful fishing season may be fulfilled.—(Reuter.)

MINISTERS RE-ARRESTED.

THE SOVIET'S ATTACK ON RELIGION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

RIGA, Monday.

A few days ago, according to a message from Leningrad, the authorities there began arresting ministers of religion again. Most of the Baptist pastors, who spent a considerable time in prison last year but were released in January, have now been re-arrested.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

COMPANIES AND SUPER-TAX.

SCHEME TO PREVENT EVASION.

CHANCELLOR HAS HIS WAY.

FROM OUR PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT.

WESTMINSTER, Monday.

The dissatisfaction of a section of the Conservative Party at the Chancellor of the Exchequer's proposals to prevent evasion of super-tax in the case of companies was forcibly expressed when the House to-day came to consider the postponed clauses—29 to 34—of the Finance Bill in Committee.

For the purpose of enabling a general debate to take place on the whole subject, Mr. Dennis Herbert moved the omission of Sub-section 1 of Clause 29. He confessed that, as the clause stood, he doubted whether anyone would be able to arrive at the real intentions of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and he and his friends had consequently placed upon the paper a number of amendments which they believed would make the position clearer.

With every desire in the world to see that companies of all kinds fulfilled their first obligations to the State, he feared that the new provisions embodied in the bill would do great harm to industry. As one instance of this, he referred to the case of one concern which it was proposed to register as a company with a capital of several millions. When the promoters heard of these proposals they announced their intention of going to another country, but he was able to assure them that they would come to no harm under the clause. No doubt, the Chancellor had made a very strong case for endeavouring to stop tax-dodging by very rich men, who, although they were within the law, were playing a game which was not "according to the rules of cricket"; but the provisions had created a great deal of anxiety in business circles, and he hoped that Mr. Churchill would be able to allay it. It was of the utmost importance that taxation proposals of this kind should be framed with the greatest care, as any misapprehension as to their real effect was calculated to do immense harm.

THE CHANCELLOR'S CASE.

Mr. Churchill began his speech in reply by denying the suggestion which had been made—that the clause originated with the Inland Revenue officials at Somerset House. He said that the case for action was made out during the financial discussions last year, when references were made to certain illegal evasions of tax. Nor was it the case that the proposals were novel, exceptional, or revolutionary in character. In principle they had been the law of the land for the last five years. All that Clause 29 did was to extend the range of their powers to a somewhat larger number of companies

He was advised that there were approximately 80,000 private companies in the United Kingdom at the present time. Forty thousand of these companies had been brought within the scope of the 1922 legislation, and he was not aware that they were conscious of any tyrannical or revolutionary system. It had been found possible for a man to turn himself into a company by selling his business, whilst retaining control of it.

A NOVEL VOTE.

Sometimes the man had a peculiar form of vote. He knew of one case where the man had a vote equalling all the votes cast against him, plus one. That was the sort of vote that some of them would be glad to have in that house. (Laughter.)

In the four years of the working of this legislation 550 cases had been selected as cases in which the directors of the companies had been asked to furnish returns. In 250 cases the Inland Revenue had claimed super tax. In 128 of these cases there had been appeals to the Special Commissioners, who had decided in favour of the taxpayer in 60 cases, and against in 68 cases.

He asserted that the ordinary course of business had not been interfered with in the slightest degree by the legislation, and all that they were trying to do by Clause 29 was to extend the scope of potential inquiries. Ninety per cent. of British business by volume and 85 per cent. of company business by volume was absolutely outside the scope of this clause. At the same time, 35,000 more private companies had been added to 140,000 included in the scope of the 1922 legislation. To the vast majority of them nothing would happen.

There was some laughter when Mr. Churchill went on to say that he was not himself entirely satisfied with the clause, and if a better way could be obtained of achieving the end in view, he was ready to consider it. He had, however, no intention of postponing or withdrawing the proposals, or of accepting amendments which would render nugatory these measures against what was a dangerous and growing abuse.

AGAINST CONCESSIONS.

Mr. William Graham hoped that the Chancellor would not make any concessions in this matter. There was still a very substantial amount of evasion, and the clauses were far from covering the whole field of the problem.

Mr. Runciman urged that no action should be taken against companies, public or private, unless there was a prima facie case that reserves were being built up with a view to the avoidance of income tax. Big businesses had been built up by creating solid reserves, instead of dividing profits up to the hilt, and he hoped that nothing would be done to interfere with that practice.

Sir Robert Horne declared that, if forced to do so, he would go into the Lobby against the Government. The Act of 1922 provided that regard should be had to what was necessary for the maintenance and development of a business, but under this clause these things were no longer to be taken into account. It would be an intolerable thing if people managing a large concern were to have their policy dictated or questioned by people outside.

Mr. Gillett, a Labour member, hoped that the Chancellor would be firm, and would not be deterred from carrying his policy into effect by a newspaper campaign.

Sir H. Buckingham declared that the agitation was a genuine one, and not a mere newspaper "stunt." He characterised the Chancellor's speech as vague and unsatisfactory, and said that it would not go far to alleviate the public feeling of insecurity. If Conservative members did not vote against this clause, it would be because they thought that it would be a still greater disaster if the Government were defeated. (Labour laughter.)

Sir Edward Hilton Young said that the object that they had in view was to avoid penalising money which was saved for the purpose of putting it back into industry.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S REPLY.

The Attorney-General, replying on some of the points raised, instanced the case of a man owning a company who capitalised £100,000 of the profits, and applied that sum in paying up, in full, debentures which were afterwards distributed as a bonus to the shareholders and shortly afterwards were redeemed at par. That was the sort of thing that the Government were out to stop.

At this point Mr. Dennis Herbert, who apparently considered that Mr. Churchill's speech was satisfactory, asked leave to withdraw his amendment, but this was refused, and the debate was continued by Mr. Lloyd George, who congratulated the Chancellor of the Exchequer on having taken a right and courageous course.

He reminded the House that he was the author of the super-tax. When he proposed it a rich friend of his said: "It is no use making that proposal, as I can give you half-a-dozen ways in which I can get out of it." He was not certain whether his friend succeeded, but certainly there had been endless devices for attempting to escape the liability of paying on large incomes. These devices were multiplying, and every additional shilling put in had been a stimulus to invention. He did not know what other course Mr. Churchill could pursue than to endeavour to stop the gaps which led to the loss of millions of revenue.

ROAD FUND CLAUSE POSTPONED.

Mr. Macquisten suggested that a good many complications would be avoided by a simple provision requiring that no one should take anything from a company except the dividend.

At a later stage Mr. Churchill referred to amendments which have been placed on the paper, mostly by Conservative members, and said that there were seven of them to which he was inclined to agree in principle, and the necessary alterations could be made on the report stage.

When Mr. Churchill indicated that it was proposed to dispose of the clause dealing with the Road Fund before separating, Mr. William Graham gave effect to his protest by moving to report progress. On this motion Mr. Buchanan, and Mr. Stephen referred to the humiliating position in which the Chancellor had been placed by his own supporters. They had demanded his head on a charger, but they had not the courage to go into the Lobby against the Government.

After some further discussion the Chancellor consented to postpone the Road Fund clause until to-morrow. Upon this, Mr. Graham withdrew his motion to report progress, and Mr. Dennis Herbert withdrew his amendment to omit Sub-section 1 of Clause 29.

The clause, as amended, was added to the bill, as was also Clause 30.

On Clause 31, which deals with provisions for preventing avoidance of super-tax, Mr. Churchill, replying to Sir R. Horne, said that it was intended that the same sum of money should not be taxed twice. He believed that the clause in no way altered the general practice, but if it were thought that additional words would make the clause clearer they could be added on report.

The Labour Party challenged a division on an amendment moved by the Chancellor raising from five to ten per cent. the extent of evasion permissible before a person was liable to have action taken against him.

The amendment was carried by 153 votes to 23, the clause was agreed to, and the remaining clauses were added to the bill, with the exception of Clause 46, which deals with the Road Fund.

The discussion on the bill was then adjourned, and the House rose at 1.23 a.m.

"DOOMED" MINISTRIES.

NO NEW DECISION BY THE CABINET.

The British Government has reached no decision as to the fate of the three Ministries which were to be abolished, different from that announced by the Chancellor of the Exchequer in his Budget speech.

Mr. Churchill then announced that the three Departments—the Ministry of Transport, the Department of Overseas Trade, and the Mines Department—were to be abolished as a measure of economy.

Since then strong representations have been made to the Government that the retention of the two first-named is desirable in the interests of the good government of the country.

It is gathered that the Cabinet had been somewhat impressed by these representations, but, in view of the demand for economy, they feel some hesitation in going back on the decision announced.

The matter is to be reconsidered shortly, however, with a view to some satisfactory middle course being found. It is thought that the absorption of the Departments into some of the existing Ministries might meet the case.

ENNISKILLEN TOWN HALL.

USE DENIED SALVATION ARMY FOR SERVICES.

When an application was made to the Enniskillen Urban Council yesterday for the free use of the Minor Town Hall by the Salvation Army for the holding of Services for a few Sundays, the Town Clerk said that there was a resolution on the books against letting the hall on Sundays for a public entertainment, and it was for the Council to decide what was an entertainment.

Some members said that the Salvation Army would be giving an entertainment, and Mr. Egbert Trimble said that on a former occasion when the Salvation Army got the use of the hall for a Service they had a band recital, and charged admission, and, he was sorry to say, their Chairman took the chair on that occasion.

The Town Clerk said that he had also an application from another clergyman for the use of the hall on Sundays.

Mr. Jones (Labour) opposed, stating that Sunday was the only day the caretaker and his mother had to themselves; and Mr. Lynn pointed out that on one occasion a picture entertainment had been held.

The Chairman (Mr. George Whaley) said that that was given by him, and he got wrapped over the knuckles for it.

Mr. Trimble—And it was before the last resolution was passed.

It was agreed to refuse the application.

MYSTERY OF THE HIGHLANDS.

LONELY STATION BURNED.

STATIONMASTER FOUND SHOT DEAD.

Fire destroyed the station buildings and station house at Dalwhinnie, Inverness-shire, yesterday morning, and the charred remains of Mr. William MacLaren, the stationmaster, were found among the ruins.

Dalwhinnie is one of the highest points on the London, Midland and Scottish Railway system, and is probably one of the loneliest and most sparsely populated districts in the Highlands.

The outbreak was discovered by the stationmaster's wife, who had seen her husband about the premises only an hour before. Observing smoke issuing from the booking offices, she raised an alarm, and frantic, but unavailing, efforts were made by the few people at hand to get the fire under, the flames eating their way through the buildings with remarkable rapidity.

There is as yet no explanation of the tragedy.

The Press Association's Inverness correspondent says that William MacLaren, the dead stationmaster, had a bullet wound in the head, and a revolver, with one empty chamber, lay by his side.

THREE SHOT DEAD IN HUNTINGDON.

STRANGE DOUBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A triple tragedy occurred at St. Ives, Hunts, yesterday morning.

A report as of a motor cycle back-firing was heard on the premises of Mr. Frederick Harrison, a butcher, and on the neighbours entering they found Mrs. Harrison lying dead on the floor of the kitchen. Mr. Harrison and his son, Geoffrey, aged about 18, lay dead in the yard. A sporting gun found near the father contained two empty cartrridges, and two other discharged cartridges were found by the police.

VICTIMS' WEEK-END VISIT TO SEASIDE.

A correspondent, telephoning from St. Ives with reference to the shooting of Mr. Harrison, his wife and her stepson yesterday morning, says:—Mr. and Mrs. Harrison spent Sunday at Hunstanton, taking their youngest son, Bobby, with them and leaving Geoffrey, aged 17, at home. A St. Ives tradesman and his wife, who were also at Hunstanton, spent an hour or so with them, and said they appeared to be perfectly happy. Upon their return to St. Ives the Harrisons spoke of the enjoyable time they had spent by the sea.

Geoffrey appears to have been shot as he was about to leave the premises to go to his work at a local garage. The shot had penetrated a large wooden door. Bobby had been sent to fetch the milk, and upon his return was horrified to find his brother had been shot. His screams brought neighbours on the scene. The three victims had the tops of their skulls blown off.

Frederick Harrison, who was 46 years of age, was the son of a former Mayor of St. Ives. He saw service in the Artillery in Mesopotamia, Italy and Salonika, and had been a great sufferer from malaria since his return. His second wife, who was aged 26, was before her marriage Miss Florence Jones, of Blackwood, Mon., and his first was a Miss Giddins, of Hemingford Gray. His aged parents are still alive.

Harrison was an expert billiards player, and was a member of the St. Ives Conservative Club billiards team, and he had also played at the St. Ives Literary Institute. Neighbours state that they heard him say he had shot a rat and placed it upon the roof, and they heard his wife remark "Have you?" Further shots were then heard. It was Harrison's custom to shoot rats in his yard.

KILLED HERSELF WITH HANDKERCHIEFS.

ITALIAN WOMAN'S SUICIDE AT HOVE.

With four handkerchiefs tied tightly with double knots across her throat, an Italian woman, Miss Carlotta Gilda Fucigna, aged 61, was found on Sunday lying dead on her bed at the house in Glendale road, Hove, where she lived.

The bed had not been disturbed; there were no other marks of violence, and the verdict at the inquest yesterday afternoon was that she killed herself by tieing the handkerchiefs around her neck, being insane at the time, and death was due to strangulation.

Of independent means, it was stated that she was the daughter of a noted sculptor who worked on the Albert Memorial. She had been a very keen business woman, but latterly her letters were rather strange. She was distressed and worried over trifles.

EMIGRANTS' FATE IN NEW ZEALAND.

FAMILY OF FOUR FOUND SHOT DEAD.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WELLINGTON, NEW ZEALAND, Monday.

Mr. E. W. Kiddell, aged about 56; Mrs. Kiddell, his wife; Lorna Kiddell, their daughter, aged 20, and Callen Kiddell, their son, aged about 28, were found shot dead in their house in Auckland to-day.

There were indications that the deaths occurred ten days ago, and that the shooting was done by Callen Kiddell.

The family recently arrived from England, having travelled as saloon passengers in the liner Remuera in May last.

PLAYING WITH A SHOTGUN.

QUEENSTOWN BOY KILLS HIS BROTHER.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Monday.

At Queenstown Junction to-night Coroner Rice and a jury held an inquest into the death of Daniel Mahony, aged 17½, a farmer's son of Killena, near Queenstown Junction, who was shot dead by his brother on Sunday.

Medical evidence was that there was a shot wound in the chest, fired at close range, inflicting serious injuries close to the heart, and that death was practically instantaneous.

John Mahony, the deceased boy's father, stated that he went out after dinner, and almost immediately heard a shot in the kitchen. He rushed in, to find his son, John, aged 16, holding his brother. The latter boy died immediately. John was very upset, and crying. The gun was not witness's, but he got it from a farmer to shoot crows, and he had left it loaded in one barrel. There was never any ill-feeling between the brothers.

John Mahony, jun., said that after dinner he took up the gun, not knowing it was loaded. His brother turned towards him as witness pulled back the two hammers. Then witness fired. When he heard the report he threw the gun away and caught his brother, as did his father, who rushed in. Dan did not speak at all.

The Coroner said he had no doubt that the affair was accidental.

The jury found that the tragedy was accidental, and exonerated the father and all concerned from blame.

SIX SHOTS FIRED INTO WIFE.

MURDERER SAYS THAT HE STILL LOVES HER.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Monday.

It is not often that a husband is accused of having murdered his wife by slowly and steadily emptying all six shots of his revolver into her body, as if engaged in target practice. This, however, is the nature of the charge against Sidney Conquy, son of an Englishwoman, and a business man of Algiers.

Conquy first met his wife, Gisele, while convalescing at Vichy during the war, and, impressed by her outstanding beauty, he married her. The first three years passed happily, although Conquy did not show any great aptitude for business. The wife finally procured for both of them posts in charge of the sales department of a big dressmaking house at the comfortable salary of 50,000 francs a year each. No sooner, however, did fortune seem to be smiling on them than Conquy suspected that his wife had an affection for the director of the firm's publicity department, a Rumanian.

A separation ensued, but the husband continued to be tortured by jealousy. Finally he broke into his wife's office, deliberately fired six times, then calmly put on his overcoats, went to the manager's office and asked to be arrested.

Mme. Conquy, despite her terrible wounds, remained conscious and asked to see her mother and a doctor. She refused, however, to pardon her husband when he knelt by her side a few minutes later. She died the same evening.

The wide circle of social relations possessed by the Conquys resulted in the courthouse being crowded when the trial opened this afternoon. There was a sensation when Conquy, with tears in his eyes, passionately protested that he still loved his wife. "I shall weep for her all my life," he said. "I did not know what I did." Then he collapsed.

SUICIDE IN WIDOWED MOTHER'S HOUSE.

OUT-OF-WORK YOUTH'S FAREWELL LETTER.

A chemist's assistant, Alan Jury, aged 20, was found dead shot through the head this evening in the cellar of a house in which he lived with his widowed mother in Thames street, Sunbury-on-Thames. He was lying full-length on the floor and a sporting gun, from which a bullet had been fired, rested on a piece of wood fixed in the man's coat above his head.

In a long letter to his mother, mostly of a religious character, was the phrase: "I want to die. I must die."

In his possession was a page from an encyclopædia illustrating the working of a sporting gun. The door of the cellar was locked on the outside, and Jury, who had been unemployed for some time, must have entered through a garden window.

COLOURED MAN SHOT IN LONDON.

Thomas Bell, aged 40, a coloured man, was found shot at a house in Burlington road, Paddington, London, last night.

He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital suffering from a wound in the head believed to have been self-inflicted, and died an hour after admission.

SURVEYOR FOUND DEAD ON HEADLAND.

Mr. John Hague Edmondson, engineer and surveyor to Newquay Urban District Council, was found dead on the headland at Newquay yesterday afternoon. Mr. Edmondson was appointed surveyor to the Newquay Council about twelve months ago, coming from a similar appointment in the district of Stockport.

DIED WHILST LISTENING TO CONCERT.

A Swindon man, Thomas Lambourne, collapsed, and died in a deck chair, while listening to a concert party at Weymouth yesterday.

AGREEMENT TO COMMIT SUICIDE.

SOLDIER FOUND NOT GUILTY OF MURDER.

Wihout calling upon the defence, Mr. Justice Rowlatt, at Surrey Assizes, at Guildford yesterday, held the evidence against Ralph Norfolk, aged twenty-six, a soldier, indicted for the murder of his sister-in-law, Evelyn Norfolk, at Croydon, on April 20th through an agreement to take Lysol together was not strong enough. There was no suggestion that he wanted the woman out of the way. It seemed she would have committed suicide independently of him, and he, being in a neurotic and miserable state, fell in with the idea.

The jury formally found the prisoner not guilty.

He then pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted suicide.

The prison doctor stated that he showed no signs of insanity, but was somewhat sullen and morose while under observation. At the Coroner's Court on April 30th he jumped through a window, and escaped with injuries to his skull and back.

Sentenie of twelve months' hard labour was passed.

THE BIRMINGHAM CANAL MYSTERY.

In connection with the mystery of the death by drowning of an eighteen-years-old girl, Olive Gordon Turner, whose body was recovered from a canal on Saturday, the Birmingham police stated last night that they desired to interview a man who is said to have been on the canal side during Saturday's events, and whose description they have circulated.

ROSCOMMON FARMER'S SUICIDE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
BOYLE, Monday.

Michael McNiff, Ballinafad, Boyle, a farmer, married, committed suicide on Saturday night by cutting his throat with a razor.

At a Coroner's inquest to-day a verdict of suicide while of unsound mind was returned.

ATHLONE'S NEED.

BEET FACTORY PROPOSED TO STOP EMIGRATION.

A committee, consisting of twenty representative farmers and business men, the Very Rev. Canon Crowe, P.P., St. Peter's, and the Rev. J. Pinkman, Adm., St. Mary's, were appointed by a largely-attended public meeting in Athlone last week to take preliminary steps with a view to the establishment of a beet factory in Athlone, and to urge on the Government the advisability of giving their support to the project.

Canon Crowe, who presided, spoke of the need to provide employment and put a stop to emigration. The woollen mills, he said, were not working at full time, and the danger was that they might not continue to work even on part time, as at present. There was great need to provide work for the farmers' sons.

The Carlow factory only produced one-fourth of the sugar required in the Free State. While they were importing the other three-fourths they were permitting their young people to go to other lands to seek a livelihood. Not within the four shores of Ireland, he claimed, could a place better suited for a factory be found than Athlone. All that was wanted was the co-operation of the farmers.

It was decided that the committee appointed to take preliminary steps should report back to a public meeting.

PIVOT PIN BREAKS.

WOMAN'S FATAL INJURIES IN MOTOR ACCIDENT.

James Snaith Thompson (26), motor driver, was acquitted at Newcastle Assizes yesterday of the manslaughter of Mrs. Margaret Elliott, who died on May 28th, twenty-four days after receiving injuries to the brain in a motoring collision at Embleton.

It was alleged that the accused man came round a bend in the road on the wrong side and struck a car driven by Elijah Thompson, a butcher, of Gateshead, who had Mrs. Elliott as passenger.

The defence was that as Thompson's car was taking the bend a pivot pin of one of the front wheels, which had been partly fractured, suddenly broke and swung the car on to the wrong side.

ART GALLERIES CRITICISED.

PICTURES THAT ARE NOT OLD MASTERS.

EXPERTS DIFFER.

"Many provincial art galleries contain pictures which have long since had their day. They will never make old masters," said Mr. J. A. Charlton Deas, in his presidential address at the Museums Association Conference at Douglas, Isle of Man, yesterday. "Some of them, like many individuals, may become ancient, but not honourable."

Interviewed with regard to this expression of opinion, Mr. A. G. Quigley, curator of the Walker Art Gallery, Liverpool, said:—"Art galleries cannot dispose of their pictures because they happen to be out of fashion. Who knows but what pictures now regarded as 'ancient and not honourable' may not be the fashion with future generations? The aim of the Liverpool officials is to make the gallery thoroughly representative of past and present artists."

A SHEFFIELD VIEW.

Mr. Charles Simpson, ex-Lord Mayor of Sheffield, who was for many years President of the Mappin Art Gallery, Sheffield, expressed his strong disagreement with the statement made by Mr. Deas.

"The exhibition at Mappin Gallery," he said, "has been of a very educative character, and has displayed a good deal of artistic ability."

Sir Frank Dicksee, President of the Royal Academy, last evening said:—"I do not agree with Mr. Deas. I think it is violent language to attract attention."

Mr. Augustus John also said that he did not agree with Mr. Deas. "I think he grossly exaggerates," he said.

Mr. Charles Sargeant Jagger said:—"I agree with him to a great extent. There is a tendency in provincial museums to hang on to cheap sentimental stuff done in days gone by; and cheap sentiment in art represents the worst art of any I know. If you are going to be sentimental in your art you have got to be particularly careful, and particularly restrained. Nothing must be theatrical or cheap."

OBITUARY.

LADY O'SHAUGHNESSY.

We regret to learn that Lady O'Shaughnessy, wife of the Right Hon. Sir Thomas Lopdell O'Shaughnessy, P.C., a former Recorder of Dublin and Judge of the High Court, died after a short illness at Bolton Mansions Hotel, Kensington, yesterday. Lady O'Shaughnessy was Catherine Jane, third daughter of the late Mr. William Trueman, of Shrewsbury. She was married to Sir Thomas Lopdell O'Shaughnessy in 1879.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL PARKER.

Brigadier-General Robert Gabbett Parker died suddenly at Clifton at the age of 51. He was the second son of the late Mr. R. J. Parker, D.L., of Bally Valley, Killaloe, County Clare. He was sent to Clifton College, and passed from Sandhurst to the King's Own Royal Lancaster Regiment in 1896. He served throughout the South African war, was present at Spion Kop and the relief of Ladysmith, was twice mentioned in despatches, and received the two medals with eight clasps. In 1908 he passed the Staff College, and from 1909 to 1911 he was attached to the General Staff. Afterwards he commanded a company of Gentlemen Cadets at Sandhurst.

Brigadier-General Parker served throughout the Great War, being present at the battles of Le Cateau and the Marne, where he was severely wounded. Early in 1915 he was awarded the D.S.O., having been twice mentioned, and after being promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel, was G.S.O.1 at the Ripon Training Centre. Afterwards he was specially employed at the War Office, and as G.S.O.1 Thames and Medway Defences.

In 1917 he returned to France as G.S.O.1, 41st Division, and was present at the battle of Messines, the third battle of Ypres, and at the operations in Italy from November, 1917, to February, 1918. In March, 1918, he was appointed Brigadier-General General Staff, Fourth Army Corps in France, and was present at the operations round Bapaume and at the advance into Belgium till the Armistice.

Brigadier-General Parker was created C.M.G. in 1918, C.B. in 1919, was mentioned a further three times, and received the French Croix de Guerre and the Italian Order of the Crown. In October, 1919, he was promoted Colonel, and commanded the 164th (North Lancashire) Infantry Brigade, T.A., from 1920 to 1924. He retired last year, and had lived since at Castle Luke, Sixmilebridge, County Clare.

MR. THOMAS LENNON.

Much regret has been caused by the death, in Dublin, of Mr. Tommy Lennon, whose work has been admired by more than half a million people in England, Ireland and America. For more than seven years he worked in collaboration with Sir Nevile Wilkinson on the fabric and furnishings of Titania's Palace. Owing to ill-health he was unable to accompany the palace to the Sesquicentennial Exposition at Philadelphia last year and see the reception accorded to his wonderful handicraft by the citizens of the United States.

MR. EDWARD DILLON HUNT.

The death took place at Limerick yesterday of Mr. Edward Dillon Hunt, solicitor, in his fifty-sixth year. Mr. Hunt was the fourth son of Mr. E. Langley Hunt, of Curraghbridge, Adare, County Limerick. He was admitted a solicitor in 1894, and had practised since in Limerick City. Mr. Hunt was one of the oldest members of the Limerick Golf Club.

COUNTY COURT JUDGES.

"GROSSLY UNDERPAID" OFFICE.

Judge Greenwell, at Durham Quarter Sessions yesterday, congratulated Mr. Thomas Richardson, barrister-at-law, upon his appointment to "the honourable, but grossly underpaid, office of County Court Judge." Mr. Richardson succeeds Judge Moore in the Durham area.

LOCAL ADMINISTRATION COMMITTEES.

KILKENNY HEALTH BOARD AND SUGGESTED ABOLITION.

At a meeting of the Kilkenny County Board of Health at Thomastown, a letter was read from the Local Government Department refusing to sanction the appointment of an assistant to the clerk of the different local committees in the county which are transacting the business formerly down by the old Rural District Councils. The Department considered it better to dispense with such committees and have the work done centrally.

The Chairman (Mr. John Gibbons) said that the committees were absolutely essential, and the Board would certainly make a strong protest against their abolition.

Mr. James Walsh, clerk to the local committees, said that he was at present doing the work of the eight men who acted as clerks to the Rural District Councils, and it was a physical impossibility.

The Chairman said that the Board's staff was over-worked, being obliged to work even on Sundays in an effort to overtake the arrears.

It was decided to ask the Department to send an inspector to the next meeting to discuss the matter.

FALLING PIG VALUES.

LOUGHREA FARMERS LOTH TO SELL.

The drop in the price of pigs is felt acutely by producers in the Loughrea district, where a number of farmers are unwilling to dispose of their stocks at current prices. At the last Loughrea market the price was 52s. per cwt., live weight—a drop of 6s. in a fortnight.

Mr. J. A. Robb, the Canadian Minister of Finance, and his wife, leave Quebec for England to-day.

PARIS MURDER MYSTERY.

ACCUSED WOMAN UNDER EXAMINATION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Monday.

M. Barthelemy, Divisional Superintendent of Police, continued this afternoon his examination of Mme. Junka Kurez, who is accused of the murder of a 14 years old girl, Germaine Burniaux, in the Bois de Boulogne yesterday morning.

Mme. Kurez continued to deny that she had anything to do with the crime.

As the result of a search at the rooms of the accused woman's male friend, Desire Gray, a pair of stockings and a pair of shoes, spotted with blood, were discovered. Mme. Kurez declared that this was due to the fact that she had killed a chicken.

When she was arrested she had in her possession a sum which, added to the total of the rent she had just paid, amounted, roughly, to the sum missing.

So far no charge has been made against Gray. He has, however, been told to hold himself in readiness to appear if called upon.

KING FUAD IN LONDON.

and Lord and Lady Ruthven. The company numbered about one hundred.

THE KING'S SPEECH.

The King, proposing the health of the King of Egypt, said:—"It is with much pleasure, Your Majesty, that I bid you welcome to my capital. The Queen and I are glad to be the first to receive Your Majesty as our guest since your accession to the Throne of Egypt, and we trust that Your Majesty will retain the happiest memories of your stay in England.

"I need not assure Your Majesty of the close and sympathetic interest with which I have followed the progress of Egypt. I am glad to know that in the past that progress has been powerfully sustained by the friendly co-operation of our respective Governments. It is my earnest hope, as I know it is to be the wish of Your Majesty, that now, and henceforth, close and friendly relations may be continued, to the enduring advantage of our two countries and the peace and prosperity of our peoples.

"Your Majesty's visit to England is evidence of these close and fruitful relations, and will afford to Your Majesty in your own person fresh proof of the sympathy and good-will which this nation cherishes for Egypt and her people.

"We welcome Your Majesty as the ruler of a country whose ancient history and monuments are not only a source of pride and inspiration to the Egyptian nation, but are a treasure house of knowledge and beauty for all the world. No less do we welcome Your Majesty as the Sovereign of a country with which we have so many common interests, and in whose ordered progress we must always feel the deepest concern.

"I raise my glass to wish Your Majesty happiness and prosperity, and to assure you of the high regard in which I and my people hold Your Majesty and the historic country over which you rule."

KING FUAD'S REPLY.

King Fuad said, in reply:—"It is with the greatest pleasure, Your Majesty, that I have accepted the cordial invitation that you have addressed to me, and which allows me to realise a wish which I have never ceased to cherish since my accession to the Throne of my ancestors.

"I thank Your Majesty warmly, and also Her Majesty the Queen, for your gracious and cordial reception. I am very touched by it, and shall always retain the most profound and agreeable recollections of your kind welcome.

"I thank Your Majesty also for the sympathy with which you have followed the progress of Egypt, and it pleases me to recognise the important part Great Britain has played in the past for the realisation of this progress. I am sure that in Egypt's new and happy era—the era of independence—this progress will continue without interruption, and that the friendship of the two countries will be reaffirmed and consolidated still more.

"I am particularly cognisant of Your Majesty's kind words and of your sentiments for Egypt and for the Egyptian nation. My people, who have a lively admiration for the British nation, attach the highest value to your friendship, and are sincerely resolved to consolidate it and to render it more intimate and fruitful.

"My Government, interpreting the sentiments of my people, will not spare a single effort to this end, and with equal confidence to that of Your Majesty I envisage the future relations of our two countries.

"I raise my glass to the health of Your Majesty, to that of Her Majesty the Queen and of the Royal Family, to the prosperity of the great British Empire and to Anglo-Egyptian good friendship, the consecration of which I am so happy to see to-day."

After the banquet the King and Queen, King Fuad and the guests went to the smaller State rooms for coffee and conversation.

FRICTION BETWEEN TWO UNIONS.

5,000 WELSH MINERS TO STRIKE TO-DAY.

The Town Crier at Maesteg, South Wales, paraded the streets last evening and announced that there would be no work at the local mines to-day. This followed a conference between the representatives of the South Wales Miners' Federation and the Craftsmen's Union, with a view to avoiding the operation of the strike notices which were issued by the Federation a fortnight ago. No agreement was arrived at, and as a result five thousand miners will be idle to-day.

Mr. Vernon Hartshorn, M.P., the local advisory agent of the Federation, explained last night that the strike was caused through some fifty men refusing to rejoin the South Wales Miners' Federation, and going over to the Craftsmen's Union. "The whole trouble has been caused," he said, "through men joining the opposition. Originally there were one hundred, but that number has been reduced to fifty. The strike must continue so long as these remain out of the Federation."

The friction between the two unions dates from the resumption of work after the coal dispute.

CHURCH ASSEMBLY.

REVISED ENGLISH PRAYER BOOK.

THE INDIAN CHURCH MEASURE.

The importance of the questions to be discussed, and the far-reaching interest taken by Churchmen and laymen in the new form of Prayer Book were indicated by the numbers who attended the opening meeting of the English Church Assembly at Church House, Westminster, yesterday. The meetings will last till Friday.

The issue before the Assembly is its acceptance or rejection of the revised Prayer Book. Every section of Church opinion was represented. The Archbishops of Canterbury and York, and nearly all the members of the Bench of Bishops were present. Among the laity was the veteran Churchman and lawyer, Sir Edward Clarke, and many women of the Assembly attended.

The motion "That the measure entitled 'The Prayer Book Measure' be finally approved" will be moved to-day. Twenty-five amendments have been placed on the agenda paper, and Lord Hugh Cecil said that, so far as he knew, all were negative to the motion for approval.

The Archbishop of Canterbury said the reasons given in the amendments would be the basis of the speeches against the motion. Oratorical efforts on the reasons need not be diminished by the amendments not being moved.

Lord Hugh Cecil said that it was for the opponents of the motion to say whether their purpose had not been served by having placed their reasons for their action on the agenda paper, without moving their amendments separately.

THE INDIAN CHURCH MEASURE.

A motion by Lord Wolmer, that general approval be given to the Indian Church measure, was carried unanimously and with cheers.

The object of the measure, he said, was to place the Indian Church on the same basis of equality as her sister Churches of the Anglican Communion.

The Bishop of Salisbury said that the Indian Christians had multiplied fortyfold, and it had become essential that freedom should be given to the Indian Church to grow up in its own way.

COUNCIL OF EMPIRE SETTLEMENT.

The Bishop of London, in moving the report of the Church of England Council of Empire Settlement, said that he wished to acknowledge the wonderful welcome he received from all parts of the Empire in his recent tour. "I do not know whether it is realised how vitally important it is to Canada to have more British sent out," he added. "Unless we are careful, we shall find out what the United States found out—that we are swamped in Canada by those other than British. In Australia, a white Australia is not so much a policy as a passion. The Labour Party there say: 'We will not have the poverty and misery produced in the East End of London. We will have a white Australia.' I also found New Zealand waiting for our people. It is pathetic to see the good men at home who are out of work to-day, while these large areas are wanting them."

The motion was passed.

A question in the paper, but not put, asked who paid for the printing and circulation of the pamphlets containing the speeches of the Archbishops of Canterbury and York on February 7th.

The Archbishop of Canterbury said that those speeches were published by the Oxford University Press entirely at its own cost. Whether it was a losing speculation he did not know. (Laughter.)

The Assembly adjourned until to-day.

COMING CELEBRATIONS IN CASHEL.

DEAN RYAN ON PROGRESS IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS.

Speaking at the opening of the Cashel Feis, which was held last Sunday, the Right Rev. Monsignor Innocent Ryan, P.P., V.G., Dean of Cashel, who presided, said that this year was the seven hundredth anniversary of the foundation on "The Rock" of King Cormac's Chapel, and President Cosgrave had promised to attend the celebrations, which they intended to hold in connection with the anniversary.

Referring to the state of the country, Dean Ryan said that it was clear to everyone that great progress had been made in national affairs. Alluding to the Irish language, he said that it was now a question of bread and butter. It devolved upon them to do their best to encourage the study of Irish, and to keep alive the customs and the spirit of the Irish race. This could be done by encouraging the spread of Irish dancing, Irish singing and Irish performances.

The Very Rev. Dr. Nolan, Maynooth College, commended the work done in Cashel that day for the promotion of the Irish language, Irish singing and dancing.

£500,000 SCHEME.

MIDDLESBROUGH PORT DEVELOPMENT.

The Tees Conservancy Commissioners decided at Middlesbrough yesterday to start work at once on the £500,000 scheme for developing the port, to make it capable of taking the largest liners. The river is to be deepened and widened, nad large areas of land are to be reclaimed. The developments will extend as far as Stockton, ten miles from the river-mouth.

AMERICAN STUDENTS AND DRINK.

RESULTS OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE'S QUERIES.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Monday.

As a result of public charges made of excessive drinking and orgies by American college graduates and high school scholars, the Anti-Saloon League of America have just issued a report of an official survey recently taken. This report states that less than one-half of one per cent. of this year's graduates of colleges and high schools of America drink to excess, and less than five per cent. drink occasionally.

The statement is based on answers to questionnaires sent to about a hundred city school superintendents and a hundred college presidents. Most of the larger colleges and universities were said to have replied that drinking among the student body had greatly diminished.

Making public the results of the survey, the League officials announce they intend to seek jail sentences for bootleggers who sell to high school and college students.

Princeton and the University of Wisconsin were the only large Universities in the country reporting any appreciable amount of drinking. Princeton reported the number to be very large—much more than one half. The University of Wisconsin reported one per cent. of its student body to be hard drinkers and 73 per cent. occasional tipplers. Harvard reported that "drunkenness has diminished among College students here," and Colgate University, of Minnesota, the University of Kansas, Stanford University, West Virginia and Depau all reported less drinking to an appreciable extent.

Stanford said:—"The present drinking problem here is about one-tenth of what it was a dozen years ago." Dartmouth replied that the amount of drinking was small, "although we think that conditions have not changed either for better or for worse since the Volstead Act went into effect." So opposed to the principle of the Volstead Law is the Dartmouth student body that the President declared the bulk of any given class in the college would go out of its way to indicate an approving attitude toward drinking, and even a disposition personally to be ranked as drinkers.

All Ohio colleges reporting were listed among those declaring drinking declining.

The fourth annual Congress of the Irish Agricultural and Technical Instruction Officers' Organisation will be held at the Technical Institute, Parnell square, Dublin, on Friday next, commencing at 10 a.m. Representatives of the Departments of Education and Agriculture will address the Congress. Papers by Mr. Joseph Hanly, F., R.C.Sc., and Mr. Nils Fredriksson (Stockholm), member of Technical Education Commission.

THE MOTHER OF NUNGESSER

STILL CONVINCED HE IS ALIVE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Monday.

Commander Byrd was to-day received by Mme. Nungesser, who had with her M. Clifford Harmon, President of the International League of Aviators, and M. Gaston Mondalfo, a friend of her son.

The American airman brought with him a magnificent basket of flowers, which he presented to Mme. Nungesser.

Mme. Nungesser showed considerable emotion as she thanked Commander Byrd for his visit, and told him with what interest she had followed his flight, and how anxious she had been during the last hours of the America's voyage. During that time, she said, she had unceasingly thought of the sufferings her son must have endured. She again expressed her conviction that her son was alive. Aviators, she said, had an anergy and a courage which set them above other men.

Commander Byrd, in his reply, said he was persuaded that her son would be found. He himself would have gone to look for him, but the preparations for his own flight had prevented this. Nevertheless, he had not been willing to start on the Transatlantic flight until he had assured himself that everything humanly possible was being done to find Captain Nungesser. As soon as he got back he would himself take part in the search.

Mme. Nungesser declared that as soon as she received good news she would leave for America, and Commander Byrd replied that American women would be proud to receive the mother of the first French airman who had attempted to fly across the Atlantic. He then told Mme. Nungesser that he had been commissioned to hand her a cheque for 30,000 dollars from the American Ladies' Help Committee.

After Mme. Nungeser had begged him to convey her thanks to the American ladies for their kind thought, the airman took his departure.

On leaving to attend M. Bleriot's luncheon Commander Byrd received an ovation from the crowd assembled outside the house.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

COLD STORAGE HOUSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Of course we have all read of the millions of money England spends annually on the Continent for dairy farm produce—in other words, for everything Ireland can produce. This is done on the Continent by large cold storage stores at Rotterdam, Amsterdam and Antwerp, which collect from all parts of the Continent. I asked the manager (who was an Irishman) of one of the largest restaurants in London the other day why he did not order his supplies from Ireland. He replied: "It is like this. We have several rooms here of different sizes to entertain from 500 to 25 guests. A gentleman comes to me, and, for instance, says: 'A friend is leaving England in forty-eight hours, and his friends want to give him a dinner. We shall want a room for 400 and a 10/6 dinner per head,' I simply wire one of the cold storages mentioned above. They put my order on a steamer that day, and they are in London Docks next morning. If I wire Ireland, I am asked why I did not let them know the day before, or, could I give them a couple of days' notice?"

This manager continued: "I know personally many other managers in the various cities in England and Scotland who would gladly prefer to help Ireland in the same way, but how can they?" I contend that Ireland could be the market garden of England. A few weeks ago I bought five very small spring onions in Liverpool market for 2d., and lettuce, radish, and, in fact, anything that must be sold fresh was an awful price. Yet in Ireland farmers seem to me to be always trying to produce things in which the whole world competes. I would like to suggest to the farmer to remember that anything he puts on the train this evening can be offered for sale fresh to millions in Lancashire and Yorkshire to-morrow morning at a competitive price. No other nation can do this. Pray, pardon this long letter, but I have been over here for four weeks, and I have noticed in the Irish Times how splendidly you have been trying to encourage suggestions.—Yours, etc.,

DESERTED CATS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Will you kindly allow me a little space to draw attention to the great cruelty of keeping a cat, making a pet of it and then deserting it? There is no excuse for such cruelty. We have in Dublin an excellent S.P.C.A. and two good animal dispensaries, where an unwanted animal can be painlessly put an end to; and this is the only humane course, failing another good home.

Some months ago a pretty young cat, tabby and white, was noticed resting for hours in a sunny spot in our garden. At intervals she trotted off, apparently for home; but as the days passed she returned oftener, every day looking more forlorn and desolate, and increasingly with that puzzled look of appeal in her eyes so well known to some of us. Her gratitude for bed, food and a little petting was shown in many ways. She is a pet, used to a comfortable home, indoors, but we cannot keep her. As it is quite possible that she may have been moved, and, in the persistent way of some cats, returned to her old home, only to find no admittance, perhaps her owner may see this letter. If so, will the owner please apply at once, or will some kind person give her a good home in the country?

As holiday time approaches, may I appeal to those who close their houses to make proper provision for their cats before doing so?—Yours, etc.,

M. EDMONDSON.

"TIPPING" 1,200 TONS OF COAL AN HOUR.

INVENTORS' CLAIMS.

An invention which, it is claimed, will revolutionise the shipment of British coal has been filed at the Patents Office by Mr. Campbell F. James, of Cardiff, and Mr. W. Richards, of Taffs Well. The principal of the apparatus is that of a bunker conveyor, which can be worked from any of the existing coal tips without interfering with the gear now in use. The inventors claim that coal can be tipped at the rate of twelve hundred tons per hour, as compared with three hundred tons by tips now in use. This would mean that a ship of 10,000 tons would be loaded in just over a day, which would mean an enormous saving in time.

A point arises, however, on the question of trimming. Shipowners state that trimmers would be unable to cope with coal at such a rate, especially when different classes of coal are being shipped. This is a question that cannot be answered until more is known about the invention. If the invention proves practicable, it is believed that the device will have far-reaching effect on the shipment of coal. Great changes will have to be made at the docks, on the railways, and at the collieries to enable the tips to be kept working.

RUTLAND HIGH SCHOOL, DUBLIN.

Miss Lucy Stanton, M.A., T.C.D., has been appointed Headmistress of the Rutland High School, and is taking up the work in September, in succession to Miss Hudson, who resigned on account of her approaching marriage. For nearly seven years she was Headmistress of the French School, Bray, under the late Principal, Miss Reilly; and she now holds the position of Senior Mistress at Raven's Croft, a well-known Girls' Boarding School in Eastbourne. Her many friends, who regretted her departure from Ireland, will welcome her return to work again in this country.

A FILM OF THE WEEK.

"PRIVATE IZZY MURPHY" AT THE METROPOLE.

In "Private Izzy Murphy," the film shown at the Metropole Cinema, Dublin, this week, the producers have sought to weld together something of those Jewish and Irish elements which have played such a prominent part in American screen development. Izzy Goldberg is represented as a clever young Jew, who runs a delicatessen shop in New York's Ghetto, and another in the Irish quarter, under the name of J. Patrick Murphy. In this latter rôle he meets and falls in love with charming Eileen Cohannigan, daughter of a leading Irish resident. At the outbreak of the Great War Izzy, under the persuasion of his sweetheart, joins the 69th New York Regiment—the Fighting Irish—and goes to France. He is seriously wounded, and his name appears in the casualty list, but when he is mourned for as dead by his lady love and his parents he recovers and comes home to a happy reunion.

The film is a clever mixture of comedy and pathos, and the situations never are allowed to get out of hand. There is just sufficient of scenes "over there" to enable one to realise what the front line was like, and there is none of the atmosphere of "we won the war." George Jessel plays the name part, and conveys a good idea of the young Jew. Patsy Ruth Millar looks and plays the part of the heroine particularly well, but the best acting in the picture is by Vera Gordon and William H. Strauss, who are ideal as the parents of Izzy.

There is a splendid supporting programme, in which one might mention the British Educational Company's film of Malta.

The Anglican clergy have fallen into an inferior position in the matter of scholarship, and the time is drawing near when it will be plainly unsuitable to apply the word "learned" to the clergy as a profession.—The Bishop of Durham.

Lasting Benefit from PHOSFERINE

Mr. Frank Westfield, Proprietor of Westfield's Orchestra at the "Prince of Wales Playhouse," Lewisham, writes:—

"I WISH to take this opportunity of telling you how my musicians and myself have benefited by taking Phosferine. Some six months ago, when my Orchestra commenced to broadcast from the 'Prince of Wales Playhouse,' Lewisham, we one and all felt a considerable strain upon our nervous systems; in fact the broadcasting of a programme of music for an hour was a considerable effort until someone suggested Phosferine. What a tremendous difference! The beneficial and lasting stimulus made it possible for us to convey to the hundreds of thousands of unseen listeners that spirit of vitality and cheerfulness which is so essential over the Radio; in fact, the many hundreds of letters we have received, one and all complimentary, make us even more thankful to that bottle of Phosferine, the first of many, which has assisted us, given us health and incidentally helped us to entertain during the past months a very considerable number of music lovers, and I have no doubt firm believers in Phosferine." (210, High Street, Lewisham, S.E.13. 17*th December*, 1926)

From the very first day you take PHOSFERINE you will gain new confidence, new life, new endurance. It makes you eat better, and sleep better, and you will look as fit as you feel. Phosferine is given with equally good results to the children.

The principal mourners included the Hon. Dominick and Mrs. Browne (son and daughter-in-law), the Hon. Geoffrey Browne (son), the Earl and Countess of Bessborough (brother-in-law and sister-in-law), and the Marquis and Marchioness of Ormonde.

The third annual Anglo-Catholic Congress opened at the Albert Hall, London, yesterday.

GIRL CYCLIST INJURED.

BISHOP'S RING FOUND.

RECOVERED IN HIS DRESSING-ROOM.

The gold Episcopal ring of the Bishop of Peterborough, Dr. Blagden, which has been missing for ten days, was found yesterday in his dressingroom. When the Bishop reported his loss last Thursday, it was thought to have slipped off his finger, and a search throughout the palace was made, and a reward was offered for the recovery of the ring.

While dressing yesterday the Bishop came across the ring among some old belongings.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.

The musical comedy revue, "High Heels and Stockings," was very cordially received at the Olympia Theatre last night. There is plenty of comedy in it, no lack of animated dancing, and the choruses are catching and tuneful. The whole production went with a swing. Hilda Newsome is a vivacious artist, who put life into her work, winning a large share of applause. Matt Hewson and Mark Rivers were among the humourists, and caused many laughs. Bernard Mervyn, Jack Burke and Sydney Mars added strength to the fun, while Yvonne Lyons and Cissie Leslie contributed to the general entertainment. The Five Poppies did some clever dances, their final ensemble making a goo impression. There was an augument orchestra under the direction of Arthur Hawkins.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

A FRENCH-BRED WINNER.

JOHN SILVER'S GOOD PERFORMANCE.

DEAD-HEAT FOR ELVASTON STAKES.

From Our Travelling Correspondent.

NOTTINGHAM, Monday Night.

It was wishy-washy sort of racing that we saw this afternoon under a grey sky and in the presence of a crowd of moderate size. A good deal of rain has fallen in the Midlands; indeed, in Warwickshire and Northamptonshire the ground is soft enough to hunt, which is an unusual condition in these parts at this time of the year, and it was very easy on the Colwick Park course this afternoon.

Trainers were complaining not long ago that they dared not run horses on the hard ground, but now, with other conditions prevailing, they let a £500 event, the Harrington Handicap, be reduced to only four runners. Of these the French-bred Frank Bare, whom Stanley Wootton acquired not long ago out of McColl's stable, was favourite, and a shade of odds had to be laid on him at the off.

He settled down last, but coming into the straight he moved up, and won easily by a length and a half from Esca, with Tillyvally, who had first made the running, a neck away, third. Nottingham Pet, who was the only one of the three backed to beat Frank Bare, was last of the lot.

Wootton had just previously won the Savile Plate for two-year-olds with John Silver, a Grey Admiral colt, sent to the Dublin sales by Mr. E. Keegan and bought by Mr. T. B. Bennett for 200 guineas. He had obviously been well tried, as the market spoke for him, and he started joint favourite at twos with Doch-an-Doris.

TROUBLESOME AT THE GATE.

Whatever chance the latter had he threw away, for he was troublesome at the gate, from which he lost some three lengths. Then he moved up second to John Silver, and when Gordon Richards began his challenge he swerved and lost more ground. John Silver had meanwhile gone out of the gate in front like an old hand, and, making all the running, beat Doch-an-Doris by a length.

Wootton started Palefroi in the Arnold Selling Race. He would not leave the gate last week for Smirke, and Marshall rode him now. After he had broken the tapes once he jumped off in front, but he was caught inside the distance by the Irish mare, Lady Sheila, who beat him by a short head. Something was thought of the performance of the winner, for Owen Anthony's stable had to go to 510 guineas to buy her in.

Little Squib has been so disappointing that Lord Glanely put her in the Newmarket sales catalogue of next week. She ran for the Holme Pierrepoint Selling Plate, and although she started without a quotation, she made all the running and won by a length and a half from Sonia Carol. Her owner was glad to let her go to the owner of the second for 260 gns.

The closest finish of the day was that for the last race, the Elvaston Stakes, where Gasconade, joining 2LO at the distance, ran a great race home with him, the judge being unable to separate them.

Sam. Darling, who owns and trains 2LO, had just won the previous race, the Bramcote Plate, with Excelsior, who, racing away from the favourite, Irish Eagle, beat him by three lengths. Lady Chesham, who owns Excelsior, does not keep many horses, but she is tremendously keen on racing.

DUKERIES FOAL PLATE.

The Dukeries Foal Plate, worth £1,000, is the chief event here to-morrow. Friar Gray, Tommy Atkins, and Cap-a-Pie are likely runners for this. The last-named two were winning races early in the season, but have not trained on well. FRIAR GRAY was beaten at Newbury over ten furlongs, and did not stay home. It is a mile here, and he has a good chance of winning. There will be some useful two-year-olds in the Clumber Plate, and I name GROTESQUE and Somme Orb as the most likely pair. The former may win. BERENICE may beat Lemurian in the Bolsover Handicap.

It may be pleasanter to make the flit to Salisbury to-morrow; for the Bibury Club meeting, if shorn of much of its old importance, is always an enjoyable function. The Wiltshire Stakes will produce Birthright, Spiramonde, probably, and HEIR APPARENT, and the last-named, whom I considered unlucky to have been beaten by Escalator at Sandown, may win.

The flying five furlongs of the Wilton Handicap should suit BAY FRIAR, and I choose him to beat Pheidon and Scarlet Orb. Some of the Wiltshire trainers often use the Maiden Plate to exploit a smart novice two-year-old. Of those that have run before I like best the chance of MANTILLA.

WATER POLO.

SENIOR LEAGUE.

SANDYCOVE v. PEMBROKE.

Quite a considerable amount of interest was evinced in this match at Blackrock Baths last evening. The weather was summer-like for the first time this season, and, as a result, the attendance was large. Pembroke was weakened by the absence of H. E. Ellerker. Nevertheless, Sandycove well deserved their victory of three clear goals, and, in addition, let many opportunities pass when goals should have been scored. Teams:—

Sandycove—C. Fagan; J. Allen, J. Monks; — Fagan; — Horlacher, J. O'Brien, and Higginbotham.

Pembroke—W. Doyle; J. Beckett (capt.), H. Burchfield; C. Heather; J. P. Shannon, C. Carroll, and A. Whiteside.

Referee—Major M. A. O'Connor.

Allen was first noticeable with a fine dribble, which ended in Doyle being tested, but the latter was not found wanting, and brought off a fine save. Monks soon after shot inches wide. The play was now transferred to the Sandycove area, and Shannon opened the scoring for Pembroke with a neat shot, which took Fagan quite unawares. This advantage was not held for long, as Higginbotham levelled matters with a fine shot from far out. Horlacher, who was playing splendidly so far, might have increased Sandycove's lead, but his effort missed the goalmouth by inches, leaving the scores at half-time:—Sandycove, 1 goal; Pembroke, 1 goal.

The game had not far advanced into the second period when it became apparent that Sandycove was lasting the better. From a well-placed pass by Horlacher, an easy goal was lost by C. Fagan. However, shortly afterwards, from a melée in front of the Pembroke goal, O'Brien pushed the ball through, giving Sandycove the lead. Allen, seizing an opportunity, put Sandycove further ahead. At this point in the game Pembroke displayed a liveliness which finished up with Shannon scoring a capital goal. This was short-lived, as Sandycove added further goals per Higginbotham and C. Fagan. Result:—

Sandycove	5 goals
Pembroke	2 goals

JUNIOR LEAGUE.

SANDYCOVE 2nd v. PEMBROKE 2nd.

The play in this game was more distinguished by the disregard of the rules of water polo rather than an effort to play the game. Teams:—

Sandycove 2nd—McCormick; Healy, J. Forde and Farrell.

Pembroke 2nd—Dr. C. Jones; J. P. Wallace, B. F. Hanrahan; I. H. M. Mecredy; G. Whiteside (capt.), J. W. Collins, and Prost.

Shortly after the start Healy was awarded a penalty, from which he scored. A good opportunity was missed by Forde, but the same player soon afterwards scored a fine goal, giving Sandycove an advantage of two goals at half-time. In the second period of the game, as a result of a rather neat bit of play, Healy scored Sandycove's third goal. A further penalty was awarded the latter player, which made the score at the final whistle:—

Sandycove 2nd	4 goals
Pembroke 2nd	Nil

PEMBROKE.—Men's senior and junior squadron trials this evening at Blackrock, 6.30 p.m. All members are requested to attend.

POWERSTOWN PARK.

GOOD-SIZED FIELDS.

DOUBLE FOR MR. F. W. WISE.

Although Monday is a most unsuitable day for racing in the Clonmel district there was a remarkably good attendance at the Powerstown Park meeting yesterday, but nothing like as large as at the previous fixture, when steeplechases run over the bank country made such a big attraction. Yesterday the steeplechases were run over bush fences, and they attracted fair sized fields, as, indeed, did all the other races. Mr. F. W. Wise, who trains his own string of horses at Cahir, carried off two of the races with Ardfinnan and Lady Spray, riding the former himself, and, with the exception of one event, all the spoils fell to horses trained in the Tipperary-Kilkenny district.

Somme Web, who was the medium of some heavy investments for a race at the recent Curragh meeting, but disappointed, had an easier task in the Cahir Plate. Not that Mr. Parkinson's horse had a one-sided win, but the opposition was not so strong, and after at one time being deprived of the lead by Inglewood, he ran on gamely to snatch a short head victory. Neither kept too straight a course in the tiring run home to the winning post, and it was by staying it out better that the son of Somme Kiss triumphed.

Polar Lass supplemented her Limerick Junction success by carrying her 7lb. penalty to victory in the Clogheen Steeplechase. It looked as if it would be a race between her and Sanders, but the latter crossed his legs and fell as they swung round the bend into the straight, at the same time bringing Elgar down with him. Elgar was beaten at the time, but Sanders was going well, and would doubtless have troubled the winner Except that J. H. Harty sustained some injuries to the neck and head, which were not serious, neither horses nor riders suffered through the mishap.

The County Kilkenny trained good thing led all the way to win a good race from Bonnie Braes and Innisfail in the Kilsheelan Hurdle Race. This daughter of By George! has been showing improvement of late, and at the recent Gowran Park meeting scored an easy win from Knockbarren, whose subsequent forward running at Limerick Junction pointed to the chance of Mr. C. Blackmore's mare now. Grosvenor Happy Boy, who started favourite, never flattered in the race, nor did South Pole, who was early tailed off.

Owing to the injury to J. H. Harty, the mount on Handy Weapon, for the Carrick Plate, fell to Joseph Canty, and for a long way it looked as if Mrs. H. Harty's horse would not be caught, but New Inn, making up ground rapidly in the straight, forged in front close home, and ultimately won with a bit to spare. Eight runners turned out for the Three Miles Steeplechase, and, once Lady Spray had taken the measure of Let Me Go at the entrance to the straight, there was never any doubt about the result. Mr. F. W. Wise then taking the mount on Ardfinnan himself proceeded to bring off the double event by winning the Foxhunters' Plate. Details:—

ATHLETICS.

A.A.A. CHAMPIONSHIPS.

RELAY EVENT GOES TO GERMANY

The first event in the concluding part of the Amateur Athletic Association's Championships at Stamford Bridge went to Germany last night. This was the Quarter-Mile Relay, and it was won by C. F. C. Preussen Krefeld, who in the first stage had only got into the final as the fastest losers, after being beaten by Achilles. In the final they beat Polytechnic by two yards, and Achilles, their previous conquerors, by eight yards, the time of the winners being the best of the evening.

In the Hop, Step and Jump another "record" and championship went abroad. In fact, the first three places in this event were taken by overseas competitors, and W. Peters, the Dutchman, went 8½ inches beyond the British record, held by D. Shanahan, of Ireland, for 18 years.

There was yet another instance of a "record" being affected when B. Szepes, the Hungarian, won the Javelin-Throwing with 212 feet 7½ inches, which was well ahead of the distance covered by H. Lindstrom, the Swede, six years ago, in the A.A.A. Championships.

No decision was arrived at regarding the Harvey Memorial Gold Cup, which is awarded to the best champion of the year, nor was there any definite decision concerning the C. N. Jackson Cup for the best performance by a British competitor. These matters will be considered by the A.A.A. Committee in the near future.

ARRIVAL OF TEAM FROM HARVARD AND YALE.

Twenty-four athlete-undergraduates from Harvard and Yale arrived at Liverpool yesterday in the White Star liner, Doric. They will compete, in what may be termed, the international universities championships with Oxford and Cambridge at Stamford Bridge on Saturday. The total strength of the party now in this country is thirty-one, which includes coaches, managers, and non-competing undergraduates. Strict diet prevailed on the voyage, and several hours' training was done daily en route.

Returning American Visitors.

W. T. Tilden, F. T. Hunter, Watson, Washburn and Mrs. Mallory, the American lawn tennis players, who have been competing at Wimbledon, will return to America on the White Star liner Majestic, which leaves Southampton for New York to-morrow.

WIMBLEDON.

A GREAT DOUBLES FINAL.

AMERICA BEATS FRANCE.

Fifteen thousand spectators followed a thrilling match in the final of the men's doubles at Wimbledon yesterday, when the Americans scored a dramatic victory. Henri Cochet had beaten W. T. Tilden and F. T. Hunter during his progress to the singles championship. In each case he had turned a two sets deficit into victory, and the Americans, smarting under it, took the centre court yesterday as challengers against Cochet and J. Brugnon. The match will form a prominent page in the history of lawn tennis, recording wonderful team work by the holders and great shot production, with a sudden reversal and the victory of Tilden and his partner.

The French pair had won the first two sets, were 5-4 in the third set, and 40-15 in the tenth game, wanting only an ace of game and match. Already the match had provided many thrills and stupendous play, and now Tilden saved the situation, gave his partner breathing space, and opened the great recovery.

The French players in turn had to fight. Brugnon weakened just a little during the fierce onslaught by the challengers, and in a little while it was two sets all. Tilden got to match point, lost it, and got it again? Could France succeed? They nearly did, but eventually Tilden got in a cross-court drive which beat Cochet and gave him and his partner victory.

The tennis played by Cochet and Brugnon in the first two sets must rank with the best doubles play ever seen. They covered the court, so that there was not an inch for their opponents to aim at. They countered volley with volley, and operated like a well-oiled machine. The Americans searched for a weak point in their opponents' armour, but could not find it. Hunter and Tilden were playing well, but not well enough against the Frenchmen. Then, at last, something entered into the game which made a difference. Perhaps the French players slackened up, though not noticeably, when victory seemed assured. Then Tilden poached, but he did it successfully, and when he called for Hunter's help he got it. Hunter played a very fine doubles game in this recovery, and the Americans, after losing the first two sets, won the next three.

All else that happened at Wimbledon yesterday pales into insignificance. Miss Betty Nuthall and Mrs. Godfree were well trounced by the American pair, Miss Helen Wills and Miss Ryan, Miss Nuthall being below her form and Mrs. Godfree unable to fight against the team work of the American ladies, who will meet Miss Heine and Mrs. Peacock, the South Africans, in the final to-day.

SCHOOLS' MATCH.

LEINSTER V. ULSTER.

The annual Inter-provincial match between Leinster and Ulster Schools, which Leinster has not won since the end of the Great War, commenced at the Leinster C.C. ground, Rathmines, yesterday. O. Skeffington and E. Ingram (Leinster), and R. J. Barnes and J. C. Entrican (Ulster), were the only players who took part in last year's match in Belfast.

The weather was bright and warm, but the wicket was soft, when Leinster started batting, and F. Ballagh and O. Skeffington made a stand. Ballagh, showing enterprise, reached 46 (8 fours). The first wicket fell at 67. The drying wicket helped the Ulster left-hander, Barnes, and two more went at 70. Boucher got 11, but nobody else tried to stop the rot. Skeffington, after batting for two hours, was out for 18, mainly singles, and the innings ended at 91.

The Northerners lost two wickets for only 7 runs in three-quarters of an hour, 16 maidens were sent down by five Leinster bowlers for 14 runs in an hour, and at the call of time, Ulster were only 17 for the loss of two wickets.

Play will be resumed to-day at 11 a.m. Score:—

IRELAND V. SCOTLAND.

THE SCOTTISH TEAM.

The Scottish team to oppose Ireland at Dublin on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, 9th, 11th and 12th of July, is as follows:—

C. S. Paterson (Carlton), Capt. D. Brown (Dunfermline), I. G. Collins (Ayr), A. R. Forrester (Glasgow Academicals), J. Kerr (Greenock), D. A. Mackay (Clydesdale), D. Mackessack (Grange), A. R. Simpson (Dunfermline), C. S. Scobie (Grange), W. A. B. Smith (Greenock), and A. J. Stevenson (Edinbro' Academicals). The team leaves for Dublin on Thursday.

With the exception of the changes already announced, A. H. Robinson (Pembroke) and T. H. Dixon (Dublin University) for H. Jackson (Ulster) and D. Walker (Cliftonville), the Irish team is likely to turn out as selected. A special wicket is being prepared in the College Park, and, granted fine weather, three full and interesting days' cricket is assured.

CENTENARY MATCH.

The beginning of the University centenary match attracted comparatively few people to Lord's, though the weather turned pleasantly fine after a threatening morning. Play proceeded on very quiet lines throughout the day. Cambridge failed to use their opportunity of batting first on a slow pitch that gave bowlers little help in the absence of sunshine, though the ball sometimes kicked when dropped short. The batsmen showed little ability to hit, and the half-hearted display, which lasted three hours and forty minutes, produced no more than 178, against which, in two hours and ten minutes, Oxford lost eight men for 140, and left off 38 behind with two wickets to fall.

Rain interfered with two matches, there being no further progress made at Edgbaston (Warwickshire v. Hampshire) or at Bristol (Gloucestershire v. Glamorganshire).

YACHTING.

THE CLYDE FORTNIGHT.

One more day will see the finish of the Clyde Fortnight Regattas. The fixture of yesterday, as on Saturday, was under the burgee of the Royal Clyde Club, which had the smartest and the best racing of the meetings. There was a strong southerly wind and heavy rain in the early hours, but it cleared at noon, while the wind was brisk and full-bodied for the remainder of the programme. The big race was partially spoiled by the breakdown of the schooner Westward, through the halyards giving way, and the match was to some extent discounted before half-way by Lulworth gaining a long lead from Shamrock and White Heather.

Handicap match for yachts of 160 tons and over. Course, 42½ miles. Start, 11 o'clock.—The four starters sailed as before on level terms, and will complete the series of regattas without handicapping. The finishing times were:—

	H.	M.	S.
Lulworth (winner)	3	55	25
White Heather (second)	4	0	3
Shamrock	4	0	30

The hard weather conditions suited the Irish yawl Lafone in the handicap for yachts between 14 and 50 tons, and she came home a good winner from the Irish cutter, Lady Edith, the Clyde yawl Dione being third. Mr. Watson's yawl Pelagia carried away her topmast when fetching into the line at the close of the first round in the twelve metre class. Sir Thomas C. Glen Coats' Iris was the winner.

AGED FARMER'S FALL DOWN MOUNTAIN SIDE.

ACCIDENT IN DONEGAL.

John McCafferty (60), farmer, of Upper Dunmore, Falcarragh, County Donegal, while tending his sheep on Lackey Mountain, situated between Errigal and Muckish Mountains, slipped on the edge of the mountain top and rolled to the bottom, a considerable distance. When found by his son he was unconscious. His son carried him a distance of three miles to the main road. A horse and cart was procured, and the injured man was taken home. He was later conveyed to the Letterkenny Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a fractured ankle.

GOLF.

THE JOHN LUMSDEN MEMORIAL.

SURPRISES AT MILLTOWN.

The first round of the tournament for the John Lumsden Memorial Cup, a beautiful specimen of the Irish silversmiths' art, which Sir John Lumsden, M.D., and his brother presented to the Leinster Branch of the G.U.I. in memory of their father, yielded several surprises at Milltown last evening. It was also productive of much good golf and many close finishes.

Inaugurated at Dollymount last year, there was an increased entry for this week's competition. Indeed, in local golfing circles the prevailing opinion is that the Lumsden Memorial Cup is destined to become, not only the most attractive, but the most important of our annual fixtures. For the tournament at Milltown there was certainly a much stronger entry than twelve months ago, the handicaps being on the average lower; but it is a pity that more of the front-rankers did not compete.

Perhaps the most unlikely result was the elimination of the solitary scratchman, M. Crowley, who was beaten by G. B. Malcolm. The latter was in receipt of four strokes, but the margin was 4 and 3, which rather suggests that the Sutton player was golfing much below his best form. As a matter of fact, he was. Crowley was trying for too much from the teeing grounds, and was as often as not off the course, and Malcolm, taking his chances, turned 2 up, and always had the issue safe coming in. But more remarkable still was the defeat of D. J. Collins by the youngest player in the field, Ronald Dwyer. The latter, who is only 16 years old, has made great progress in the game in two years, and has played with such consistency in competitions that he has worked his way to the 6 mark. Not a long hitter, this young golfer has "specialised" in the short game, and it was his skilful approaching and putting that beat a more experienced opponent on the home green. Collins, on the other hand, was not putting well (he required four putts on the second). They were all-square at the turn, and going to the 17th were still level. Dwyer, however, won that hole in 5, and another 5 at the last gave him the match by 2 up.

Some of the best golf of the evening was played by J. "Smith," of the Hermitage, in his match with Arthur Craigie. An experienced golfer, Smith, for the last few years had not been producing his best golf; but this year he is playing perhaps better than ever, his long game and approach play being as convincing as formerly. On the way out he required 40, and was then one down; but from the turn he was right on to the top of his form. He got that hole back at the 12th, won on the 16th green, and, continuing, holed the second nine on an average of fours.

B. D. Fleming, one of the local players, and Dr. Sherlock, had a fine match to the home green, where Fleming won. The Milltown man had to produce good golf to pull through, but he was capable of doing it. In fact, from the 8th to the 18th he was two better than bogey, which was very good, his opponent doing the last nine in 39. Cecil West had matters much his own way against J. Rooney from the third hole. The Greystones-Royal Dublin player was driving excellently, being only twice a little off the line, and his second shots and putting were just as convincing. He reached the turn in 37, with three putts on the second, for a lead of five holes, and he clinched matters at the 14th. The holder, J. G. Greene, and W. J. Gill had a grand match to the last green. Greene held the comfortable lead of two at the 7th, but he lost the 9th, 10th and 11th. A three at the 15th enabled Gill to square, but last year's winner again went in front at the 17th with a four, and a good half in four to finish, both holing long putts, gave him the match. H. Thrift and J. A. Rogan went to the 20th in what was a remarkably level match all the way, but the golf was not good. A capital win was that of J. L. Scott over Harry Brown, and Arthur Kilduff played sound golf to beat C. Bailey in a most interesting match by 1 up.

BACKING TIPSTER'S FANCIES.

HOW BOY SPENT GRANDFATHER'S SAVINGS.

John Reilly, a boy of sixteen years, was returned for trial on bail of £100 at Drogheda District Court yesterday on a charge of stealing £329 10s., or thereabouts, from his grandfather, Thomas Brunkard, with whom he lived at Platten, County Meath. His father, James Reilly, Donore road, was also committed on a charge of receiving £5, knowing it to have been stolen.

Giving evidence in the case against his father, John Reilly swore that on the 17th or 18th May last he took the money from a box in his grandfather's room. He could not say how much money the box contained, but there were four rolls of notes, with about £20 in each roll, and a book containing 25 £1 notes and one £5 note. He hid two of the rolls in the thatch of his grandfather's house and the other two in a field about two hundred yards from the house. He kept what he found in the book in his pocket, and after a week took what he had hidden in the field and spent it also, but he could not find what he hid in the thatch.

He spent the money foolishly on things which he saw and liked, including two motor bicycles, two suits of clothes, and numerous other articles of clothing. He also spent a lot of money betting on horses, and sent £3 to a tipster, on whose tips he put 10s. and 5s., but seldom won. He gave his father £5 with which to buy a calf.

A BAKER'S SAVINGS.

Thomas Brunkard, who is aged 78, said that he was a baker and worked every day. In December last, when he last counted the money in his box, he had £614 in gold and notes and "some rubbish of silver." He kept this box locked and the key in his pocket. In March he put £42 or £43 more into the box, but did not count the money then. On Wednesday night last, when he went to get £30 to pay a man for work done, he found that there was only £7 or £8 in the box. No one had access to the money, and he thought that nobody knew anything about it. He was earning £4 a week still, and "used to give the old lady so much to run the show"—generally about £2.

Cross-examined, the witness said that it was in prison he ought to be for leaving money there; and at a later stage he remarked that if he knew that there was going to be so much trouble he would not have spoken a word about the matter.

In reply to the Justice, the witness said that he never knew that the boy backed horses, nor did the witness ever back them—"except an odd time, about fifty years ago."

The Justice—You would not have had so much money if you did.

HEALTH OF PORTADOWN

EXCEPTION TAKEN TO A COUNCILLOR'S REMARKS.

Statements made by Councillor G. A. Locke at a recent meeting of the Portadown Chamber of Commerce, to the effect that Portadown was resting on a bed of filth, and had the highest death rate in Northern Ireland, formed the subject of a discussion at the meeting of the Urban Council yesterday. Mr. D. Rock, M.B.E., J.P. (Chairman), presided.

Mr. Gregory, Chairman of the Sanitary Committee, took exception to the statements, which, he said, had been broadcast, and were calculated to lower the dignity of the town. It was now nearly ten years since he became Chairman of the Sanitary Committee, and the reports submitted from time to time showed that the town was in a fair sanitary condition. The death rate was as low as, if not lower than, in the surrounding towns. The statements made by Mr. Locke at the Chamber of Commerce had been keenly felt by many of the townspeople.

Mr. Bell said that Portadown had the lowest death rate in Northern Ireland.

Mr. Sandford said that Mr. Locke brought the proposed main drainage scheme before the Chamber of Commerce in order to induce them to support the Council in the undertaking. Mr. Gregory knew quite well that the present drainage system was not perfect, and that a proper drainage system was necessary.

Other members having spoken, Mr. Locke, in reply, said that he would be able to face the whole Council, and to stand by the statements he had made. He was perfectly sure of his ground before he went to the meeting of the Chamber. His statement in regard to the death rate was based on the quarterly return of the Registrar, which showed that Portadown had the highest death rate in Northern Ireland, while Lurgan, five miles distant, had the lowest. In regard to the statement that Portadown was resting on a bed of filth, it was a well-known fact that in Portadown they had stone-built sewers, and Major Taylor, a competent engineer, had stated that there was filth at the bottom of some of these sewers, at least one foot in depth. He had no intention of casting a slur on the town, because there was no man who had a greater regard for the reputation of Portadown than he had. It was necessary that they should have a main drainage scheme for the health and prosperity of the town, and he was anxious that the proposed scheme should be proceeded with.

After further discussion the matter dropped.

NOT CRICKET.

UMPIRE THREATENED IN DERRY.

There were lively scenes at the conclusion of a cricket match in the first round of the North-West Senior Cup between City of Derry and Waterside last Saturday, at the grounds of the latter club.

Supporters of the Waterside team expressed strong dissatisfaction with two decisions of the City of Derry umpire giving two Waterside players out. When the second of them was given out he seemed reluctant to leave, and when persuaded to do so he flung his bat on the pitch. Threats of violence were heard from the spectators, and when the match finished, Waterside being defeated by 60 runs, there was a rush of a section of the spectators towards the pavilion, where the umpire had gone. There was a hostile demonstration against him and one of the city players. The car on which they left the field was slightly damaged, in an attempt, apparently, to assault the occupants.

PROPOSED NEW FAIR GREEN FOR LURGAN.

URBAN COUNCIL'S ATTITUDE.

At the monthly meeting of the Lurgan Urban Council yesterday, the motion standing in the name of Mr. George A. Anderson, that the Council break off negotiations with the King's Park Company in regard to the purchase of King's Park (known as the Lurgan Show Grounds) for the proposed new fair green for the town, was formally moved by Mr. Wm. Waite in the absence of Mr. Anderson.

Mr. Malcolm said that the Council made a definite bargain with the King's Park Company for the purchase of the show grounds at £1,750, which was accepted, and he considered it a very dishonourable act on the part of the Council to go back on their bargain. He wished to dissociate himself altogether with such an act of the Council.

Mr. Sullivan thought that it was not the act of the Council as a whole.

Mr. Malcolm said that if the Council made a bargain they should stick to it.

Mr. Lunn said that the bargain was broken off.

The Clerk said that it was the Council in Committee that made the offer to the King's Park Company.

Mr. Malcolm said that he repeated that the Council had gone back in their bargain, which was a dishonourable thing, and if the Council wished to be a party to such a thing it was a matter for themselves.

Eventually, on the suggestion of Mr. Lunn, it was decided to defer further consideration of the subject for the attendance of Mr. Anderson, who had given notice of motion in the matter.

CURFEW FOR DOGS.

At yesterday's meeting of the Donegal County Council a letter was read from the Department of Lands and Agriculture, stating that the regulations under the County Donegal (Control of Dogs) Order of 1913, adopted by the County Council on the 31st May last, had been approved by the Department. The Secretary said that that meant that dogs would have to be kept in from sunset to sunrise all over the county.

DOG RESCUED FROM DROWNING.

OWNER'S PLUCKY ACT.

At Whitecote Point, Portadown, last Sunday, Mr. George Steenson, caretaker of the Town Hall, put a young Pomeranian dog into the River Bann for a bath. He was surprised to find that the animal could not swim owing to the shortness of its legs, and, seeing that it was about to drown, he speedily divested himself of his clothes and, plunging into the river, saved his dog just as it was going down for the third time. He was warmly complimented for his plucky action by a number of eye-witnesses.

TORE UP HIS LICENCE.

TICKET-OF-LEAVE MAN'S MANY CYCLE THEFTS.

When a middle-aged man named Francis Moore was charged at Dundalk with stealing a bicycle from Rush, County Dublin, it was stated that he was a convict on licence, and had several aliases. He had been arrested in Northern Ireland, and handed over to the Civic Guards at the border.

In the course of a lengthy statement Moore admitted the charge, and also gave details of several other larcenies of bicycles, both in the Free State and Northern Ireland. He admitted that he was a convict on licence, stating that he had been sentenced to three years' imprisonment at Castleblayney for housebreaking, and when released in January last tore up his licence.

After he had been "knocking about" Newry for some weeks without work he stole a bicycle between Fivemiletown and Brookeborough, and sold it. Within the past week he had stolen three other machines. One he had taken from a farmyard between Newry and Whitecross, and this he had sold in County Monaghan. On the previous Sunday he stole a bicycle at Castleroche, County Louth, and when he had sold this he stole another at Balbriggan. That bicycle he had sold to a man in Joneborough, County Armagh, on the night he was arrested.

The accused man was remanded in custody.

SOMME ANNIVERSARY IN ENNISKILLEN.

Hickey, and J. Monaghan as teachers. Over twenty-eight pupils enrolled, and altogether fully forty are expected to attend, making this summer's course quite a "record." The committee has awarded ten scholarships in Irish, tenable at Mount Benedict College, Gorey.

LURGAN'S DANCE HALLS.

Mr. Herbert C. Malcolm gave notice at yesterday's meeting of the Lurgan Urban Council that he would move, at the next monthly meeting of that body, that the Council put into operation Part 4 of the Public Health Act, which relates to the licensing of music and dancing halls in the town.

Entries consisted mainly of Norfolks and grass-fed Herefords, which ruled at 6/4 to 6/6, with exceptional quality at up to 7/-. Sheep supplies were larger, an increase of 405 being penned. A quiet demand prevailed, and prices were about 4d. per stone easier for both sheep and lambs. Home and Midland Counties wethers were quoted 7/6 to 8/-. Kent ewes 3/8 to 4/4, while lambs ranged from 9/- to 9/8 as to quality, with small at 10/-, all per stone of 8lbs. to sink the offal. Calf trade was nominal. Total supplies were—163 beasts, 3,363 sheep and lambs, and 4 calves.

BIRKENHEAD.—Supplies: 450 cattle and 5,140 lambs. A larger supply of cattle met a bad trade and prices were lower. Choice small heifers made 9½d., bullocks 8¾d., middling and strong descriptions 8½d., cows and bulls 5d. to 6d. The supply of lambs was much in excess of the demand, and in consequence a bad trade was experienced; prices ranged round 1/- per lb., sinking the offal. Birkenhead dressed beef was very slow, sides making from 7½d. to 8¾d. per lb.

NEWCASTLE.—Less cattle, but finished sorts well represented. Fair trade at unchanged prices. First quality 12/6 per stone, others 11/6, and cows 8/6. Fewer sheep. Lambs good trade at 1/2 to 1/4 per lb. Young sheep 1/- to 1/1 and ewes 7½d. to 8½d. per lb.
